CHAMBERLAIN DEAD IN LONDON HOME

Veteran British Statesman Died Thursday Night After a Long Illness—Active in Politics for 50 Years.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, July 3.—Joseph Chamberlan, the famous British statesman, died at his London residence at 10:15 o'clock last night after an illness of several years. He was 78 years old and for nearly half a century he was a conspicuous figure in British public life.

Although there was no reason for secrecy, news of Mr. Chamberlain's death was not made public until today. An official bulletin was issued in the forenoon, which said:

"The Right Hon. Joseph Chamberlain died peacefully at his London residence at 10:15 o'clock last night."

Mr. Chamberlain suffered a stroke of paralysis several years ago and since then divided his time among his London and Birmingham residences and the Riviera. Last Tuesday he was stricken with heart failure and never recovered from the attack. Physicians were in constant attendance up to the hour of his death.

All of the members of the Chamberlain family were at the death bed.

News of Mr. Chamberlain's death was first telegraphed to life-long friends in his political constituency in Birmingham.

Although Mr. Chamberlain's death has been expected for a long time the news of it caused wide spread grief in the city where he had lived so long.

Hundreds of telegrams of condolence were received by the family from political friends during the day. The first came from the Birmingham district but after the intelligence had been spread by cable messages began arriving from all parts of the world.

Mr. Chamberlain has represented the parliamentary district of West Birmingham in the House of Commons since 1885 and it was only recently that he announced his retirement from public life. Although the aged statesman had been unable to attend to his parliamentary duties for some time, he had become so endeared to his constituency through long and intimate association that the voters were willing to return him to [illegible] until death [illegible]. Dear Mr. Chamberlain's [illegible] him and at periods he [illegible] unable to recognize those about him.

On November 16, 1888, Mr. Chamberlain was married in Washington, D. C. to Miss Mary Endicott, daughter of Judge W. C. Endicott of the supreme court of Massachusetts. She was the third wife, the former two being English women.

Mr. Chamberlain was supported by both Liberal and Unionist parties. He was a member of the Liberal Cabinet headed by Gladstone, but his independence led him at times to advocate measures of the Unionists.

Chamberlain first became a great figure in International politics in 1884 at a time when pressure was being brought to bear upon the Liberal government to establish a protectorate over Egypt, a proposition which the Birmingham statesman opposed vigorously.

Mr. Chamberlain was a very religious man and with the exception of Gladstone, was the only cabinet minister Great Britian ever had who taugh a Sunday school class. Mr. Chamberlain was a non-conformist and taugh a class in the Birmingham Methodist chapel.

Mr. Chamberlain was three times mayor of Birmingham. From 1880 to 1885 he was president of the local government board; from 1895 to 1903 he was colonial minister. He was a man of great learning and served for at time as Lord Rector of the Glasgow University. He was the holder of many degrees and was a fellow of Royal Society.

In the extensive obituaries published in the evening papers the most felicitous references are made to Mrs. Chamberlain to whose unceasing care and devotion is attributed the fact that the statesman survived so long after his general health became impaired.

Tariff reform was a hobby with Mr. Chamberlain and he was the sponsor for the tariff policy of the Unionists. Political enemies charged that Chamberlain forced England into war with the Boers.

Chamberlain was unalterably opposed to home rule for Ireland.

WOMAN WHO WAS SLAIN IN DOCTOR'S OFFICE.

Mrs. Louise Bailey.

Freeport, L. I., July 3.—Mrs. Louise Bailey, wife of a wealthy Brooklyn hat manufacturer, who was killed in the office of Dr. Edwin Carman, here shortly after 8 o'clock on the evening of June 30, was killed by a bullet that was meant for the physician, the police have determined. Who fired the shot and what motive was behind the attempted murder of Dr. Carman, the police have not determined. Several arrests are expected to be made soon.

Mrs. Bailey was in consultation with Dr. Carman when a revolver was pushed through the glass [illegible] and fired. Miss Brand [illegible]

MAYOR'S VETOES NOT SET ASIDE

The Freeman was in error Thursday night in stating that the two vetoes of Mayor Canfield had been turned down by the common council at its meeting the previous evening, and the original resolutions do not stand notwithstanding the veto of the mayor. On the contrary the vetoes stand. The reason is that there were only seven votes to have the resolutions stand notwithstanding the vetoes of the mayor, while under the city charter nine votes are necessary to override a veto of the mayor. If a resolution is re-passed after a veto by the mayor by two-thirds of the members in office, the veto is overridden, but not otherwise. In the case of Wednesday night's vetoes, only seven votes were cast to sustain the resolutions notwithstanding the mayor's vetoes, instead of the nine votes requisite to override the vetoes.

Section 27 of Title IV of the city charter relating to the power and duties of the mayor provides:

" * * * If he disapproves he shall return such transcript to the common council or clerk thereof, with his objections in writing, which shall be filed by the clerk, and the common council shall, at its next regular meeting thereafter, proceed to reconsider the ordinance, resolution, orders or acts thus disapproved, and if the same shall be passed by two-thirds of the members of the common council then in office the same shall have full force and effect notwithstanding the objections of the mayor. * * * * * "

Drowned Off Storm King.

Albert Eggers, aged fourteen, of Rondout, while dancing on the deck of the barge Flossie, fastened to a tow going down the Hudson river, tangoed overboard and was drowned in the Hudson river off Storm King Thursday. He was the son of Captain Rudolph Eggers, the skipper. He had been dancing with his fifteen year old cousin, Helen Pawson, of Rockland Lake. While demonstrating some new steps to her and gyrating around he tripped over a spike, tumbled overboard and sank before aid could reach him.—Newburgh Journal.

Inquiry among the local boatmen brought out the fact that the Eggers family were not known. The barge Flossie is not a local boat.

Dutch Aviator Killed.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Amsterdam, July 3.—Lieut. Spandaw of the Dutch army was killed today when an aeroplane in which he was making a flight at the Soesterberg Aerodrome collapsed. He is the first member of the Dutch army's aviation corps to be killed this year.

MEXICAN ELECTION NEXT SUNDAY

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Mexico City, July 3.—Minister of the Interior Alcocer announced today that a successor to President Huerta will be elected on Sunday. He stated that all arrangements for the election in territory controlled by the government had been completed and that Pedro Lascurain and General Velasco, who defended Torreon against General Villa, would be the only candidates.

Alcocer stated positively that General Huerta would not be a candidate. Senor Lascurain was minister of foreign relations in the cabinet of President Madero and served a few hours as provisional president before Huerta succeeded him. He is understood to have been a leading candidate for the mediators and American delegates at Niagara Falls when they were canvassing for a compromise candidate to succeed Huerta in case the Constitutionalists would accept a "neutral."

Labor Complaint Dismissed.

Inspector Shea of the state labor department lodged a complaint with Recorder Grogan against the Hutton Company claiming that it was employing boys under sixteen years of age on the brickyard and forcing them to go to work before 8 o'clock in the morning. Thursday afternoon George Hutton of the company called on Recorder Grogan and explained that the company were not aware of the age of the boys and as soon as learned it had discharged them. Mr. Hutton said the company was aware of the provisions of the labor law and had no intention of violating them, and the recorder dismissed the complaint.

The cops are now well supplied with balls and bats and could use a few fielding gloves and a catcher's mit to advantage.

VILLA THREATENS GEN. CARRANZA

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Saltillo, Mexico, July 1.—(By courier to Laredo, Texas, July 3.)—Francisco Villa has demanded of General Carranza the supply of ammunition now held at Monterey and the 2,500,000 rounds landed at Tampico from the Sunshine. The nature of the demand has added greatly to the confusion which already threatens the Constitutionalist cause with disaster.

There is serious apprehension that Villa may bring part of his force back into the northwest, take such supplies as he needs and capture the port of Tampico for his own uses.

Carranza sent a special train to Monterey this morning for General Antonio Villareal, the new secretary of war, and is holding a conference to decide what to do. Every effort is being made to guard the details of the [illegible] difficulties with Villa through the censorship. It is said that Carranza will ask Villa to send representatives to San Pedro, just this side of Torreon, to confer with a commission he will appoint to take up the question of ammunition and supplies.

Since the first break with Carranza, Villa has won every point in the controversy and has by force taken everything he needed for his campaign. His attitude toward the Constitutionalist chief is well illustrated by his seizure of all engines and rolling stock at Torreon.

Gen. Eulalio Guiterrez has arrived here. He reports that Constitutionalist troops hold the suburbs of San Louis Potosi and that the Federal troops are bottled up in the city proper. The Rebel troops there are the brigades of Generals Jesus Carranza, Augustin Castro, Jesus Guiterrez and Carrera Torres.

ATTEMPT TO WRECK FEDERAL EXPRESS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Danbury, Conn., July 3.—The third attempt in a few weeks to wreck the Federal Express today when a Boston due here [illegible] dged into a frog [illegible] from the local railroad station. The locomotive of a freight train from Maybrook to New Haven backing into the yard to take water and leave a car struck the obstruction, wrecking the locomotive and tearing up the track for a considerable distance. The Federal express was flagged and held here until the track could be cleared.

This is the second attempt to wreck a train on the New Haven road in three days, the last one being at Berlin, Conn.

Since the second attempt to wreck the Federal on June 23, when a tie jammed into the track was struck by a freight train the railroad yards here have been swarming with railroad detectives who have been aiding the local police to apprehend the wreckers. That some one who knows the railroad sleuths is responsible for the wrecks is the belief of the police as the last of the road special agents left the city last night, so that there was little danger of detection this morning.

The tie was placed on the left of the track so that it would not be in sight of the engine driver as he leaned out of the right side of the cab. The Federal had six heavily loaded sleeping cars, filled with holiday travelers into New England, one passenger coach and one combination smoker and baggage car. That the wreck of the train would have been complete was indicated from the smash-up of the freight engine. The pilot was buckled and the front of the engine badly stove in. No one on the engine was hurt.

The attempted wreck of the Federal five weeks ago was by driving an iron wedge into a frog in the yards here. The express ran over the obstruction without serious damage and the wreckers evidently profited by this experience for both attempts since have been by the use of ties jammed into the frogs in such a way that the derailment of the train was inevitable.

TWO MEN INJURED AT BREWSTER PLANT

Caps Exploded While in the Finishing Process and Superintendent Whalen and an Employe Were Painfully Hurt.

Two men were seriously injured by the explosion of a batch of fulminate of mercury caps at the Brewster Powder Company's plant in Port Ewen this morning shortly before 10 o'clock this morning. Those most seriously injured are Thomas Whalen, superintendent of the plant, and Corneille Brash, an Italian employed on the works. They are at the Kingston City Hospital under the care of Dr. George W. Ross of Port Ewen and Dr. George Chandler of this city.

The men were engaged this morning in testing out the fulminate caps, known in the trade as "exploders." The walls enclosing the building are of concrete eighteen inches thick. The caps when manufactured are covered with a foreign substance which it is necessary to clean off and they are placed in concrete boxes or trays and shaken back and forth to complete the finished product. Fulminate is a powerful explosive and ordinarily is inserted in a cartridge of dynamite to explode it. Whether it was a sudden raising of the temperature or the clashing together of the exploders which caused the explosion is not known, but without a second's warning there was a loud report and the two men mentioned above were hurled to the floor.

The force of the explosion was so severe as to blow out one side of the building which was built entirely of concrete. Fellow workmen rushed to the assistance of the superintendent and the other injured man and Dr. George W. Ross of Port Ewen was summoned. F. K. Brewster of Port Ewen, the owner of the plant, and Charles Costello, foreman on the works, and a brother-in-law of Brash, accompanied the injured men to the Kingston City Hospital. Dr. Ross and Dr. Chandler made an examination and found that Whalen was the most seriously injured. His back, arms and chest were blown full of holes where he was apparently hit by the flying bits of [illegible] which form the exploders. [illegible] eyes were saved with his [illegible] until the surgeons had completed [illegible] work and left them in as comfortable a condition as could be expected.

While their condition is serious the physicians think they have a good chance of recovery. It is stated that had the men closed a certain door of steel connecting the testing room with another portion of the building they would not have been injured. This steel door would have prevented their being hit by the flying particles.

The Brewster powder plant is located along the West Shore railroad tracks on the Van Aken property below Port Ewen and is an extensive enterprise. The buildings are necessarily of small size and isolated so as to protect the workmen and property in case of an explosion in one of the buildings. There are about forty buildings in all. The concern has been running about a year and this is its first accident.

VANISHING ODOR AT FORST'S PLANT

This morning while Commissioner McBride of the board of health was busy at work in his drug store on Broadway the telephone rang and an imploring voice urged him to come to Rondout and "smell Forst's place on Abeel street." Mr. McBride jumped into his automobile and hastened down Broadway where he picked up Sanitary Inspector Frank P. Quigley and no time was lost in reaching the Forst plant. They made a very thorough investigation but were unable to detect any unbearable odor. The people who complained, when informed of the fact, said that they had ought to have been there an hour or so ago and they would have smelled it, but as the inspection was made as soon as the complaint was received it was due to no fault of Mr. McBride or Mr. Quigley.

The same thing happened a few days ago when Mr. Quigley received a telephoned complaint in regard to the odor and he hastened to the plant but when he reached there he could not find the terrible odor complained of.

A number of complaints have been received by the board of health from time to time in regard to the odor from the Forst plant but when inspections were made no odor was found.

CHAMBERLAIN DEAD IN LONDON HOME

Veteran British Statesman Died Thursday Night After a Long Illness—Active in Politics for 50 Years.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, July 3.—Joseph Chamberlan, the famous British statesman, died at his London residence at 10:15 o'clock last night after an illness of several years. He was 78 years old and for nearly half a century he was a conspicuous figure in British public life.

Although there was no reason for secrecy, news of Mr. Chamberlain's death was not made public until today. An official bulletin was issued in the forenoon, which said:

"The Right Hon. Joseph Chamberlain died peacefully at his London residence at 10:15 o'clock last night."

Mr. Chamberlain suffered a stroke of paralysis several years ago and since then divided his time among his London and Birmingham residences and the Riviera. Last Tuesday he was stricken with heart failure and never recovered from the attack. Physicians were in constant attendance up to the hour of his death.

All of the members of the Chamberlain family were at the death bed.

News of Mr. Chamberlain's death was first telegraphed to life-long friends in his political constituency in Birmingham.

Although Mr. Chamberlain's death has been expected for a long time the news of it caused wide spread grief in the city where he had lived so long.

Hundreds of telegrams of condolence were received by the family from political friends during the day. The first came from the Birmingham district but after the intelligence had been spread by cable messages began arriving from all parts of the world.

Mr. Chamberlain has represented the parliamentary district of West Birmingham in the House of Commons since 1885 and it was only recently that he anounced his retirement from public life. Although the aged statesman had been unable to attend to his parliamentary duties for some time, he had become so endeared to his constituency through long and intimate association that the voters were willing to return him to [illegible] until death [illegible] Mr. Chamberlain's [illegible] him and at periods he was unable to recognize those about him.

On November 16, 1888, Mr. Chamberlain was married in Washington, D. C. to Miss Mary Endicott, daughter of Judge W. C. Endicott of the supreme court of Massachusetts. She was the third wife, the former two being English women.

Mr. Chamberlain was supported by both Liberal and Unionist parties. He was a member of the Liberal Cabinet headed by Gladstone, but his independence led him at times to advocate measures of the Unionists.

Chamberlain first became a great figure in International politics in 1884 at a time when pressure was being brought to bear upon the Liberal government to establish a protectorate over Egypt, a proposition which the Birmingham statesman opposed vigorously.

Mr. Chamberlain was a very religious man and with the exception of Gladstone, was the only cabinet minister Great Britian ever had who taugh a Sunday school class. Mr. Chamberlain was a non-conformist and taugh a class in the Birmingham Methodist chapel.

Mr. Chamberlain was three times mayor of Birmingham. From 1880 to 1885 he was president of the local government board; from 1895 to 1903 he was colonial minister. He was a man of great learning and served for at time as Lord Rector of the Glasgow University. He was the holder of many degrees and was a fellow of Royal Society.

In the extensive obituaries published in the evening papers the most felicitous references are made to Mrs. Chamberlain to whose unceasing care and devotion is attributed the fact that the statesman survived so long after his general health became impaired.

Tariff reform was a hobby with Mr. Chamberlain and he was the sponsor for the tariff policy of the Unionists. Political enemies charged that Chamberlain forced England into war with the Boers.

Chamberlain was unalterably opposed to home rule for Ireland.

MAYOR'S VETOES NOT SET ASIDE

The Freeman was in error Thursday night in stating that the two vetoes of Mayor Canfield had been turned down by the common council at its meeting the previous evening, and the original resolutions do not stand notwithstanding the veto of the mayor. On the contrary the vetoes stand. The reason is that there were only seven votes to have the resolutions stand notwithstanding the vetoes of the mayor, while under the city charter nine votes are necessary to override a veto of the mayor. If a resolution is re-passed after a veto by the mayor by two-thirds of the members in office, the veto is overridden, but not otherwise. In the case of Wednesday night's vetoes, only seven votes were cast to sustain the resolutions notwithstanding the mayor's vetoes, instead of the nine votes requisite to override the vetoes.

Section 27 of Title IV of the city charter relating to the power and duties of the mayor provides:

" * * * If he disapproves he shall return such transcript to the common council or clerk thereof, with his objections in writing, which shall be filed by the clerk, and the common council shall, at its next regular meeting thereafter, proceed to reconsider the ordinance, resolution, orders or acts thus disapproved, and if the same shall be passed by two-thirds of the members of the common council then in office the same shall have full force and effect notwithstanding the objections of the mayor. * * * * * "

Drowned Off Storm King.

Albert Eggers, aged fourteen, of Rondout, while dancing on the deck of the barge Flossie, fastened to a tow going down the Hudson river, tangoed overboard and was drowned in the Hudson river off Storm King Thursday. He was the son of Captain Rudolph Eggers, the skipper. He had been dancing with his fifteen year old cousin, Helen Pawson, of Rockland Lake. While demonstrating some new steps to her and gyrating around he tripped over a spike, tumbled overboard and sank before aid could reach him.—Newburgh Journal.

Inquiry among the local boatmen brought out the fact that the Eggers family were not known. The barge Flossie is not a local boat.

MEXICAN ELECTION NEXT SUNDAY

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Mexico City, July 3.—Minister of the Interior Alcocer announced today that a successor to President Huerta will be elected on Sunday. He stated that all arrangements for the election in territory controlled by the government had been completed and that Pedro Lascurain and General Velasco, who defended Torreon against General Villa, would be the only candidates.

Alcocer stated positively that General Huerta would not be a candidate. Senor Lascurain was minister of foreign relations in the cabinet of President Madero and served a few hours as provisional president before Huerta succeeded him. He is understood to have been a leading candidate for the mediators and American delegates at Niagara Falls when they were canvassing for a compromise candidate to succeed Huerta in case the Constitutionalists would accept a "neutral."

Labor Complaint Dismissed.

Inspector Shea of the state labor department lodged a complaint with Recorder Grogan against the Hutton Company claiming that it was employing boys under sixteen years of age on the brickyard and forcing them to go to work before 8 o'clock in the morning. Thursday afternoon George Hutton of the company called on Recorder Grogan and explained that the company were not aware of the age of the boys and as soon as learned it had discharged them. Mr. Hutton said the company was aware of the provisions of the labor law and had no intention of violating them, and the recorder dismissed the complaint.

VILLA THREATENS GEN. CARRANZA

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Saltillo, Mexico, July 1.—(By courier to Laredo, Texas, July 3.)—Francisco Villa has demanded of General Carranza the supply of ammunition now held at Monterey and the 2,500,000 rounds landed at Tampico from the Sunshine. The nature of the demand has added greatly to the confusion which already threatens the Constitutionalist cause with disaster.

There is serious apprehension that Villa may bring part of his force back into the northwest, take such supplies as he needs and capture the port of Tampico for his own uses.

Carranza sent a special train to Monterey this morning for General Antonio Villareal, the new secretary of war, and is holding a conference to decide what to do. Every effort is be[illegible] made to guard the details of the [illegible] difficulties with Villa through the censorship. It is said that Carranza will ask Villa to send representatives to San Pedro, just this side of Torreon, to confer with a commission he will appoint to take up the question of ammunition and supplies.

Since the first break with Carranza, Villa has won every point in the controversy and has by force taken everything he needed for his campaign. His attitude toward the Constitutionalist chief is well illustrated by his seizure of all engines and rolling stock at Torreon.

Gen. Eulalio Guiterrez has arrived here. He reports that Constitutionalist troops hold the suburbs of San Louis Potosi and that the Federal troops are bottled up in the city proper. The Rebel troops there are the brigades of Generals Jesus Carranza, Augustin Castro, Jesus Guiterrez and Carrera Torres.

ATTEMPT TO WRECK FEDERAL EXPRESS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Danbury, Conn., July 3.—The third attempt in a few weeks to wreck the Federal Express today when a Boston due here [illegible] ledged into a frog [illegible] railroad yards from the local railroad station. The locomotive of a freight train from Maybrook to New Haven backing into the yard to take water and leave a car struck the obstruction, wrecking the locomotive and tearing up the track for a considerable distance. The Federal express was flagged and held here until the track could be cleared.

This is the second attempt to wreck a train on the New Haven road in three days, the last one being at Berlin, Conn.

Since the second attempt to wreck the Federal on June 23, when a tie jammed into the track was struck by a freight train the railroad yards here have been swarming with railroad detectives who have been aiding the local police to apprehend the wreckers. That some one who knows the railroad sleuths is responsible for the wrecks is the belief of the police as the last of the road special agents left the city last night, so that there was little danger of detection this morning.

The tie was placed on the left of the track so that it would not be in sight of the engine driver as he leaned out of the right side of the cab. The Federal had six heavily loaded sleeping cars, filled with holiday travelers into New England, one passenger coach and one combination smoker and baggage car. That the wreck of the train would have been complete was indicated from the smash-up of the freight engine. The pilot was buckled and the front of the engine badly stove in. No one on the engine was hurt.

The attempted wreck of the Federal five weeks ago was by driving an iron wedge into a frog in the yards here. The express ran over the obstruction without serious damage and the wreckers evidently profited by this experience for both attempts since have been by the use of ties jammed into the frogs in such a way that the derailment of the train was inevitable.

TWO MEN INJURED AT BREWSTER PLANT

Caps Exploded While in the Finishing Process and Superintendent Whalen and an Employe Were Painfully Hurt.

Two men were seriously injured by the explosion of a batch of fulminate of mercury caps at the Brewster Powder Company's plant in Port Ewen this morning shortly before 10 o'clock this morning. Those most seriously injured are Thomas Whalen, superintendent of the plant, and Corneille Brash, an Italian employed on the works. They are at the Kingston City Hospital under the care of Dr. George W. Ross of Port Ewen and Dr. George Chandler of this city.

The men were engaged this morning in testing out the fulminate caps, known in the trade as "exploders." The walls enclosing the building are of concrete eighteen inches thick. The caps when manufactured are covered with a foreign substance which it is necessary to clean off and they are placed in concrete boxes or trays and shaken back and forth to complete the finished product. Fulminate is a powerful explosive and ordinarily is inserted in a cartridge of dynamite to explode it. Whether it was a sudden raising of the temperature or the clashing together of the exploders which caused the explosion is not known, but without a second's warning there was a loud report and the two men mentioned above were hurled to the floor.

The force of the explosion was so severe as to blow out one side of the building which was built entirely of concrete. Fellow workmen rushed to the assistance of the superintendent and the other injured man and Dr. George W. Ross of Port Ewen was summoned. F. K. Brewster of Port Ewen, the owner of the plant, and Charles Costello, foreman on the works, and a brother-in-law of Brash, accompanied the injured men to the Kingston City Hospital. Dr. Ross and Dr. Chandler made an examination and found that Whalen was the most seriously injured. His back, arms and chest were blown full of holes where he was apparently hit by the flying bits of [illegible] which form the exploders. [illegible] eyes were injured with his [illegible] unbearable odor. The people who complained, when informed of the fact, said that they had ought to have been there an hour or so ago and they would have smelled it, but as the inspection was made as soon as the complaint was received it was due to no fault of Mr. McBride or Mr. Quigley.

The same thing happened a few days ago when Mr. Quigley received a telephoned complaint in regard to the odor and he hastened to the plant but when he reached there he could not find the terrible odor complained of.

A number of complaints have been received by the board of health from time to time in regard to the odor from the Forst plant but when inspections were made no odor was found.

All members of the Auxiliary of the Home of the Holy Childhood are urgently requested to meet at St. Mary's school hall this evening at 8:30 o'clock.

Eagle Barber Shop Sold.

The Eagle Hotel barber shop, which has been conducted by William A. Post, was sold today to Bernard Wolff, formerly of New York city.

VANISHING ODOR AT FORST'S PLANT

This morning while Commissioner McBride of the board of health was busy at work in his drug store on Broadway the telephone rang and an imploring voice urged him to come to Rondout and "smell Forst's place on Abeel street." Mr. McBride jumped into his automobile and hastened down Broadway where he picked up Sanitary Inspector Frank P. Quigley and no time was lost in reaching the Forst plant. They made a very thorough investigation but were unable to detect any unbearable odor. The people who complained, when informed of the fact, said that they had ought to have been there an hour or so ago and they would have smelled it, but as the inspection was made as soon as the complaint was received it was due to no fault of Mr. McBride or Mr. Quigley.

The same thing happened a few days ago when Mr. Quigley received a telephoned complaint in regard to the odor and he hastened to the plant but when he reached there he could not find the terrible odor complained of.

DIPLOMACY HOLDS CARRANZA'S REPLY

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, July 3.—Pressure by the Latin-American diplomatic corps in Mexico City is the real reason for the delay in sending to Washington Carranza's reply to the American demand that he outline his purposes toward the American forces now in Mexico. Latin-Americans here, who have been working in unison with their colleagues at the Carranza capital, admitted as much today. And they expressed confidence that they yet would be able to get a reply made to this government that would satisfy the United States, or at least would be made the medium for further negotiations.

Meanwhile, however, there will be no let up in the activities of the United States. The militia forces are being distributed at strategic points along the border ready for immediate action. General Pershing has shortened his line of communication and massed his forces so that he can hold his positions indefinitely. With the house in recess over July 4th, there is not the slightest chance for any call upon the legislative department for assistance by the executive branch before Wednesday at the earliest and gossip in official circles today was that the president has abandoned for the present the plan of passing the issue on to congress.

Advices to the state department from Mexico City say that President Wilson's speech of last Friday night in New York has had the effect there of allaying fears that the United States has decided on war no matter what attitude the de facto government assumed. As a result the sentiment among General Carranza's advisers is said to be much more friendly than it has been during the last few weeks.

The always present danger, officials say, is of a clash between the American and Mexican forces which would be precipitated by the strain under which both sides are laboring. Every effort will be made to prevent any action by the Americans that would result in any such development. The National Guard commanding officers have been warned that they must hold their men in check at all times and that there must be no reprisals undertaken except under the direct orders from General Funston.

LIGHTNING STRIKES WILBER SAWMILL

The old Wilber sawmill near Woodstock, which has been in operation for more than a hundred years, was struck by a bolt of lightning at 9 45 o'clock Sunday night and burned to the ground, entailing a total loss The property was owned and operated by Mrs. Emma Wilber, widow of Abram Wilber, and was not insured.

The storm Sunday night was the most severe that Woodstock has experienced in many years. The lightning was continous and rain fell in torrents. A particularly sharp bolt of lightning was followed by a crash of thunder and the splintering of timber, and an instant latter flames shot up from the old mill.

The Woodstock fire department turned out promptly in spite of the rain and twenty-five men manned the hand-engine which is used They were assisted by other residents of the vicinity and a number of the men from the artists' colony joined in the work. The pump feeds a two inch hose but the stream was insufficient to quench the flames, which spread with great repidity. In spite of the drenching rain, men, women and children from all parts of Woodstock flocked to the scene and endeavored to help in the work. Neither the rain nor the stream from the hand-engine apparently had any effect on the fire and the well-seasoned timbers burned like tinder. Mrs Louis Sully Denier, who resides near the mill, was one of the first to reach the fire and directed the firemen and helped them in their work. The quantity of timber used in the construction of the mill was so great that the fire burned for nearly two hours.

Abram Wilber conducted the mill for many years until his death, which occurred about a year ago, since when it has been continued by his wife The mill was kept busy during the winter and spring but on account of the low water had shut down several weeks ago.

Lightning struck in many places in and around Woodstock. Chickens which had roosted in trees at sundown were killed by the wholesale and littered the ground in many parts of Woodstock this morning. Of a flock of three hundred little chickens owned by Mrs. Denier, many were killed, either by lightning or fright.

Wilbur Feds Defeat Rhinecliff.

The Wilbur Feds traveled to the village of Rhinecliff on Sunday and administered a severe trouncing to the baseball team of that place, the score being 8 to 0. Stout was in the points for the Feds and was in fine form, allowing but five hits. Bush was at the receiving end and, as usual, caught an excellent game. The Feds expect to play at Mohonk Lake on July 4, with Cullen, Stout and Bush as the battery. If 'Chief' Leonard plays in his usual form, as displayed at Rhinecliff Sunday, the Feds will no doubt return victors.

CAMP WHITMAN SIGHTS AND RUMORS

First Sight The Freeman Reporter Saw Was Corporal Harlow as Traffic Cop—Company at Work on Camp Duties—Still Carrying Water.

Everything on wheels that could give off an odor of gasoline was pressed into service by Newburgh and Poughkeepsie automobile men on Sunday to carry passengers to Camp Whitman—even moving vans fitted with board seats inside did duty in carrying passengers. In the afternoon the stream of vehicles flowed into camp with scarcely a break and there were as many automobiles there as were at the Highland boat races a few weeks ago. There were thousands of visitors to the various regiments. Kingston contributed its share and included in the throng from this city was a Freeman reporter intent on seeing what the camp was like and how the boys from home were getting along.

With the boys fit and fine, and only two on the sick list, Company M on Sunday swung into its fourth day at Camp Whitman with rumors current in camp that they would be sent to the Mexican border some time this week, probably on Thursday, also rumors that they would remain in camp all summer—so take your choice. Aside from the necessary camp work that had to be done it was a day of rest in reality for the boys, as they were not forced to drill, and were at liberty to talk with friends and relatives from Kingston, who were able to pay them a visit, and heartily glad were the boys to greet familiar faces from "the old home town."

Corporal Harlow Worked.

It has been said that the boys had time to devote to visiting, and they had, the majority, but among the ones who were kept busy was Corporal Edgar W. Harlow, of The Freeman force, who was the first member of Company M we met Sunday as the reporter swung in towards the camp. He, with others, was doing police duty at the entrance to Camp Whitman and bore a large sign across his chest bearing the words "Provost Guard" and he was armed only with a policeman's club. His duty consisted in enforcing the traffic regulations for the host of automobiles that descended down on the camp that day, and he held them up and passed them along in a manner that showed he had not watched for nothing the work of Policeman P. J. White, Edwin Shader, Cornelius Van Buren and other efficient members of Kingston's police force, doing traffic duty on Broadway on a holiday.

Corporal Harlow, however, was able to tear a minute from his duties while he shook hands and said he was having a dandy time at camp. The corporal is enjoying the best of health, and wanted to be remembered to his host of friends.

Private Sullivan to Rescue.

Corporal Harlow gave general directions to follow in finding where Company M was encamped, but somebody else gave different directions and the reporter got off the trail.

"Looking for Company M," asked a familiar voice when he had gone but a short distance.

The reporter turned and saw the smiling face of Private Henry Sullivan who escorted him to where Company M was camped.

Only One Injured Soldier.

"Just a dislocated shoulder" said Private Michael Walsh as he stepped up on to shake hands as he saw the reporter looking at his one arm which he carried in a sling. "Yep" he con tinued "got it boxing with another fellow the other night."

"Who were you boxing with?" we asked.

"Well I don't mind telling you only you would stick it in The Freeman, and I would not want my friends to hear who got the best of me that time," said Walsh.

Twenty-Four Sleep in One Tent.

Just then a private who was busy straightening out his bedding turned and the reporter recognized Corporal Arthur Mesereau. Asked the usual question—"Well how do you like camp life," he replied, "All right so far."

"Is that where you sleep nights?" pointing to the tent.

"Yes with fifteen others" said he with a smile, and continued he "Twenty-four sleep in that last tent."

Where Company M Is Camped.

Company M is the next to the last line of tents out. They are pitched in an orchard and when the boys reached the site found it two feet high with hay and weeds and devoted considerable time and energy to cleaning up and cutting down the hay and weeds and clearing off the ground. Trenches also had to be dug to carry off the water so that it would not invade the tents.

At one end of the company's street is the cook tent and at the other is the tent where the rookies are camped.

Down Grade For Some.

Entering the company's street from the road you walk up a steep pitch of ground. Along this steep pitch are the two tents which contain 24 and 16 boys respectively.

The reason so many are forced to sleep in the two tents is because the boys have not received their full equipment of camp tents as yet, but expect to get them some time this week. When all equipment is received the boys will sleep eight in a tent.

As you reach the top of the ascent the company street stretches away down an incline that is not quite so steep.

The majority of the tents are pitched under the shade trees, and with the boys lounging around reading the papers while some are shaving and others straightening up the camp presented a sight that will not be forgotten in many years by us.

Worst Site in Camp.

When the boys reached their alloted site on Thursday afternoon they found they had probably the worst site in camp so far as work to be done went. But if there comes a heavy rain they may be very thankful for the site, as it is much better drained than are some others.

Rookies Unequipped.

The rookies, many of them, have not been alloted their uniforms or guns, but said they expected to receive them some time this week. The equipment is packed in railroad cars, but there is certain red tape to be unrolled before it is given out. The rookies, however, are happy, and are looking forward to the day when they will be given their equipment.

Rookies Are Hazed.

Talking with the boys brought out the fact that considerable sport is had in camp especially at night when the older boys in the service devote a little time to showing the rookies that hazing is not yet extinct.

Private John Smith was one of the first rookies to ascertain that fact He was soundly asleep the other night when the tent he occupied was invaded and he awoke from a sound sleep under the impression that he was being carried to Mexico over some rather broken ground.

How It Is Done.

Several of the boys had grasped his blanket, in which he was rolled, by the ends and dragged him over five blocks and left him in another camp.

Their Faces Are Painted.

Another favorite diversion is painting the rookies' faces—no, girls, they do not use the usual stuff you do—graphite is used and "artistic" black streaks are implanted on the faces of the rookies. To make it harder the rookies have to walk some distance to get water to wash up.

Corporal Planthaber Explains.

It might be added here that the boys of Company M still have to walk a mile and a half for water for camp use. That is they did have to, but as

REUBEN BERNARD DEAD AT AGE OF 86

Reuben Bernard died at his residence, corner of Fair and Pearl streets, Kingston, on Saturday afternoon, July 1 His death occurred in the home where he had resided for more than sixty years.

Mr Bernard was born in the town of Plattekill, this county, February 24, 1830, and was the son of David Lawrence Bernard and Abbey Demarest. At the time of his death he was the oldest member of the Ulster county bar, having been admitted to practice August 8, 1851.

He was educated in the public schools, at Amenia Seminary and New Paltz Academy and studied law at New York State and National Law School at Ballston Spa and with Jonathan H. Hasbrouck of Kingston.

Soon after his admission he began his professional career at Kingston, where he continued without change or interruption the practice of his profession until January 1, 1909.

After retiring from active practice, Mr Bernard devoted his entire time to the management and interest of the Kingston National Bank, of which institution he was president for many years. On January 1, 1916, by reason of advanced age, he retired from the bank both as director and president. He became connected with the bank in 1858 and for more than fifty years was continuously officially connected with it. Since 1877 he served as its president, covering a period in that capacity of 39 years. It was under his administration that the bank attained a strong and commanding position among the financial institutions of the county.

For many years Mr. Bernard was connected with the board of trade of Kingston, serving as director and president. During this period he devoted much time and energy and contributed freely to the promotion and development of the enterprises of the board.

On coming to Kingston Mr. Bernard became affiliated with the Fair Street Reformed Church and during all his years was an active member and for many years an official of the church. He was an enthusiastic Sunday school worker, both in his own church and in the cause at large.

During his many years of practice he was interested as attorney or counsel in many important legal matters in the county.

For many years he was the attorney for the Huguenot National Bank of New Paltz, the Ulster County Savings Institution, Kingston National Bank and New Paltz Savings Bank Early in his career he established an enviable reputation for integrity and fair dealing and as a safe and conservative counsel This remained with him through his professional life and by reason of the same he was largely engaged in settlement of estates, investing of money and in the transaction of business of a confidential nature He was distinguished for his loyalty to the religious, financial and social institutions with which he was identified.

He was learned and highly regarded in his profession.

He was conspicuous in his personality by reason of his charity of thought, freedom from criticism, culture of mind and his kind and courteous treatment of all with whom he came in contact.

He was respected in the business community for his integrity.

Mr Bernard married Jane C Crispell, only daughter of Dr. G D. Crispell, deceased, on June 3, 1856.

He is survived by three daughters, Amelia, the wife of Harry S Crispell, and the Misses Mary Lawrence Bernard and Sarah C. Bernard.

TEXAS HEAT HITS NEW TROOPS HARD

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

El Paso, Tex., July 3.—Blazing sunshine and blistering desert has played havoc with some of the newly arrived militiamen who are not yet seasoned to campaigning. There have been more than a score of heat prostrations and some of the hospital outfits have been kept busy ministering to the guardsmen who collapsed under the heat and fatigue.

Fresh cases of sniping and the shooting up of the town of Nulo, 75 miles southeast of here by Mexican raiders is giving the state troops an idea of real soldiering before they have got fairly settled.

The latest survivor of the Carrizal fight to be found is Corporal F. X. Cooke of K Troop, Tenth Cavalry, who was brought to Juarez from Villa Ahumada by Carranzista troops. It was expected that he would be turned over to the United States military authorities some time today.

Reports of firing on American border patrols by Mexicans under cover of darkness gave the guardsmen a real thrill and indicated that they might be seeing action soon. Near Douglas there was a case of sniping last night when Mexicans fired across the line at American patrols.

Thirty-five carloads of state troops were expected to arrive on the border during the course of the day to reinforce the troops already on the ground. These include both infantry and cavalry.

One of the difficulties in handling the guardsmen by officers of the regular army has developed in keeping their enthusiasm in check. So joyful were some of the militiamen at reaching camp after five or six days spent in hot, stuffy day coaches that they went at their routine duties at high gear and suffered in health in consequence.

The brand of weather in this part of Texas is such that it requires some little time for a newcomer to acclimate himself.

Regulars who have long been used to campaigning on the border go at their tasks slowly and never perform that can be accomplished in the cool of the morning or evening.

When routine takes them out of the shade they go at their work slowly and methodically and with no waste motions By thus resting at intervals they keep themselves more fit for drill.

On the contrary many of the guardsmen have spent their spare time in sightseeing and in getting baked by the sun and covered with alkali dust

The regulars, when the guardsmen first began arriving on the border, regarded the state troops with professional aloofness But as the militiamen continued to arrive, all splendidly equipped for any sort of service whatsoever the regulars began to take a new view.

"Just teach them to look after themselves a little bit and they will grow into fine soldiers," said one veteran after looking over the new arrivals

"They are fitted out like regulars It is not much like it was in the days of the Spanish war. These boys look fit and they are anxious as they can be to get to work. Of course this hot weather will take the ginger out of any one. Even the regulars who are used to it complain sometimes, but the regular has learned not to hop around in the hot sunshine. You've got to loaf a little bit to be a good soldier down this way."

The outbreak at Nulo was the most serious incident reported during the past twenty-four hours. The Mexicans raided the principal store in the place and also looted Craft's mining camp before galloping away.

Captain Leroy Elting and two squadrons of the Eighth Cavalry made a dash after the bandits who scattered and hastened away at top speed. When Captain Eltinge returned to Fort Hancock he said that the Mexicans had made such speed that there was not a chance to exchange a volley with them.

Quiet was reported from Brigadier General John J. Pershing's column, but intermittent sniping against truck trains continues The impression prevails here that General Pershing is drawing in his forces.

The relief expedition from the Eleventh Cavalry which went out to look for more survivors of the Carrizal fight has returned after a torturing trip. The men missed the water supply and except for stumbling upon an uncharted spring, some of them might not have been able to get back at all. When they marched into camp buzzards had already begun to wheel in the sky behind them.

A report from Juarez says that First Chief Carranza is expected to return the bodies of Captain Boyd and Lieutenant Adair to American soil. They were slain at Carrizal.

Refugees from south of the border say that conditions in Mexico are growing worse daily. Thirty Americans arrived from Juanojuato with tales of hardships undergone at the hands of Mexicans. Refugees from Sonora brought word that an epidemic of smallpox has broken out in that state.

Among the state troops scheduled to get in today were the Eighth Massachusetts and Troops A, B, C and D of the Cavalry.

NEW CITIZENS TO JOIN WELCOME TO FOURTH OF JULY

Patriotism Pre-eminent Feature of Observance in Kingston Where City Hall Grounds Will be Scene of Inspiring Exercises—Public Urged to Take Part.

Citizens are requested not to forget to display their patriotism by attending the Municipal Fourth of July celebration at the city hall park tomorrow morning at 10.30 o'clock. The committee in charge of the affair consists of Alderman Wright J. Smith, chairman, Mayor Palmer Canfield, Jr., Walter P. Crane, president of the common council, Aldermen Samuel S. Brown, John A. Fischer, Howard J. Shultis and James W. Purvis, with Harold O. Styles, secretary. The committee has made every effort to make the affair a success and now appeals to the people to respond by joining in the celebration A committee of citizens was appointed which has been heretofore published.

A special invitation was sent to each member of this committee urging them to assist in the success of the celebration by their presence during the exercises. An invitation was sent to each fraternal and other organization in the city requesting their members to attend. City officials and city boards were extended an invitation in order that municipal officials would be well represented. An invitation was sent to the principal of each school in the city requesting them to urge their respective scholars to attend. The committee has been unable to ascertain, however, whether this request was complied with as no acknowledgment was received from any of the principals, but they are anxious to have as many students as possible present.

Mayor Canfield secured the names and addresses of all persons who have been naturalized during the past five years, and a special invitation was sent to each, enclosing a small flag pin to wear in order that they might be recognized and be given a reserved seat. It is expected that Pratt Post, G A. R., and Colonial Camp, Spanish War Veterans, will each attend in a body. Company M were to attend in a body, and each member of the newly formed company and of the Old Guard are invited and urged to attend.

Every possible arrangement for the comfort of the people attending has been made. The benches in the city court and recorder's court will be used. Through the good graces of Captain Fowler, the bleachers and chairs from the armory have also been secured. Stock & Cordts and A. Carr & Son have kindly donated the use of camp stools. An effort will be made to seat all ladies and all elderly people. C hall will be handsomey decorated as will the platform

In case of rain the exercises will be held in the high school auditorium. Muller's band of twenty-five pieces will furnish music and will render a concert from 10 to 10:30 o'clock, when the exercises will begin.

A concert will also be given by the band during the afternoon at the city hall park from 2 30 to 5 o'clock.

Congressman William S. Bennet from New York city, the speaker of the day, is one of the leading lawyers and orators in the state Those who fail to attend will certainly miss an opportunity to absorb some patriotic inspiration.

Boy Scouts will be in attendance to render any necessary assistance and Uncle Sam has accepted an invitation and is expected to be present. Everyone is requested to carry a small flag.

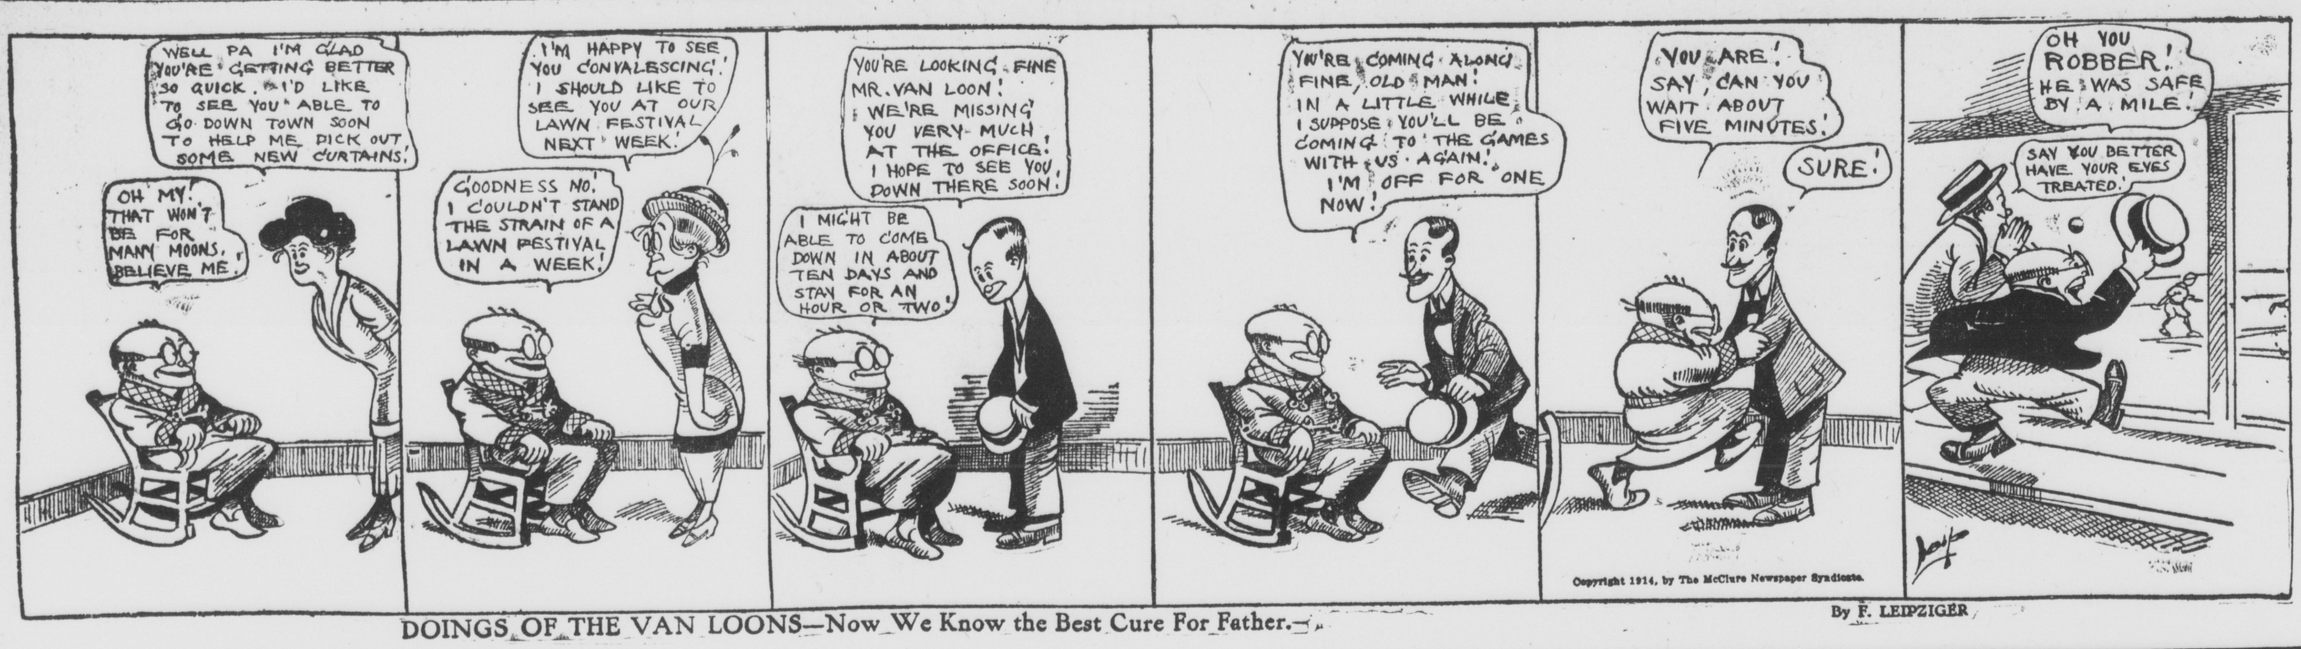

TWO HURT WHEN HIT BY AUTOS

Dewey Hornbeck, 17 years old, was hit by the automobile driven by William R. Kraft of Fair street, on Broadway near Foxhall avenue on Saturday, but was not seriously injured. According to Policeman Boyd's report of the accident Kraft blew his horn and then swerved his car in towards the gutter to avoid hitting Hornbeck, but he evidently did not hear the horn and stepped directly in front of the machine. He was hit by the mud guard and hurled to the ground. Kraft stopped his car and with the assistance of Policeman Boyd took the young man to the Kingston City Hospital where he was examined and found to be suffering more from shock than anything else.

Another auto accident occured on Sunday when John Myers of Hudson street, was hit by a car bearing an out of town number plate. This occured at Broadway and Rogers street. Myers was knocked down, but was not injured seriously. Mr. Myers is employed at Walden.

ACCORD.

Acord, July 2.—How was the earth really and truly made? Were there ever such people as Adam and Eve? Are we to believe in evolution? What about the "conflict" between science and religion? What is the basis of marriage? What is man's place in the world? What is the business of life? These are some of the questions that will be considered at the Methodist adult Bible class next Sunday morning at 10 o'clock, July 5. This is the first lesson of the series, "The Making of a People." Mr. Voight will have charge of this class and he hopes to have a large class from the very beginning.

The hours of the services at the Methodist Church will be changed to the following:—Sunday school at 10 a. m. sharp. Preaching and worship at 11 a. m. sharp. Evening service at 8 o'clock sharp.

"Martin Luther, the Founder of Protestantism," will be the subject at the Methodist Church Sunday evening, beginning the brief series on "Protestantism and Catholicism."

OUR DAILY PATTERN.

9939—A Practical Model—Ladies' House Dress.

Simplicity marks this style and promises much for its popularity. The lines are simple and the design is easy to develop. The right front overlaps the left in closing, in both waist and skirt, and the comfort ble sleeves are finished with a neat cuff. The pattern is good for gingham, percale, crepe, lawn, dimity, voile, seersucker, kindergarten cloth or lawn. It is cut in 6 sizes, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust measure, and requires 4¾ yards of 44 inch material for a 36 inch size. The skirt measures about 1⅝ yards at the foot.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10 cents in silver or stamps by the Pattern Department, The Freeman, Rondout, N. Y. Be sure to state the size wanted.

Catalogue Notice.

Send 10 cents in silver of stamps for our up-to-date 1914 Spring and Summer Catalogue, containing over 400 designs of Ladies', Misses' and Children's Patterns; also a concise and comprehensive article on dresss making, giving valuable hints to the home dressmaker.

ACCORD.

Acord, July 2.—How was the earth really and truly made? Were there ever such people as Adam and Eve? Are we to believe in evolution? What about the "conflict" between science and religion? What is the basis of marriage? What is man's place in the world? What is the business of life? These are some of the questions that will be considered at the Methodist adult Bible class next Sunday morning at 10 o'clock, July 5. This is the first lesson of the series, "The Making of a People." Mr. Voight will have charge of this class and he hopes to have a large class from the very beginning.

The hours of the services at the Methodist Church will be changed to the following:—Sunday school at 10 a. m. sharp. Preaching and worship at 11 a. m. sharp. Evening service at 8 o'clock sharp.

"Martin Luther, the Founder of Protestantism," will be the subject at the Methodist Church Sunday evening, beginning the brief series on "Protestantism and Catholicism."

TOO MANY LAWS.

Democratic Editor Speaks His Mind Freely on the Subject.

Nobody ever doubted the rock-ribbed Democracy of the editor of the Ellenville Press, who pays his respects to the new labor laws as follows:

The labor laws are botches. Back of such laws there is the intention perhaps to correct abuse. But in the correction all sorts of silly things are incorporated, and then the whole administration put under a commission or bureau and they in turn send out inspectors who are either grafters or who think the way to inspect is to always report something for correction. It appears to have become the policy of the state to make it as expensive and unpleasant as possible for those in business. The Workmen's Compensation Act which Gov. Glynn has credit for passing is the greatest abomination yet invented.

Gradually the rights of the individual and the community are being encroached upon by a state bureaucracy. The schools are controlled by a board at Albany. Vertical writing was pushed into the schools. It was a failure. Now new fads are in the ascendancy. Inspectors are always inspecting and writting and about the only thing a board of education could build without an appeal to Albany for permission, is a coal bin. The trouble is the politicians have created this or that commission to make a lot of jobs until everything in the state is overbossed.

RUNTS WANT A GAME

LITTLE FELLOWS OF AMERICAN LEAGUE HURL DARE.

Offer to Play Game With National League Youngsters Anywhere and at Any Convenient Time—Pitchers Are Hard to Beat.

Are the runts of the National league scared? If not, they have the opportunity of demonstrating their braveness. The American league runts have authorized us to issue a challenge in their name, and offer to play the ball game anywhere and at any convenient time, writes Malcolm MacLean in Chicago Evening Post.

Captain Ray Schalk of the American league Runts gave us the line-up of his team. Both he and Eddie Cicotte, one of the moving spirits in the club, are wildly enthusiastic over the idea, and are in dead earnest in their desire to stage the contest with a similar team from the Nationals.

"Go ahead and issue the challenge," said Schalk, the tallest man of the bunch. Without an exception the men on his team are under average height. Some even would have trouble passing the examinations to enlist with the United States cavalry, where the requirements call for a 5 feet 4 inches, height.

Here is the Runt squad:

Pitchers—Wolfgang and Cicotte, White Sox; Foster, Red Sox, and Warhop, Yankees.
Catcher—Schalk, White Sox.
First base—McInnis, Athletics.
Second base—Maisel, Yankees.
Shortstop—Bush, Tigers.
Third base—Foster, Senators.
Left field—High, Tigers.
Center field—Milan, Senators.
Right field—Liebold, Naps.
Utility—Morgan, Senators.
Manager—Kid Gleason, White Sox.

"Anything you say will be all right for me," said Manager Kid Gleason, when asked for a statement. "And make it as strong as you please. The stronger the better I'll like it. Just rub it on thick. Make 'em enjoy it. And, say, whatever you say, just tell 'em it's not strong enough. Get me?"

Cicotte insisted on saying something. "Say, how do you like that pitching staff? I guess not!" he exclaimed. "But, on the level, I don't think those National guys could get up a team that could stand a ghost of a show with us. Maranville of the Beans and Moran of the Cincinnati Reds would help some. But what pitchers could they show up? I ask again, what pitchers could they get we couldn't whang all over the lot?"

McGraw 25 Years in the Game.

Twenty-five years ago at this time John J. McGraw was just breaking in as a professional ball player. His contract was with the Olean, N. Y., team, and for six months of service he was paid $360. Now he is about to set out in October with a new record in copping four successive National league pennants, and incidentally he will receive $6,000 a month while turning the trick. He is forty-one years old.

Good Prospects.

Mrs. G.—We ought to have a most interesting year with our card club.

Mrs. S.—That so?

Mrs. G.—Yes. Three of last year members are suing for divorce.—Louis Globe-Democrat.

TOO MANY LAWS.

Democratic Editor Speaks His Mind Freely on the Subject.

Nobody ever doubted the rock-ribbed Democracy of the editor of the Ellenville Press, who pays his respects to the new labor laws as follows:

The labor laws are botches. Back of such laws there is the intention perhaps to correct abuse. But in the correction all sorts of silly things are incorporated, and then the whole administration put under a commission or bureau and they in turn send out inspectors who are either grafters or who think the way to inspect is to always report something for correction. It appears to have become the policy of the state to make it as expensive and unpleasant as possible for those in business. The Workmen's Compensation Act which Gov. Glynn has credit for passing is the greatest abomination yet invented.

Gradually the rights of the individual and the community are being encroached upon by a state bureaucracy. The schools are controlled by a board at Albany. Vertical writing was pushed into the schools. It was a failure. Now new fads are in the ascendancy. Inspectors are always inspecting and writting and about the only thing a board of education could build without an appeal to Albany for permission, is a coal bin. The trouble is the politicians have created this or that commission to make a lot of jobs until everything in the state is overbossed.

RUNTS WANT A GAME

LITTLE FELLOWS OF AMERICAN LEAGUE HURL DARE.

Offer to Play Game With National League Youngsters Anywhere and at Any Convenient Time—Pitchers Are Hard to Beat.

Are the runts of the National league scared? If not, they have the opportunity of demonstrating their braveness. The American league runts have authorized us to issue a challenge in their name, and offer to play the ball game anywhere and at any convenient time, writes Malcolm MacLean in Chicago Evening Post.

Captain Ray Schalk of the American league Runts gave us the line-up of his team. Both he and Eddie Cicotte, one of the moving spirits in the club, are wildly enthusiastic over the idea, and are in dead earnest in their desire to stage the contest with a similar team from the Nationals.

"Go ahead and issue the challenge," said Schalk, the tallest man of the bunch. Without an exception the men on his team are under average height. Some even would have trouble passing the examinations to enlist with the United States cavalry, where the requirements call for a 5 feet 4 inches height.

"Knuckles" Cicotte of White Sox.

Here is the Runt squad:

Pitchers—Wolfgang and Cicotte, White Sox; Foster, Red Sox, and Warhop, Yankees.
Catcher—Schalk, White Sox.
First base—McInnis, Athletics.
Second base—Maisel, Yankees.
Shortstop—Bush, Tigers.
Third base—Foster, Senators.
Left field—High, Tigers.
Center field—Milan, Senators.
Right field—Liebold, Naps.
Utility—Morgan, Senators.
Manager—Kid Gleason, White Sox.

"Anything you say will be all right for me," said Manager Kid Gleason, when asked for a statement. "And make it as strong as you please. The stronger the better I'll like it. Just rub it on thick. Make 'em enjoy it. And, say, whatever you say, just tell 'em it's not strong enough. Get me?"

Cicotte insisted on saying something. "Say, how do you like that pitching staff? I guess not!" he exclaimed. "But, on the level, I don't think those National guys could get up a team that could stand a ghost of a show with us. Maranville of the Beans and Moran of the Cincinnati Reds would help some. But what pitchers could they show up? I ask again, what pitchers could they get we couldn't whang all over the lot?"

McGraw 25 Years in the Game.

Twenty-five years ago at this time John J. McGraw was just breaking in as a professional ball player. His contract was with the Olean, N. Y., team, and for six months of service he was paid $360. Now he is about to set out in October with a new record in copping four successive National league pennants, and incidentally he will receive $6,000 a month while turning the trick. He is forty-one years old.

Good Prospects.

Mrs. G.—We ought to have a nice interesting year with our card club

Mrs. S.—That so?

ELLENVILLE.

Ellenville, July 3.—The thirteenth annual banquet of the Alumni Association of the Ellenville high school was held at the Wayside Inn Thursday evening, June 20. It was under the direction of the association officers, George B. Holmes, president; Mrs. Addison Stratton, vice president; Dr. Charles H. Van Kirk, secretary; Miss Ethel Hoornbeek, treasurer, and a corps of very efficient ladies on the different committees. The perfect weather added charm to the occasion. The tables were arranged in the large dining hall of the Inn and covers were laid for one hundred and five people, which included the members of the board of education, class of 1916, alumni members and guests, Mr. and Mrs. Poultney Bigelow and Mrs. O. B. Sarre. Among the out of town members were Superintendent E. C. Hoomer and Mrs. Hoomer of Catskill, Mrs. Gaylord B. Marshall and Miss Virginia Marshall of Walden, Mr. and Mrs. Gross Schoonmaker of Accord, Mrs. William Sullivan of Brooklyn, Boyce TerBush and Miss Ethel TerBush of Greenfield. The reception of members, friends and guests took place in the large hall opening from the large veranda facing Liberty street. Following the reception a business session was held and officers for the ensuing year were elected: President, Raymond G. Cox; vice president, Mrs. George R. Van Aken; secretary, Miss Josephine Carver; treasurer, Mrs. Joseph Hyatt. Following the march to the dining hall and finding of seats assigned the people all seated. The serving of a fine banquet under the personal supervision of Proprietor O. O. Krause and Mrs. Krause, was faultlessly served, and enjoyed. The menu was as follows:

Fruit Cups Olives Celery
Baked Halibut, Drawn Butter
Parisienne Potatoes
Broiled Spring Chicken, Wilted New Green Peas
French Fried Potatoes
Lettuce and Tomato Salad, Mayonnaise Dressing
Strawberry Shortcake
Neapolitan Ice Cream
Assorted Cakes
Demi Tasse

The music was furnished by Charles Brady, Middletown; Mrs. William Fater and Gorman Mance, Ellenville, and the following program was given during the banquet hour:

I. March, "Cup Hunters." .Lenzberg
II. Selection, "Il Trovatore." .Verdi
III. Selection, "Blue Paradise." .... Friml
IV. Flute solo by Mr. Brady. Selected
V. Tone poem, "Apple Blossom." ... . Roberts
VI Serenade, "La Paloma." .Yradier
VII. Violin solo, "Spring Song." .... Mendelssohn
Mr. Mance.
VIII. Fox Trot, "Underneath the Stars." ..... Penuck
IX "Simple Aveu" .....Thorne
X. "They Didn't Believe Me." .... J. Remick

The tables were very beautiful in their decorations of baskets of the beautiful mountain laurel, pink predominating, which were carefully arranged by the Misses Helen Gaskell, Beatrice and Bernice Gray. The seating of guests at tables was perfect in every detail, under the supervision of Mrs. William C. Rose, Mrs. F. J. Potter, Mrs. G. J. Hoornbeek and Mrs. George R. Van Aken, while a bevy of young ladies assisted Miss Hartwig in other arrangements. At the conclusion of the banquet President Holmes arose and a hush followed as he introduced Poultney Bigelow of Malden, N. Y., who delivered the address of the evening. His subject chosen was "Our Country," and for a half hour he held his people as spellbound by his very able address, which received very hearty applause and as he finished the entire company arose and sang, very heartily, "The Star Spangled Banner," which ended the evening of pleasure and profit together. Added pleasure was afforded all attending in having Mr. and Mrs. Bigelow as guests, who were entertained by Mrs. O. B. Sarre at Yama Farms Inn.

Improved Electric Fan.

A novel type of electric fan may be suspended by its own feed cord from any suitably placed lamp socket, the space usually taken up being thus saved. The fan is five inches in diameter, and with its socket weighs but little more than two pounds, but on any alternating or direct current circuit of 110 volts is driven at a speed that gives a good circulation of air throughout a room of ordinary size.

The KITCHEN CABINET

Spite, retaliation and revenge are so utterly ignoble, and so small and foolish as to be altogether unworthy of being noticed or harbored. No one who fosters such conditions in his heart can lift himself above the folly and suffering, and guide his life aright.—James Lane Allen.

FEW WAYS WITH STEAK.

A tough steak may, by careful cooking, become very palatable. Take a piece of steak that seems tough and pound as much flour as is possible to get into it. Sometimes with a small piece of meat a cupful and a half of flour may be pounded in. Use the edge of a heavy saucer to pound it in—then brown it in a little hot fat, add onions if desired, a little hot water and stew on the back part of the stove or in the oven until tender.

Spanish Steak.—Take six ripe tomatoes or one can, four onions, two chili peppers and one and a half pounds of round steak. Peel and slice the onions, fry a light brown. Cut the steak in serving-sized pieces and put the onions on top, then over these place the peppers and tomatoes, cut fine; add hot water, cover and cook for half an hour, either in the oven or on the back part of the stove.

Ranch Steak.—Cash a thick round steak on both sides, rub in flour, brown, sprinkle with three chopped peppers, cover with hot water and stew until tender.

Baked Round Steak.—Take a two-pound steak, cut in serving-sized pieces, score well with a knife. Place in a roasting pan, season, dredge with flour; add a few bits of butter and a slice of onion over the meat. Cover with water, place in the oven and bake slowly for an hour until tender.

Deviled Steak.—Take one large flank steak, one-half onion, two tablespoonfuls of butter, two tablespoonfuls of flour, one teaspoonful of salt, one-quarter of a teaspoonful of pepper, one teaspoonful of mustard, three tablespoonfuls of vinegar, two cupfuls of hot water. Melt the butter in a frying pan, slice the onion and fry in the butter. Remove the onion when brown, cut the steak in pieces, dip in flour and fry in butter. Remove the meat, add the salt, mustard, vinegar and pepper, then add hot water. Replace the steak, cover closely and let simmer until tender. Dish on a platter with the gravy poured over it and garnish with brown potatoes.

KINGSTON, N. Y., JULY 3, 1914.

The Freeman will not be issued on Saturday, July 4.

One of the best innovations of which we have heard in many a day is the establishment by the city of Carmen, Okla., of an annual institution to be known as "Take-It-Back-Day." The idea is that on this occasion everybody who has borrowed anything during the year will return it. The first experiment has just been made and was successful beyond expectations. Men who had borrowed small sums and had forgotten about it were reminded of their delinquency. All sorts of articles, ranging from drawings of tea to lawn mowers were returned. The parcel post had the biggest day of its existence in that locality. One of the results not anticipated is thus described in a dispatch: "Many persons who had grudges against others also took advantage of the good feeling inspired by the day to 'make up,' and several neighborhood feuds were ended." We don't know whether this Oklahoma success could be duplicated in the "effete East," but it would be worth while to try the experiment.

An agent of the State Department of Labor, Marie Orenstein, who was detailed to investigate New York restaurants, inspected thirty-five in the business district of Manhattan and reported that "fifteen were fairly clean, sixteen were dirty, and four were absolutely filthy." This is a pretty fair index of the conditions in eating houses the country over. We once knew of a restaurant which made a hit by inviting its patrons to take a look at its kitchen, but it did [illegible] is not received cordially when it expresses a desire to see for itself under what conditions its food is prepared. We can't for the life of us see what the Labor Department has to do with inspections of this kind, since it is apparently within the province of the health authorities, but we are glad that somebody is taking an interest in the subject. It is of precious little use to have strict and elaborate pure food laws if dirty cooks are allowed to mishandle the provisions before they reach the consumer.

Chairman Barnes of the Republican State Committee has announced his intention to retire from membership in that committee at the expiration of his term in September. He has publicly made a statement that while, greatly to his regret, Senator Root has declined to accept a re-election to the Senate, he (Senator Root) "will continue to be a conspicuous and a potential figure in the affairs of the Republican Party in this State in future years—virtually its leader in thought and action." This is also the sentiment of the rank and file of Republicans. Root's ability and character command universal respect. Roosevelt himself is on record as declaring him to be the biggest and best man in public life. He is progressive without being eager to plunge blindly into fantastic political schemes. He does not belong to what the Colonel has aptly characterized as the "lunatic fringe" which attaches itself to all forward movements. Under these circumstances, Roosevelt is bound by his own words from doing anything to defeat the Republican ticket in this State this fall. If, nevertheless, he persists in keeping up his Bull Moose sideshow, thus incurring the danger of Tammany success, even his most stupid and infatuated followers will be forced to perceive what manner of man he is.

Men are so much like sheep that it is not surprising that when some one, years ago, advocated making our various State laws uniform, he immediately was followed by a troop of second-hand thinkers. We even have a conference of Governors every year to boost the movement. There is another side to the subject, however, and it was presented by Former Chief Judge Cullen of the Court of Appeals of this State before the Maryland Bar Association Thursday night. The Judge said: "The agitation for uniformity of law has proceeded greatly in our own profession, and so far as it relates to matters of commerce, I heartily approve it. But beyond that I would not go. I have always regarded our Federal system as the most beneficent feature of our form of government." This is worth thinking over. While some States are "dry" and the rum traffic is almost free in others, no good result could come from efforts to make excise legislation uniform. Neither is there any use in clamoring for uniform divorce laws while South Carolina allows no divorces at all and other States let people dissolve their marriage ties whenever they feel like it. The United States is, in fact, a federation of nations each one of which has a natural right to enact such laws as local sentiment authorizes. No two families have precisely similar customs, and no two men are exactly alike in their habits. This is the age of standardization, but every good thing can be indulged in excessively.

OUR PIONEER MOTHERS.

(By Our Woman Editor.)

"The spirit of 76"—

Perhaps not one of us ever reads the story leading up to the American Revolution and on to the signing of the great Declaration of Independence without being proud of the men who figured in those stirring days and without thinking, rather thrillingly, of their wonderful caliber.

But while we are pridefully calling to mind the early fathers and the manner of men bred by those strenuous times, back, back go our thoughts to the pioneer mothers, the women who lived, loved, suffered and rose to splendid heights in the first and the last of the colonial days.

And catching a faint echo now and then of the turbulent times they went through and their manner of meeting and sharing the hardships, the labors and the many, many dangers, we know that the pioneer women of America played no small part in the birth of the wonderful "spirit of 76."

For if ever there was a time when men and women stood side by side in the busy affairs of the world, helping to shape its destinies, it was in the early days of this country. And from the time of the first rude log cabins, built almost in the heart of the wilderness, so far as comforts were concerned, on to the more pretentious homes of planters or prosperous farmers, women knew what it was to accept their full share of work and of respensibilities.

Rugged experience soon enough taught them, if they had not learned it before, that their place was beside their men folk, in toil, in hardships, in dangers and in the bearing of all the new burdens; and they broadened and strengthened under the test, ever rising to meet the occasion.

Their mision here was to help in the building of homes, the feeding and clothing of families; and while domestic activities, as always, were their greatest concern, the pioneer women were often called upon to work out in the fields or the forests to help in the planting and reaping of scanty crops, even to give of their strength in clearing the ground upon which to build their homes. For there could no little circumscribing of duties in those hardy days.

One easily guesses that the pioneer mothers were glad to stick close to their knitting, when possible, glad as were the pioneer fathers to have them; for there was plenty to do in clothing the family from raw materials and following all the other inside pursuits; but sometimes they were forced to break through. And in the process—little enough to their liking, quite likely—they grew strong, self-reliant and resourceful.

All too soon they learned that the lurking Indian would not spare them or their children, and they were driven into becoming bold and alert to danger, prepared, if need be, to protect their homes and their little ones. In those days of multiplied dangers, husbands and fathers and brothers could not always be at home to defend and protect their womenfolk; indeed, many times they were powerless, alone, and the women were obliged to help, else surrender themselves, their children and their homes. But resoluteness and heroism were bred by the dangers; and they splendidly figured in many and many a dramatic incident that adorns the pages of history and many more that remain unsung.

And as the years passed along and the colonists grew more and still more strong and independent, the love of women for the new country they had helped to establish burned with as steady a flame as did that of the men with whom they had labored.

On that memorable day in July, 1776, when a devoted band of patriots pledged their fortunes, their honor and their lives to a Declaration of Independence of foreign rule, it was men who sat around the table, who framed the words and thoughtfully signed their names. History has not been at all niggardly in doing them honor, and it cannot be too generous in according its praise, for it cost something to the signers. As all of us know, from the very day the Declaration was made public these men were looked upon by the mother country as worse than outlaws. A price was put upon the heads of some of them, and all were hounded about in one way and another; but not all the hardships fell upon the signers, for the wives of some of those liberty-loving men suffered almost in kind, and the troubles must have fallen heavily upon the women in all the households.

There was Mrs. Elizabeth Lewis, wife of one of the signers. She was forced to stand by while their home was pillaged and destroyed, when she was taken to New York and thrown into prison. She was allowed neither a bed nor change of clothing and only the coarsest and scantiest food. For three weeks those hardships continued, then an old family servant managed to smuggle a few articles of clothing and some food to her; but it was three months more before much betterment was made in her condition, and she died, so the chronicles record, as a direct result of the treatment meted out to the wife of one of our rebellious fathers.

And there were the many others, the wives of signers, and the mothers and wives and daughters of unheralded patriots, who shared the hardships, braved the perils and cheerfully bore the sacrifices that helped make that mighty document of independence effective.

Not that we forget the pioneer fathers of America and their mighty labors, but rather that we also remember the pioneer mothers who stood by their side.

LITTLE LAUGHS.

"Your son says his professor is a very strict disciplinarian, Mrs. Nurich." "He must have been joking. The college is non-sectarian you know."—Buffalo Express.

"Did you get his number?" murmured the man who had been run over by the auto, to the policeman. "No." "Well, what kind of a looking car was it?" "I don't know. I was trying to get his number."—Life.

"What is the difference between a philospher and an optimist?" "Well, a philospher takes things as they come, while an optimist, if they come with the dark side uppermost, turns them over."—Boston Transcript.

"A tramp at the back door who has already eaten a piece of that pie I made yesterday wants to know if you can do anything for him?" "Tell him, my dear, that I am a commission merchant, not a doctor."—Houston Post.

Logical?

Secretary Josephus Daniels of the Navy Department recently told a story to some North Carolina friends of the late "Dick" Thompson, former Secretary of the Navy.

"Mrs. Thompson was not aware that her husband was likely to be made Secretary," related Mr. Daniels, "until she read a newspaper account of the probable appointment. She went to a friend of hers with the paper in her hand and astonishment written on her face.

"'What!' she exclaimed, 'Dick be made Secretary of the Navy? Why, he can't even swim!'"

Overconfidence.

District Attorney Whitman of New York, said the other day of a business man who had failed disastrously:

"He didn't work hard enough. He was too self-confident. That is why he failed."

With a laugh the district attorney added:

"He who feels sure that the world has an opening for him is apt to land in a hole."

The Unmanicured Hand.

W. Cameron Forbes, ex-Governor of the Philippines, said apropos of some Filipino story:

"That story is an exaggeration and possibly a falsehood. It is like the stories we used to hear about the povety and slovenliness of the itinerant actor.

"Betterton Booth, in itinerant Hamlet—so one of these stories runs—was invited, in the house of a prosperous friend, to have a drink. He accepted the invitation, naturally.

"'Say, when,' said the host, pouring the whiskey slowly forth.

"And Betterton, as he measured a certain part on his glass with his thumb, said:

"'Not much, my dear boy. Not very much. Just to the black of the thumbnail.'"—New York Tribune.

Wanted to Know.

Blushing she hid her face on her father's shoulder.

"He loves me," she breathed.

"Wants to marry you, eh?" the old man grunted.

"Yes, papa."

"What's his income?"

She started.

"I don't know," she murmured, "but the coincidence is very strange."

"What coincidence?" asked her father.

"Clarence," she answered "asked the very same question about your income."—Savannah Press.

What's the Answer?

"Alfalfa Bill" Murray, representive from Oklahoma, is the victim of a story which is going the rounds just now. It happened on a street car running in the resident section of Washington.

The car was well crowded when the big Oklahoman climbed on board. He found a vacant seat and soon afterward a number of women boarded the conveyance. Arising heavily, the Oklahoman looked over the group.

"Are there any suffragists on this car?" he asked.

There was no reply.

"Because if there are," said he, "they can stand. They are equal to men. If there are any other women, though, they are welcome to my seat.

Then he strode to the rear of the car and became immersed in moody silence.—Washington Star.

OUR PIONEER MOTHERS.

(By Our Woman Editor.)

"The spirit of 76"—

Perhaps not one of us ever reads the story leading up to the American Revolution and on to the signing of the great Declaration of Independence without being proud of the men who figured in those stirring days and without thinking, rather thrillingly, of their wonderful caliber.

But while we are pridefully calling to mind the early fathers and the manner of men bred by those strenuous times, back, back go our thoughts to the pioneer mothers, the women who lived, loved, suffered and rose to splendid heights in the first and the last of the colonial days.

And catching a faint echo now and then of the turbulent times they went through and their manner of meeting and sharing the hardships, the labors and the many, many dangers, we know that the pioneer women of America played no small part in the birth of the wonderful "spirit of 76."

For if ever there was a time when men and women stood side by side in the busy affairs of the world, helping to shape its destinies, it was in the early days of this country. And from the time of the first rude log cabins, built almost in the heart of the wilderness, so far as comforts were concerned, on to the more pretentious homes of planters or prosperous farmers, women knew what it was to accept their full share of work and of responsibilities.

Rugged experience soon enough taught them, if they had not learned it before, that their place was beside their men folk, in toil, in hardships, in dangers and in the bearing of all the new burdens; and they broadened and strengthened under the test, ever rising to meet the occasion.

Their mision here was to help in the building of homes, the feeding and clothing of families; and while domestic activities, as always, were their greatest concern, the pioneer women were often called upon to work out in the fields or the forests to help in the planting and reaping of scanty crops, even to give of their strength in clearing the ground upon which to build their homes. For there could no little circumscribing of duties in those hardy days.

One easily guesses that the pioneer mothers were glad to stick close to their knitting, when possible, glad as were the pioneer fathers to have them; for there was plenty to do in clothing the family from raw materials and following all the other inside pursuits; but sometimes they were forced to break through. And in the process—little enough to their liking, quite likely—they grew strong, self-reliant and resourceful.

All too soon they learned that the lurking Indian would not spare them or their children, and they were driven into becoming bold and alert to danger, prepared, if need be, to protect their homes and their little ones. In those days of multiplied dangers, husbands and fathers and brothers could not always be at home to defend and protect their womenfolk; indeed, many times they were powerless, alone, and the women were obliged to help, else surrender themselves, their children and their homes. But resoluteness and heroism were bred by the dangers; and they splendidly figured in many and many a dramatic incident that adorns the pages of history and many more that remain unsung.

And as the years passed along and the colonists grew more and still more strong and independent, the love of women for the new country they had helped to establish burned with as steady a flame as did that of the men with whom they had labored.

On that memorable day in July, 1776, when a devoted band of patriots pledged their fortunes, their honor and their lives to a Declaration of Independence of foreign rule, it was men who sat around the table, who framed the words and thoughtfully signed their names. History has not been at all niggardly in doing them honor, and it cannot be too generous in according its praise, for it cost something to the signers. As all of us know, from the very day the Declaration was made public these men were looked upon by the mother country as worse than outlaws. A price was put upon the heads of some of them, and all were hounded about in one way and another; but not all the hardships fell upon the signers, for the wives of some of those liberty-loving men suffered almost in kind, and the troubles must have fallen heavily upon the women in all the households.

There was Mrs. Elizabeth Lewis, wife of one of the signers. She was forced to stand by while their home was pillaged and destroyed, when she was taken to New York and thrown into prison. She was allowed neither a bed nor change of clothing and only the coarsest and scantiest food. For three weeks those hardships continued, then an old family servant managed to smuggle a few articles of clothing and some food to her; but it was three months more before much betterment was made in her condition, and she died, so the chronicles record, as a direct result of the treatment meted out to the wife of one of our rebellious fathers.

And there were the many others, the wives of signers, and the mothers and wives and daughters of unheralded patriots, who shared the hardships, braved the perils and cheerfully bore the sacrifices that helped make that mighty document of independence effective.

Not that we forget the pioneer fathers of America and their mighty labors, but rather that we also remember the pioneer mothers who stood by their side.

LITTLE LAUGHS.

"Your son says his professor is a very strict disciplinarian, Mrs. Nurich." "He must have been joking. The college is non-sectarian you know."—Buffalo Express.

At the college regatta.—"Why does the man in the back of the boat have that funnel strapped to his face?" He blows through it, y'know. Every little thing helps in a race like this."—Judge.

"Did you get his number?" murmured the man who had been run over by the auto, to the policeman. "No." "Well, what kind of a looking car was it?" "I don't know. I was trying to get his number."—Life.

"What is the difference between a philospher and an optimist?" "Well, a philospher takes things as they come, while an optimist, if they come with the dark side uppermost, turns them over."—Boston Transcript.

"A tramp at the back door who has already eaten a piece of that pie I made yesterday wants to know if you can do anything for him?" "Tell him, my dear, that I am a commission merchant, not a doctor."—Houston Post.

"So you think you have your opponent defeated before the campaign starts?" "I'm sure of it. He is going to depend on old-fashioned handshaking methods to make himself agreeable. I'm learning to dance."—Washington Star.

Logical?

Secretary Josephus Daniels of the Navy Department recently told a story to some North Caroling friends of the late "Dick" Thompson, former Secretary of the Navy.

"Mrs. Thompson was not aware that her husband was likely to be made Secretary," related Mr. Daniels, "until she read a newspaper account of the probable appointment. She went to a friend of hers with the paper in her hand and astonishment written on her face.

"'What!' she exclaimed, 'Dick be made Secretary of the Navy? Why, he can't even swim!'"

Overconfidence.

District Attorney Whitman of New York, said the other day of a business man who had failed disastrously:

"He didn't work hard enough. He was too self-confident. That is why he failed."

With a laugh the district attorney added:

"He who feels sure that the world has an opening for him is apt to land in a hole."

The Unmanicured Hand.

W. Cameron Forbes, ex-Governor of the Philippines, said apropos of some Filipino story:

"That story is an exaggeration and possibly a falsehood. It is like the stories we used to hear about the povety and slovenliness of the itinerant actor.

"Betterton Booth, in itinerant Hamlet—so one of these stories runs—was invited, in the house of a prosperous friend, to have a drink. He accepted the invitation, naturally.

"'Say, when,' said the host, pouring the whiskey slowly forth.

"And Betterton, as he measured a certain part on his glass with his thumb, said:

"'Not much, my dear boy. Not very much. Just to the black of the thumbnail.'"—New York Tribune.

Wanted to Know.

Blushing she hid her face on her father's shoulder.

"He loves me," she breathed.

"Wants to marry you, eh?" the old man grunted.

"Yes, papa."

"What's his income?"

She started.

"I don't know," she murmured, "but the coincidence is very strange."

"What coincidence?" asked her father.

"Clarence," she answered "asked the very same question about your income."—Savannah Press.

What's the Answer?

"Alfalfa Bill" Murray, representive from Oklahoma, is the victim of a story which is going the rounds just now. It happened on a street car running in the resident section of Washington.

The car was well crowded when the big Oklahoman climbed on board. He found a vacant seat and soon afterward a number of women boarded the conveyance. Arising heavily, the Oklahoman looked over the group.

"Are there any suffragists on this car?" he asked.

There was no reply.

"Because if there are," said he, "they can stand. They are equal to men. If there are any other women, though, they are welcome to my seat.

Then he strode to the rear of the car and became immersed in moody silence.—Washington Star.

Rosendale, July 3.—The new casino of Andrew W. Smith will be opened at Rosendale about the middle of July and the opening will be one of the most brilliant ever seen in this section of the state. The season here promises to be the largest in the history of this cool and delightful summer resort which is situated in the most picturesque valley of New York state. Mr. Smith's hotel at Rosendale is considered to be one of the best country hotels between New York and Albany and it has been the scene of many very happy gatherings. Motor parties from all parts of the county and state have always reported favorably after spending several hours' enjoyment at the hotel, which they speak of in the very highest terms in regard to the treatment by Mr. Smith. The casino will be directly across the street from the hotel and it is bound to become the most popular resort in this part of the county. The new ball room will be made very attractive as Mr. Smith will spare no expense to complete decorating and improving the appearance of the same as it will undoubtedly be the center of many happy scenes and festivities will be continued throughout the season and during the winter months. Every effort will be put forth to make the new ball room the most attractive in this section.

The very best music will be furnished by a full orchestra of accomplished musicians for modern dancing and Patrick Reilly will be engaged as dancing instructor and floor manager. His appointment has met with the approval and satisfaction of the entire community. The ice cream parlors and soda fountain will be an added feature of the casino and it is expected that it will be very strong patronized by the young people who attend the dances. It is the intention of Mr. Smith to give star vaudeville acts with the very best professional talent in connection with the dances. Mr. Reilly, who has the reputation of furnishing the best of entertainment, will be in charge of this new hall and will start dancing classes as soon as the same is completed, giving instruction to those who wish to learn the one step, the new hesitation waltzes and other modern dances.

Those who expect to patronize the new casino are now very anxious for the opening night and Mr. Reilly will introduce many special features for the enjoyment of all those who attend as he has had years of experience along these lines of entertaining.

The Paint Beautiful.

That is the impression one gets after seeing the large residence on the Freer estate on Manor avenue, which has just received a fresh coat of paint. The color scheme was well selected for a job of this kind, and gives the place a nice clean, showy appearance. The work was done by Crosby and Ballard, the well-known decorators of this city.

He directs the payment of his just debts and funeral expenses but says: "but let it be understood that I mean by this is all legal debts whereas if there should be any debts tried to be collected which should be found to be fraudulent or unlawful they or it is it my intention to not have the same payed out of this estate." The sum of one dollar is given to each of his children, James Henry Parker and Margaret E. Dutcher, and the remainder of the estate he gives to his wife, Etta Parker, whom he appoints executrix. BUILDING IS TOTTERING.

Foundation Undermined by Excavation for Goldman's New Building.

But for the prompt action on Wednesday afternoon of Contractor S. M. Stanley, the two story brick residence and bakeshop of Morris Goldman, corner of Hasbrouck and Newkirk avenues, would have toppled over, and workmen were busy all that afternoon and Thursday placing braces in position to prevent the building from sliding off its foundation.

A short time ago Mr. Goldman decided that he would have a one story addition and basement building adjoining his building and the job was given to Mr. Stanley. Mr. Stanley runs a small upholstering shop at 13 Mill street.

In digging the foundation for the basement of the new addition, Mr. Stanley dug alongside the foundation of [illegible] residence and some distance below its foundations and began to place the concrete blocks for the new basement in position. On Wednesday afternoon the foundation of the old building began to slide from under and the bricks began dropping into the excavation for the new basement.

The neighborhood was soon in wild excitement as word that Goldman's residence was likely to topple off began to be circulated. Mr. Stanley secured an iron girder and managed to place it under the foundations of the old building, which prevented it from toppling over into the excavated place. It was also found necessary to place wooden braces against the side of the building as big cracks made their appearance in the brickwork.

As the building began to slant towards the excavation it was also found necessary to place wooden braces not only to support the ceiling of the basement, where the bakeshop is located, but also the ceiling on the first floor.

There seems to be some argument as to just why the foundations for the new addition were dug so close to the old building. Mr. Stanley claims that he wanted to dig the cellar three feet away from the old building but that Mr. Goldman said he wanted a wider cellar and to dig directly alongside the old building, which was done. As soon as the old foundations of the present building were exposed they began to slide from under the building.

It is likely that an entire new foundation will have to be laid on the side facing the new addition in order to prevent the house from toppling over.

The Goldman bakery is the one that comes up for discussion at nearly every meeting of the board of health.

METTACAHONTS.

Mettacahonts, July 2.—Robert Woolsey, whose home was at this place. died at the home of his sister-in-law, Mrs. Charles E. Woolsey, on Clinton avenue, Kingston, Thursday, June 25, where he had been for eight weeks an invalid, under the care of Mr. and Mrs. Woolsey. He had been in feeble health ever since last summer, when he suffered an attack of paralysis. At the last of his sickness he was severely afflicted with heart trouble. Mr. Woolsey was born in the western part of the state October 30, 1842. As a small boy, having lost his mother, he left home and secured employment on the Erie canal, later, when older, becoming owner of a barge which ran between Rondout and Albany. Then tiring of river life, he rented a store in Kingston, and later bought one at 113 Clinton avenue, where he remained for fourteen years, when he retired from active life, and bought a piece of land at this place, building a house where he and his wife, who was Katherine A. Markle of this place, resided until 1909, when death claimed Mrs. Woolsey. Since that time Mr. Woolsey has led a changing life, spending one summer and part of another at Caldwell, N. J. He also spent much of his time in traveling until paralysis claimed him for a victim. Mr. Woolsey is survived by his half brother. Elmer Woolsey of Newburgh; also by many sisters-in-law and brothers-in-law and by many nieces and nephews. One nephew, Fred Woolsey, resides at Dallas, Texas, and others are in New Jersey and were unable to attend the funeral which was held Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock at his home here. Mr. Woolsey had many friends in this place. He was a person who made friends wherever he went and was liked by all with whom he came in contact. He was an officer in the M. E. Church for many years. BUILDING IS TOTTERING.

Foundation Undermined by Excavation for Goldman's New Building.

But for the prompt action on Wednesday afternoon of Contractor S. M. Stanley, the two story brick residence and bakeshop of Morris Goldman, corner of Hasbrouck and Newkirk avenues, would have toppled over, and workmen were busy all that afternoon and Thursday placing braces in position to prevent the building from sliding off its foundation.

A short time ago Mr. Goldman decided that he would have a one story addition and basement building adjoining his building and the job was given to Mr. Stanley. Mr. Stanley runs a small upholstering shop at 13 Mill street.

In digging the foundation for the basement of the new addition, Mr. Stanley dug alongside the foundation of the residence and some distance below its foundations and began to place the concrete blocks for the new basement in position. On Wednesday afternoon the foundation of the old building began to slide from under and the bricks began dropping into the excavation for the new basement.

The neighborhood was soon in wild excitement as word that Goldman's residence was likely to topple off began to be circulated. Mr. Stanley secured an iron girder and managed to place it under the foundations of the old building, which prevented it from toppling over into the excavated place. It was also found necessary to place wooden braces against the side of the building as big cracks made their appearance in the brickwork.

As the building began to slant towards the excavation it was also found necessary to place wooden braces not only to support the ceiling of the basement, where the bakeshop is located, but also the ceiling on the first floor.

There seems to be some argument as to just why the foundations for the new addition were dug so close to the old building. Mr. Stanley claims that he wanted to dig the cellar three feet away from the old building but that Mr. Goldman said he wanted a wider cellar and to dig directly alongside the old building, which was done. As soon as the old foundations of the present building were exposed they began to slide from under the building.

It is likely that an entire new foundation will have to be laid on the side facing the new addition in order to prevent the house from toppling over.

The Goldman bakery is the one that comes up for discussion at nearly every meeting of the board of health.

METTACAHONTS.

Mettacahonts, July 2.—Robert Woolsey, whose home was at this place, died at the home of his sister-in-law, Mrs. Charles E. Woolsey, on Clinton avenue, Kingston, Thursday, June 25, where he had been for eight weeks an invalid, under the care of Mr. and Mrs. Woolsey. He had been in feeble health ever since last summer, when he suffered an attack of paralysis. At the last of his sickness he was severely afflicted with heart trouble. Mr. Woolsey was born in the western part of the state October 30, 1842. As a small boy, having lost his mother, he left home and secured employment on the Erie canal, later, when older, becoming owner of a barge which ran between Rondout and Albany. Then tiring of river life, he rented a store in Kingston, and later bought one at 113 Clinton avenue, where he remained for fourteen years, when he retired from active life, and bought a piece of land at this place, building a house where he and his wife, who was Katherine A. Markle of this place, resided until 1909, when death claimed Mrs. Woolsey. Since that time Mr. Woolsey has led a changing life, spending one summer and part of another at Caldwell, N. J. He also spent much of his time in traveling until paralysis claimed him for a victim. Mr. Woolsey is survived by his half brother, Elmer Woolsey of Newburgh; also by many sisters-in-law and brothers-in-law and by many nieces and nephews. One nephew, Fred Woolsey, resides at Dallas, Texas, and others are in New Jersey and were unable to attend the funeral which was held Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock at his home here. Mr. Woolsey had many friends in this place. He was a person who made friends wherever he went and was liked by all with whom he came in contact. He was an officer in the M. E. Church for many years. VIADUCT CLAIMS PARTLY SETTLED

Settlements made by the city of Kingston a year ago with three of the property owners along Washington avenue were agreed to on behalf of the city before the Washington avenue viaduct commission, composed of J. DePuy Hasbrouck, John S. Thompson and James H. Duffy, at the court house this morning, and the agreements were ratified by the commission, who will make awards for the stipulated amounts when they file their report of awards.

The settlements to which there was no obection were those with Esther Fitzgerald for $3,750; John C. Oliver, for $575, and Albert H. Cook, Jr., and Mary Cook, his wife, for $1,250.

Objection to the settlement made a year ago by the city with John J. Lane was made on behalf of the Ontario & Western Railroad Company by Philip Elting, attorney for the railroad. The city's settlement a year ago with Mr. Lane was for $3,100, which was for an easement and not for the fee of the land. The railroad company, which bears part of the expense of the cost of constructing the viaduct and for the acquisition of land, etc., obected to this settlement on the ground that such sum was disproportionate and excessive. It was stated that if the fee of the Lane property had been acquired, such sum would not meet with objection. In other cases, in which Corporation Counsel Brinnier consented to the settlements, the city acquired the fee and also an easement. The Lane case will be heard later, and will be contested.

Another question which was raised at the hearing in regard to the interest which the railroad companies which are sharing the expense of the viaduct will have in the fee of the land acquired by the city. Both the Ontario & Western Railroad and the Ulster & Delaware Railroad pay part of the cost of eliminating grade crossings. In the present case, one fourth of the cost of the land acquired will be paid by the New York, Ontario & Western Railroads, and one-fourth by the Ulster & Delaware Railroad, and both railroads, upon paying for their share of the land acquired, wish to have a proportionate interest in the land. This matter will be taken before the Public Service Commission of the Second District, which, said Mr. Brinnier, has exclusive jurisdiction over the matter. To questions by Philip Elting, counsel for the New York, Ontario & Western Railroad, and Harry H. Flemming, counsel for the Ulster & Delaware Railroad, Mr. Brinnier said he believed the railroads, having paid their share of the cost of the land, were entitled to receive a proportionate interest in it, but he did not feel that he had the power to bind the city by any stipulation.

The commission adjourned to July 8, when it will take up the claims of George Hutton and Mary Noone.

At today's hearing, Corporation Counsel Brinnier appeared for the city; claimants were represented by Judge Clearwater, Judge Betts, Philip Elting, Harry H. Flemming, Jenkins & Shufeldt, Howard Chipp, Virgil B. Van Wagonen, Charles W. Walton, Van Etten & Cook, Judge N. Frank O'Reilly and John T. Loughran.

When Reading.

Has it ever occurred to you that, from the point of view of eyesight, there is a right way and a wrong way of holding a book? If you hold it the wrong way, especially if the pages be of smooth, shining paper, you will get a reflection hurtful to the eyes. An eye specialist has been pointing this out, and he says the thing could be remedied by using a certain kind of bookmarker which would destroy the reflection, and in that case you could hold the book anyhow you liked without coming to harm.

PROHIBITIONISTS IN A WRANGLE

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Utica, July 3.—Despite the fact that the delegates attending the Prohibition state convention were engaged until midnight in a wrangle over the party platform that threatened for a time to precipitate personal hostilities, the temperance advocates resumed their labors today on schedule and set about selecting a state ticket.

As soon as the reading of the platform had ended, trouble began. The whole argument started because the state platform, while reaffirming the national platform as a whole, singled out certain clauses for additional emphasis. The inference was that others not thus mentioned might be considered as slighted and for that reason there was a desire to hit everything off about right.

Calls of personal privileges, requests for information and a question as to who was running the convention added to the excitement. Eventually the platform was fixed up and adopted, though several delegates angrily asserted that the motion to adopt the amended platform had not been put or carried and charges of political trickery were freely exchanged.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, July 3.—Strength was shown in all departments of the stock market at the opening today with the most attention attracted to the copper shares. Amalgamated Copper was ½ higher and the same amount of gain was scored by Utah. American Smelting was up ⅝. Southern Pacific was the most active of the railroad group, opening ⅛ higher, then increasing its net gain to ½. Reading began ⅛ higher, but was soon selling ½ above Thursday's closing. The biggest gain was scored by Canadian Pacific, which was 1⅛ higher on buying in New York and London. Western Union was in fair demand, selling up to 58½, an advance of ¼. Among other gains were Studebaker, ½; United States Steel Common, ⅛; Erie, ¼; Atchison, ⅜; Missouri Pacific, ⅛ and Pennsylvania, ¼. Lehigh Valley, after opening at 136 for a gain of ½, went to 136⅜. There was some covering on account of the double holiday tomorrow (Fourth of July) and Sunday. The curb was strong. Americans in London were firm.

Noon—Some further gains were made in the leading issues in the late forenoon, but business diminished in volume and price movements were comparatively small. Amalgamated Copper moved up ⅜ to 70¼. Steel Common made the same amount of gain. Reading advanced ¼. Other issues unchanged to fractions higher. Call money loaning at 2 per cent.

2:30 p. m.—The list maintained its strength in the last hour. Amalgamated Copper sold at 70½. Lehigh Valley sold at 136½. Steel was steady at 61⅜. Union Pacific sold at 155½ for a net gain of one point from Thursday's closing.

SLAIN ARCHDUKE'S SON, WHO MAY GAIN AUSTRIAN THRONE AND THE HEIR.

Upper—Charles Maximilian, eldest son of the slain Archduke Francis Ferdinand. Lower — Archduke Charles, the recognized heir to the Austrian throne.

Vienna, July 3.—A strong party is being organized to push forward young Prince Miximilian, as pretender to the throne. The position of the young Prince is a strange one. His father, the murdered Archduke, was heir to the throne of the aged Emperor Francis Joseph. Before the Archduke married his morganatic wife, he swore that he would never try to confer royal rank on her or to make any children they might have heirs to the throne.

The Late Miss Forsyth.

The death of Miss Mary Isabella Forsyth will be far reaching in its effect, not only in the deep sorrow felt by the many families with whom she was connected, and the Industrial Home which she founded but also in the patriotic societies of which she was a much honored, and active member, and whose interests she had very deeply at heart. For several years Miss Forsyth held the office of historian in the society of the Colonial Dames of the State of New York, one of the societies which composed the National Society of the Colonial Dames of America. Her thorough knowledge of history, her close connection with the important families of Dutch and colonial times, who had helped make the history of those periods, combined with her great dignity and her ineffable charm of manner, well fitted her for her prominent office. Those members of the society who served with her on the board of managers were inspired by the presence of so noble and broad minded a woman, to do their best work.

MARY H. HALDENE,
Of the Colonial Dames of the State of New York.

Early Teach Law of Economy.

VIADUCT CLAIMS PARTLY SETTLED

Settlements made by the city of Kingston a year ago with three of the property owners along Washington avenue were agreed to on behalf of the city before the Washington avenue viaduct commission, composed of J. DePuy Hasbrouck, John S. Thompson and James H. Duffy, at the court house this morning, and the agreements were ratified by the commission, who will make awards for the stipulated amounts when they file their report of awards.

The settlements to which there was no obection were those with Esther Fitzgerald for $3,750; John C. Oliver, for $575, and Albert H. Cook, Jr., and Mary Cook, his wife, for $1,250.

Objection to the settlement made a year ago by the city with John J. Lane was made on behalf of the Ontario & Western Railroad Company by Philip Elting, attorney for the railroad. The city's settlement a year ago with Mr. Lane was for $3,100, which was for an easement and not for the fee of the land. The railroad company, which bears part of the expense of the cost of constructing the viaduct and for the acquisition of land, etc., obected to this settlement on the ground that such sum was disproportionate and excessive. It was stated that if the fee of the Lane property had been acquired, such sum would not meet with objection. In other cases, in which Corporation Counsel Brinnier consented to the settlements, the city acquired the fee and also an easement. The Lane case will be heard later, and will be contested.

Another question which was raised at the hearing in regard to the interest which the railroad companies which are sharing the expense of the viaduct will have in the fee of the land acquired by the city. Both the Ontario & Western Railroad and the Ulster & Delaware Railroad pay part of the cost of eliminating grade crossings. In the present case, one fourth of the cost of the land acquired will be paid by the New York, Ontario & Western Railroads, and one-fourth by the Ulster & Delaware Railroad, and both railroads, upon paying for their share of the land acquired, wish to have a proportionate interest in the land. This matter will be taken before the Public Service Commission of the Second District, which, said Mr. Brinnier, has exclusive jurisdiction over the matter. To questions by Philip Elting, counsel for the New York, Ontario & Western Railroad, and Harry H. Flemming, counsel for the Ulster & Delaware Railroad, Mr. Brinnier said he believed the railroads, having paid their share of the cost of the land, were entitled to receive a proportionate interest in it, but he did not feel that he had the power to bind the city by any stipulation.

The commission adjourned to July 8, when it will take up the claims of George Hutton and Mary Noone.

At today's hearing, Corporation Counsel Brinnier appeared for the city; claimants were represented by Judge Clearwater, Judge Betts, Philip Elting, Harry H. Flemming, Jenkins & Shufeldt, Howard Chipp, Virgil B. Van Wagonen, Charles W. Walton, Van Etten & Cook, Judge N. Frank O'Reilly and John T. Loughran.

When Reading.

Has it ever occurred to you that, from the point of view of eyesight, there is a right way and a wrong way of holding a book? If you hold it the wrong way, especially if the pages be of smooth, shining paper, you will get a reflection hurtful to the eyes. An eye specialist has been pointing this out, and he says the thing could be remedied by using a certain kind of bookmarker which would destroy the reflection, and in that case you could hold the book anyhow you liked without coming to harm.

PROHIBITIONISTS IN A WRANGLE

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Utica, July 3.—Despite the fact that the delegates attending the Prohibition state convention were engaged until midnight in a wrangle over the party platform that threatened for a time to precipitate personal hostilities, the temperance advocates resumed their labors today on schedule and set about selecting a state ticket.

As soon as the reading of the platform had ended, trouble began. The whole argument started because the state platform, while reaffirming the national platform as a whole, singled out certain clauses for additional emphasis. The inference was that others not thus mentioned might be considered as slighted and for that reason there was a desire to hit everything off about right.

Calls of personal privileges, requests for information and a question as to who was running the convention added to the excitement. Eventually the platform was fixed up and adopted, though several delegates angrily asserted that the motion to adopt the amended platform had not been put or carried and charges of political trickery were freely exchanged.

Automobile Hit a Pole.

A six cylinder Maxwell automobile owned by T. Kistovich, manager of the cement works at Alsen, was damaged this afternoon at the corner of Wall and Main streets by colliding with the telephone pole in front of St. Joseph's Church. The machine was a new one and the young fellow who was driving was unfamiliar with the car and in backing to turn into Wall street from Main he failed to apply the brakes and the machine struck the pole. The machine was badly damaged and the engine crippled. The car was taken to Chambers's garage for repairs.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, July 3.—Strength was shown in all departments of the stock market at the opening today with the most attention attracted to the copper shares. Amalgamated Copper was ½ higher and the same amount of gain was scored by Utah. American Smelting was up ⅝. Southern Pacific was the most active of the railroad group, opening ¼ higher, then increasing its net gain to ½. Reading began ⅛ higher, but was soon selling ½ above Thursday's closing. The biggest gain was scored by Canadian Pacific, which was 1⅛ higher on buying in New York and London. Western Union was in fair demand, selling up to 58½, an advance of ¼. Among other gains were Studebaker, ½; United States Steel Common, ⅛; Erie, ¼; Atchison, ⅜; Missouri Pacific, ⅛ and Pennsylvania, ¼. Lehigh Valley, after opening at 136 for a gain of ½, went to 136⅜. There was some covering on account of the double holiday tomorrow (Fourth of July) and Sunday. The curb was strong. Americans in London were firm.

Noon—Some further gains were made in the leading issues in the late forenoon, but business diminished in volume and price movements were comparatively small. Amalgamated Copper moved up ⅜ to 70¼. Steel Common made the same amount of gain. Reading advanced ¼. Other issues unchanged to fractions higher. Call money loaning at 2 per cent.

2:30 p. m.—The list maintained its strength in the last hour. Amalgamated Copper sold at 70½. Lehigh Valley sold at 136½. Steel was steady at 61⅜. Union Pacific sold at 155½ for a net gain of one point from Thursday's closing.

The stock market closed firm; governments unchanged; other bonds irregular.

SLAIN ARCHDUKE'S SON, WHO MAY GAIN AUSTRIAN THRONE AND THE HEIR.

Upper—Charles Maximilian, eldest son of the slain Archduke Francis Ferdinand. Lower — Archduke Charles, the recognized heir to the Austrian throne.

Vienna, July 3.—A strong party is being organized to push forward young Prince Miximilian, as pretender to the throne. The position of the young Prince is a strange one. His father, the murdered Archduke, was heir to the throne of the aged Emperor Francis Joseph. Before the Archduke married his morganatic wife, he swore that he would never try to confer royal rank on her or to make any children they might have heirs to the throne.

The Late Miss Forsyth.

The death of Miss Mary Isabella Forsyth will be far reaching in its effect, not only in the deep sorrow felt by the many families with whom she was connected, and the Industrial Home which she founded but also in the patriotic societies of which she was a much honored, and active member, and whose interests she had very deeply at heart. For several years Miss Forsyth held the office of historian in the society of the Colonial Dames of the State of New York, one of the societies which composed the National Society of the Colonial Dames of America. Her thorough knowledge of history, her close connection with the important families of Dutch and colonial times, who had helped make the history of those periods, combined with her great dignity and her ineffable charm of manner, well fitted her for her prominent office. Those members of the society who served with her on the board of managers were inspired by the presence of so noble and broad minded a woman, to do their best work.

MARY H. HALDENE,
Of the Colonial Dames of the State of New York.

Early Teach Law of Economy.

The law of economy enters into all the practical affairs of life, not only of the community at large, but also of the family and of the individual. It should be diligently taught to our children as one of the foundation principles of a good character.

KINGSTON, N. Y., JULY 3, 1916.

Going back to colonial ideas of punishment for wife-beating is the plan to be practiced in Kansas City, Kansas, where a pillory is to be erected for the exposure of offenders of this class. The pillory as it flourished in Puritan times in old Massachusetts was a framework of wood with openings through which the head, arms and legs of the captive were thrust in which position he remained for the length of time fixed by the court. Pushed to an extreme length, this punishment might easily come under the clause of the constitution prohibiting cruel and unusual punishment but applied to the indefensible practice of wife-beating it appears to be altogether appropriate and just, once the accused is proved guilty of such offense after fair trial. About one application of this remedy would be sufficient it would seem were the Kansas City scheme carried out in all its details, one of which calls for placing the post in the main business section.

Contrary to some congressional opinion, the folks at home occasionally think. Witness Ripon, Wisconsin, whose Common Council, City Commercial Club and citizens with sons at mobilization camps have united in a petition to the House of Representatives asking that the appropriation of $75,000 for a Federal building at Ripon be diverted to the national defense. Imagine the shock this must have been to purveyors of pork making up the majority of the present Congress whose legislation has fairly lauded the remote and smaller communities of the South and Middle West with post office buildings adequate to meet the conditions a half century hence at twice the present rate of growth. The Ripon incident is the slap direct and deserved. Today our National Guard stands mobilized but without adequate equipment and each man with a single shirt to his back provided by a Federal administration which claims preparedness as its watchword. So much attention has been given to placing of pork in the way of public buildings that Congress has been too occupied to see that this very policy is repudiated by the very folk for whose benefit the buildings were given. The contrast between views at the capital and at home cannot but be illuminating and an accurate indication of a pronounced change in our government next November.

While the State convention of the Socialist party at Albany on Saturday was amply justified by the facts in criticising severely the Democratic administration for its Mexican policy, it is doubtful if many thinking Americans will approve the promulgation of Morris Hillquit, its chairman, that the policy of "America first is vicious." As an idealist Chairman Hillquit would substitute "humanity first." The "humanity first" policy is capable of several constructions. The construction which the Wilson administration adopted, following the Bryanesque lines which prevailed in the State Department when trouble began to occur, was that America must turn the other cheek not only once but many times, and then stand still while sundry cuffs and kicks were administered in various parts of the anatomy, concluding with the wholesale butchery of American citizens on the high seas and on their own soil, without reason or without the semblance of an excuse. Maybe it is not a humanitarian act to strike a man; the Biblical injunction is to turn the other cheek when one cheek has been smitten by an enemy. The Bible says nothing about the number of times we are to suffer the smiting process. It adjures us against anger, but it would seem to be not only orthodox but embodying principles of common sense as well to administer punishment. Punishment is resorted to among nations as a last means, but abandoning a policy both of punishment and self-protection leaves a nation open to attacks which no law of humanitarism can rebuke when they are repulsed. Having gone to the limit of endurance in the desire to abide by the laws of humanity, there may come a time in a nation's life that it becomes necessary to adopt protective measures, in order to insure future safety. In the opinion of a large part of the American population, that time has now arrived.

RED-WINGED BLACKBIRD

(Agelaius phœniceus)

Length, about nine and one-half inches.

Range: Breeds in Mexico and North America south of the barren grounds; winters in southern half of United States and south to Costa Rica.

Habits and economic status: The prairies of the upper Mississippi valley, with their numerous sloughs and ponds, furnish ideal nesting places for redwings, and consequently this region has become the great breeding ground for the species. These prairies pour forth the vast flocks that play havoc with grain fields. East of the Appalachian range, marshes on the shores of lakes, rivers and estuaries are the only available breeding sites and, as these are comparatively few and small, the species is much less abundant than in the West. Redwings are eminently gregarious, living in flocks and breeding in communities. The food of the redwing consists of 27 per cent animal matter and 73 per cent vegetable. Insects constitute practically one-fourth of the food. Beetles (largely weevils, a most harmful group) amount to 10 per cent. Grasshoppers are eaten in every month and amount to about 5 per cent. Caterpillars (among them the injurious army worm) are eaten at all seasons and aggregate 6 per cent. Ants, wasps, bugs, flies, dragonflies, and spiders also are eaten. The vegetable food consists of seeds, including grain, of which oats is the favorite, and some small fruits. When in large flocks this bird is capable of doing great harm to grain.

Small Things That Count.

A little information picked up every day soon becomes an education, and a little moral teaching picked up every day soon becomes a sermon.

The "New Idea" Cabinet

"Your own idea of what a kitchen cabinet ought to be"

The Latest Kitchen Cabinet Achievement

Revolving Flour Bin

Roller Curtains in Base

This, the Sellers Kitcheneed "New Idea," is the latest, most perfect achievement of the organization making "your own idea of what a kitchen cabinet ought to be." It has been over twenty-five years developing.

It possesses more patented, practically useful convenience features than ever any kitchen cabinet made.

The "New Idea" Flour Bin is the most sanitary, practical and simply constructed bin ever put on a Sellers Kitcheneed. A simple problem in physics producing a perfect balance enables a woman to fill the bin with fifty pounds of flour in the position you see it here, and return to its original position without effort. It is easily removed for thorough cleaning, and on account of its construction, cannot cake with flour.

The Sellers Kitcheneed Roll Curtain Lifter in the base—by simply bringing the handle across the front of the base the roll curtain is lifted, permitting the easiest access to the base compartment. It is not necessary to stoop and lift the curtain from the bottom.

There are other convenience details, many of them, that are a part of the Sellers Kitcheneed "New Idea." These mentioned are significant of the value of the rest. To conserve a woman's strength and, incidentally and importantly, her youth, has been among the chief motives for the designing of this new Sellers Kitcheneed.

THREE LOCAL CASES DECIDED IN ALBANY

In addition to the case of Frank M. Boyce, Jr., the appellate division of the supreme court at Albany on Thursday handed down decisions in three other Ulster county cases.

A decision was handed down in the case of the Marlborough Water Works Company, respondent, against the Village of Marlborough, appellant. The action was brought to recover $340 for the rent of fire hydrants in Marlborough from April 1, 1912, to October 1 of the same year. Before April 1, 1912, the village had rented fire hydrants from the water works company for $680 a year, but at a special election held on March 19, 1912, a proposition to raise $900 for fire protection was defeated, and the company was so notified by the village clerk. On June 27, following, the water company offered to sell its water works to the village for $30,000, together with hydrants rented at the rate of $20 a year from April 1, 1912, to the time of purchase. The company accepted the offer to buy the water works for $30,000. Nothing was stated in the contract of sale regarding the hydrants rented. The Wygant fire occurred before the sale of the water works was consumated, and the fire hydrants were used by the village fire companies. The company later sued to recover $340 for six months' rent of the fire hydrants, and the case was tried before Judge Jenkins, who held that the village had had the use of the hydrants from April first to October first and the water company was entitled to judgment for the amount sued for. The village appealed to the appellate division, which on Thursday unanimously affirmed his judgment with costs. The opinion of the court is written by Judge Woodward. A. D. & A. W. Lent represented the water company and Alexander Johnston represented the village.

Village Also Loses McMullen Suit.

In the case of Moses McMullen, respondent, against the Village of Marlborough, appellant, the appellate division unanimously affirmed the order appealed from, with costs. The case was a novel one and raised questions of law which have not been before determined. Under the provisions of the state highway law, plans were made for the construction of the Marlborough state road, which included Main street in the village of Marlborough. Mr. McMullen owns and operates a factory at the corner of Main and Landing streets in that village, and the grade of Main street was raised 2.8 feet in front of his property. The state partly raised the grade of Landing street so as to bring it to the new grade of Main street, and the village made other changes there, including the building of a retaining wall. The change of grade affected Mr. McMullen's property and he brought a proceeding against the village to recover damages through commissioners of appraisal.

Mr. McMullen's action against the village was based on the provision of the village law giving village trustees exclusive jurisdiction and control over village streets. The trustees opposed the proceedings, contending that the change in grade was not made by the village but by the state highway department, under the provisions of the highway law, and that therefore the village was not liable. Judge Chester overruled the contention of the village and appointed John N. Vanderlyn, Joseph M. Fowler and Charles W. Walton commissioners of appraisal. A stay to prevent the commissioners from proceeding was procured by the village pending the determination of its appeal to the appellate division. The latter court has unanimously affirmed Judge Chester, with costs. The opinion is written by Presiding Judge Smith. Arthur E. Rose is attorney for Mr. McMullen and Graham Witschief of Newburgh represents the village of Marlborough.

Adams Suit Not Dead Yet.

A decision was also handed down in the case of James T. O'Reilly, as receiver in supplementary proceedings, etc., respondent, against George R. Adams, the Rondout Savings Bank and others, appellants. This case had been pending a number of years and has journeyed through the courts almost continuously, once reaching the court of appeals. Mrs. Maria McCord, one of the original parties to the suit, is dead, but the suit still lives. It arose originally over an effort by Mr. O'Reilly to recover moneys deposited in the Rondout Savings Bank to the credit of Mrs. McCord, against whose husband judgment had been secured by Casper Michels. Mr Adams held the bank book and he declined to give it up on the ground that it had been given to him as trustee for the purpose of seeing that the money was expended solely for the purpose of paying the funeral expenses of Mr. and Mrs. McCord, when they should die. Later Mr. Michels assigned his interest in the money to John D. Eckert, and the present appeal is from an order of Judge Hasbrouck whereby Mr. Eckert was held to be entitled to the money. The appellate division is of the same opinion as Judge Hasbrouck, and has affirmed the judgment of the trial court with costs. The court's opinion is written by Judge Woodward. Judge N. Frank O'Reilly appeared for Mr. O'Reilly, as receiver, with John D. Eckert, of counsel; Mr. Adams represented himself and the McCords, and DeWitt Roosa appeared for the Savings Bank.

Praise for English Schools.

"Whatever else we may say about the English schools, they do turn out well-behaved orderly boys and girls, respectful to those set over them, grounded in the morals of Christian civilization, with an instinctive sense of obedience to law and a becoming regard for the authorities that represent it. Would we be any the worse off if we had more of these qualities here?"—Whitelaw Reid.

SOMETHING DOING ALL DAY LONG

Kingston's Fourth of July Celebration Will Include a Parade, Speeches and Field Day Sports Will Last All Day.

All preparations have been completed for Kingston's safe and sane celebration of the Fourth of July, and it is probable that the town will hold the largest crowd that it has contained on Fourth of July for many years.

All fraternal and patriotic organizations in the city have been invited to take part in the celebration, and invitations also extended to organizations throughout the county and in different cities and villages have been accepted, so that Kingston should be able to celebrate the day in old fashioned style, and there should be no need any Kingstonian going away to have a good time.

Are You Eating Squabs Regularly?

You ought to. They are delicious. Squabs are young pigeons only four weeks old. Perhaps you have bought in the markets old pigeons, often offered as squabs. They are comparatively tough and stringy. The genuine squabs, such as we sell, are right out of the nest, fat, plump, juicy, weighing from fourteen ounces to a pound apiece. They are fully feathered. Same as old birds. Squabs are highly esteemed as an article of food because the juice of the squab (which is pure liquid protoplasm) is the most nourishing and vitalizing fluid known. In fact there is no bird or flesh food that can equal the squab for condensed nourishment. We can supply squabs at any time on receipt of your order. Prices 75 cents per pair, by parcel post 15 cents extra.

THREE LOCAL CASES DECIDED IN ALBANY

In addition to the case of Frank M. Boyce, Jr., the appellate division of the supreme court at Albany on Thursday handed down decisions in three other Ulster county cases.

A decision was handed down in the case of the Marlborough Water Works Company, respondent, against the Village of Marlborough, appellant. The action was brought to recover $340 for the rent of fire hydrants in Marlborough from April 1, 1912, to October 1 of the same year. Before April 1, 1912, the village had rented fire hydrants from the water works company for $680 a year, but at a special election held on March 19, 1912, a proposition to raise $900 for fire protection was defeated, and the company was so notified by the village clerk. On June 27, following, the water company offered to sell its water works to the village for $30,000, together with hydrants rented at the rate of $20 a year from April 1, 1912, to the time of purchase. The company accepted the offer to buy the water works for $30,000. Nothing was stated in the contract of sale regarding the hydrants rented. The Wygant fire occurred before the sale of the water works was consumated, and the fire hydrants were used by the village fire companies. The company later sued to recover $340 for six months' rent of the fire hydrants, and the case was tried before Judge Jenkins, who held that the village had had the use of the hydrants from April first to October first and the water company was entitled to judgment for the amount sued for. The village appealed to the appellate division, which on Thursday unanimously affirmed his judgment with costs. The opinion of the court is written by Judge Woodward. A. D. & A. W. Lent represented the water company and Alexander Johnston represented the village.

Village Also Loses McMullen Suit.

In the case of Moses McMullen, respondent, against the Village of Marlborough, appellant, the appellate division unanimously affirmed the order appealed from, with costs. The case was a novel one and raised questions of law which have not been before determined. Under the provisions of the state highway law, plans were made for the construction of the Marlborough state road, which included Main street in the village of Marlborough. Mr. McMullen owns and operates a factory at the corner of Main and Landing streets in that village, and the grade of Main street was raised 2.8 feet in front of his property. The state partly raised the grade of Landing street so as to bring it to the new grade of Main street, and the village made other changes there, including the building of a retaining wall. The change of grade affected Mr. McMullen's property and he brought a proceeding against the village to recover damages through commissioners of appraisal.

Mr. McMullen's action against the village was based on the provision of the village law giving village trustees exclusive jurisdiction and control over village streets. The trustees opposed the proceedings, contending that the change in grade was not made by the village but by the state highway department, under the provisions of the highway law, and that therefore the village was not liable. Judge Chester overruled the contention of the village and appointed John N. Vanderlyn, Joseph M. Fowler and Charles W. Walton commissioners of appraisal. A stay to prevent the commissioners from proceeding was procured by the village pending the determination of its appeal to the appellate division. The latter court has unanimously affirmed Judge Chester, with costs. The opinion is written by Presiding Judge Smith. Arthur E. Rose is attorney for Mr. McMullen and Graham Witschief of Newburgh represents the village of Marlborough.

Adams Suit Not Dead Yet.

A decision was also handed down in the case of James T. O'Reilly, as receiver in supplementary proceedings, etc., respondent, against George R. Adams, the Rondout Savings Bank and others, appellants. This case had been pending a number of years and has journeyed through the courts almost continuously, once reaching the court of appeals. Mrs. Maria McCord, one of the original parties to the suit, is dead, but the suit still lives. It arose originally over an effort by Mr. O'Reilly to recover moneys deposited in the Rondout Savings Bank to the credit of Mrs. McCord, against whose husband judgment had been secured by Casper Michels. Mr Adams held the bank book and he declined to give it up on the ground that it had been given to him as trustee for the purpose of seeing that the money was expended solely for the purpose of paying the funeral expenses of Mr. and Mrs. McCord, when they should die. Later Mr. Michels assigned his interest in the money to John D. Eckert, and the present appeal is from an order of Judge Hasbrouck whereby Mr. Eckert was held to be entitled to the money. The appellate division is of the same opinion as Judge Hasbrouck, and has affirmed the judgment of the trial court with costs. The court's opinion is written by Judge Woodward. Judge N. Frank O'Reilly appeared for Mr. O'Reilly, as receiver, with John D. Eckert, of counsel; Mr. Adams represented himself and the McCords, and DeWitt Roosa appeared for the Savings Bank.

Praise for English Schools.

"Whatever else we may say about the English schools, they do turn out well-behaved orderly boys and girls, respectful to those set over them, grounded in the morals of Christian civilization, with an instinctive sense of obedience to law and a becoming regard for the authorities that represent it. Would we be any the worse off if we had more of these qualities here?"—Whitelaw Reid.

SOMETHING DOING ALL DAY LONG

The Lake Katrine Inn is proving a popular resort since its resurrection after the fire and offers many attractions for those desiring recreation as to dining, fishing, boating and other forms of amusement.

OTHER LOCK-UP TROUBLES.

Poughkeepsie and Ellenville are Also Being Threatened.

That Kingston is not the only place which is having trouble with its lock-up is evidenced by the hysterics which the Poughkeepsie newspapers are having. The state prison commission has ordered the Poughkeepsie jail closed summarily for failure to make needed improvements. Mayor Wilbur threatens to invoke the law's aid to secure a suspension of hostilities until the city can offer some relief. The prison commission claims it has been bluffed long enough by the last three mayors of Poughkeepsie and will not stand it any longer.

Ellenville is also having its trouble with the prison commission. The following is copied from the Ellenville Press:

Village Clerk C. G. A. Fisher was before the State Prison Commission at Albany Tuesday, in answer to a summons in regard to the village lock up. He found the commission disposed to work along the lines with which the tax payers are becoming familiar, of providing all the luxuries of life for criminals at the expense of honest people. The commission does not seem to realize that its the part of wisdom to discourage criminality, but are doing all they can to encourage the worthless to accept the state's hospitality as dispensed through fancy prisons,, unfamiliar luxuries and good fare. It is their ultimatum that three cells must adorn our lock up, that they must be along the rear wall with a window and a toilet in each. The bath and etceteras will come later if the commission can keep a strangle hold on the public and the offices.

Long Motorcycle Trip.

Kirby Marshall and Ben Webber, two employes of the Union Light, Heat and Power Company of Covington, Kentucky, passed through Kingston this morning on their way to visit Mr. McNally at the Maple Hill Farm on the Rosendale road, with whom they will spend several days. They made the entire trip on their motorcycles, leaving Covington last Saturday afternoon. Their route was by way of Springfield and Cleveland, Ohio; Erie, Pa; Buffalo, Syracuse, Rochester, Utica and Albany. The greater part of the route, especially in New York state, called for travel over state roads, but on account of bad condition of the roads and the repairs which are being made to them, they were compelled to detour most of the distance.

The Children's Chorus.

The Kingston Trolley Company has very generously donated the use of cars to transport the children to the city hall for the exercises Saturday morning. The downtown class will gather at Broadway and McEntee street at 9 a. m. sharp and the uptown class at the same hour at the corner of Fair and Pearl streets. Prof. Rieser wishes the children to be on hand promptly at the time and places stated, where trolley cars will be in waiting to transport them to the city hall. Let all the children be punctually on hand.

Post Office Hours Saturday.

Refuted Aristotle.

In a recent lecture in London, a scientist called attention to the fact that Aristotle said that a weight of ten pounds, for example, fell ten times as fast as a weight of one pound, and the world went on believing it for 2,000 years. But Galileo preferred to try for himself by dropping Aristotle's weights from the Leaning Tower of Pisa, and, though people still did not believe him, he showed that they reached the ground practically together.

BIG ROWING TROPHY WILL COME TO U. S.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Henley on Thames, Eng., July 3.—The Grand Challenge cup, the chief rowing trophy of Great Britain, will go to the United States. This was determined today when the second eight of Harvard defeated the team of the Winnipeg Rowing Club and the crew of the Union Boat Club of Boston beat the eight representing the Mayence Rowing Club of Germany in the semi-finals.

The elimination of the Canadians and Germans resulted in two American crews being left to fight it out in the final tomorrow.

THE VALLEY BEAUTIFUL.

Drive From Kingston to Ellenville Never Finer Than Now.

The valley of the Rondout between Kingston and Ellenville never looked more beautiful than it does now, making one of the most attractive automobile rides in this country, or for that matter in any other, with its diversity of mountains, woodland, winding streams and cultivated fields. The ripening grain on the slopes of the Catskills and the Shawangunks lend an added charm. Summer visitors are flocking to all the villages in the valley, particularly to Stone Ridge, where the Sally Tocks Inn presided over by Miss Hasbrouck and Miss Lounsbery draws many visitors. The old stone house which these young women have converted into a wayside inn, was an important tavern when New York was a Province of the English Crown and one of the thirteen colonies. It was well known throughout the Colonies as "Tack's" and it was here that Washington's staff stayed when he made his memorable trip through the county in November, 1782. George Clinton often stopped with Tack, and there the spy, Taylor, who was executed at Old Hurley, is said to have spent the last night of his life. The old stone house has been admirably fitted up by its present occupants with simple blue and white hangings and decorations, and the walls are ornamented with ancient flint lock muskets and the old fashion swords carried by the officers of the Continental Army, many of whom came from Marbletown. The floor of the old parlor has been polished and waxed for dancing, old punched lanterns shed a mellow light and the refreshment rooms are fitted up with small round tables and Winsdor chairs. To step from a seven passenger automobile into the Sally Tocks is like walking from the twentieth century into the eighteenth, and in keeping with the colonial atmosphere the register of the inn even at this early day contains the names of members of those old families which always have made Ulster one of the most important countries in America.

O. I. Wundermuch Suggests Texts for Russell Supporters to Obey.

Kingston, N. Y., July 3, 1914.

Editor of The Freeman:

Dear Sir:—Through the medium of your columns permit me to make reply to "A Wondering Citizen's" letter in last evening's isssue.

As Mr. O. I. Wundermuch, he heaped a bitter indictment upon me, and I wish to plead guilty to but one part and that is I am perspicacious, and to the extent that I could discern in an instant the underhanded methods of publicity used in promoting these so-called "Creation" pictures. I fail to see where it has any bearing on the real creation other than that it creates an interest in Russellism.

This "Wondering Citizen" states that Russell's works are the result of diligent study and careful comparison with the Bible. The dear brother should know that there is a vast difference between a theory or religion that is in comparison with the Bible and one that is in accordance with it.

He seems to ridicule me for condemning Russell's books after having read but the preface. Surely any book, the preface of which emits a stench of sectarianism, must be saturated with it.

Furthermore, I have read Russell's publications and they are not worthy serious consideration. However, I think I could discern an idea which led me to picture Russell engaged in gluttonous glee as he sees people of wealth and prestige pick at the strings of his instruments of delusion. Of course, his quotations from the Bible seem to sweeten the music and seemingly assist him in entrancing and deceiving the poor unfortunates who have strayed from the churches or those who "haven't mental capacity enough to resist." Then Russell with the mask of piousness points to them and their acts as an achievement for good. In the meantime he listens with well trained ear for the clinking of coin as it rolls into his treasury.

This "Wondering Citizen," who is so enrapted in Russell is but an example, for his very letter indicates that were his entire thought capacity in material form it would not create a discernible speck.

It's too bad that when these Russellites are prying into the Bible that they do not piece these two sentences together: "And Judas went and hanged himself." "Go thou and do likewise."

CRAP SHOOTERS FINED $3 EACH

Owing to Their Youthfulness No Larger Fine Was Imposed by Recorder Lang—They Were Arrested Saturday.

For some time past factory boys have been in the habit of shooting crap on Connell street, near Ten Broeck avenue. Saturday afternoon Policemen Simpson and Healey raided a game, and rounded up five young men, who were paroled until this morning, when they were arraigned before Recorder Lang.

The five boys arrested were Stanley Wojcio, No. 49 Meadow street, Frank Wojnoski, 21 East Pierpont street, Albert Kline, No. 112 First avenue, Dewey Soman, 55 Strand, and Frank Boud, No. 79 Orchard street.

They all pleaded guilty when the charge was read to them by the court.

Recorder Lang in imposing sentence said that owing to their youth he would only impose a fine of $3 each and would hold the case open for three weeks to give the boys an opportunity to pay the fine at the rate of a dollar a week.

The boys ranged in age from 15 to 17 years of age.

Two other boys, Kenneth Hornbeck and William Hamburger, also arrested on the same charge, "got in wrong" as they were not taking part in the game, and were allowed to go with a warning to keep away from crap games in the future.

Fourth of July Tetanus.

Back in 1905 there were 104 deaths in the United States from Fourth of July tetanus, this figure representing about the average mortality. In 1914, as a result of the institution of better prophylactic treatment by physicians and the widespread agitation for a safe and sane Fourth, the number was reduced to 3. A year ago the U. S. Public Health Service expected and predicted that every youngster in the United States would be safe from this disease, basing its estimate on what had already been accomplished. When the returns came in it was found that a boy down in Maine had been injured, developed tetanus and died. That single fatality was only one among several hundred thousand occurring in the United States during 1915 but it resulted from Fourth of July tetanus or lockjaw, a preventable disease, and was therefore an unnecessary death. The loss of this boy makes it necessary to again disseminate information regarding this wholly avoidable infection.

The blank cartridge wound is the great cause of Fourth of July tetanus, but injuries from crackers and firearms are at times responsible. When driven into the tissues the wadding carries with it innumerable bacilli. If those be tetanus bacilli the poisonous products or toxins resulting from their multiplication produce the disease. Tetanus bacilli thrive only in the absence of oxygen. It is for this reason that the physician enlarges the wound of entrance and after removing all foreign material dresses the injury in such a manner that development of the organisms is inhibited. In order to accomplish this it is usually necessary to administer an anaesthetic. Antitetanic serum is of great value as a prophylactic and it should invariably be given in injuries of this character.

Parents should realize that Fourth of July tetanus is easy to prevent but extremely difficult to cure, the disease being attended with a mortality of more than 95 per cent. No blank cartridge wound is too trivial to receive careful medical attention. However slight the injury may appear summon a competent physician who will at once institute the necessary prophylactic measures. Reliance upon home treatment may prove disastrous and result in the needless sacrifice of life.

Corporal W. G. Planthaber explained to use "The rookies have found a new route to the nearest water and instead of lugging it a mile and a half they now have to tug it only—a mile and a quarter.

Schupp Is Camp Barber.

While all of the boys carry their own shaving equipment with them still they have not learned to cut their own hair yet, and here is where the presence of Musician George Schupp is welcome. He is the only barber in the company, and believe us boys he is some barber.

Lieut. Dittus Gets Army Hair Cut.

One of the first men to get what is known as an army hair cut was Lieutenant R. C. Dittus. The job was performed by Barber Schupp

The reporter did not know this until after he had shaken hands with the lieutenant and was admiring the cut of his hair, when he explained to the reporter that the operation was performed by Schupp.

An army hair cut has to be seen to be enjoyed. It is needless to say that Lieutenant Dittus looked every inch a soldier and his hair cut made all beholders anxious to have theirs cut the same way.

Private Dawe is a Poet.

Private Richard Dawe is one of the boys who sleep sixteen in a tent—or was it twenty-four? Anyway, the boys in his tent are all happy, and Private Dawe found time between his other duties to compose the following ditty, which the boys of his tent sung with a will the night is was composed:

It's a long way to get Carranza,
  It's a long way to go.
It's a long way to get Carranza,
  But we will surely go.
Goodbye old Rhinebeck ferry,
  Farewell, Fischer's Square.
It's a long, long way to get Carranza,
  But Company M will be there.

Working on Mustering-in.

Captain Meagher is anxious to have the job of filling out the necessary blanks for the mustering-in completed and Privates Dawe and Hammond were busy at work at it when we struck camp.

They work in details and when they are off the job the work is taken up by Corporal Mesereau and Private Horsfall.

All four boys have had considerable experience in book work at one time or another, and write a good plain hand, which is the reason they have been assigned the work.

The Old Swimming Hole.

As every one knows many of the boys of Company M are accomplished swimmers, and it was only a short time before they discovered what served the purpose of "the old swimming hole" about a mile outside of camp. It is a big pool of water, and when off duty the boys enjoy a plunge in the sparkling waters and also in getting rid of the dirt acquired in digging trenches. The existence of this pool is the reason why the reporter didn't see Lieutenant Cashin.

Boys Will Get Diplomas.

There has had to be considerable work done in digging trenches in the camp, which work is being mostly done by the rookies The boys will also be able to demand a diploma for trench digging by the time they break camp.

This is nothing unusual for many of them have watched with interest more times than one the work of digging up the brick pavement on Broadway by the gas company and the street department as well as the plumbers, and they are profiting by what they observed.

Drill, Drill, Drill.

"Camp life is no cinch," as Private Fred Snyder explained. He continued, "We drill two hours each morning, and three hours in the afternoon."

Champion Boxer Not Yet Decided.

The cook tent is equipped with a pair of boxing gloves just to give the boys a little exercise.

When the reporter struck camp "Daredevil" Sills and "Battling" Fox were having a little set to, which they broke off to shake hands with him. Some day The Freeman will print a picture of the thrilling scene.

So far it had not been decided just who was entitled to the title of champion boxer of Company M. It might be added that there are some husky lads among the company.

Private Perry Has a Cold.

Private Edward J. Perry, a member of The Freeman force with Company M, had a sight cold on Sunday. He said it was due to sleeping in a draft. When the reporter looked blank, he said "The other seven boys in our tent sleep with their mouths open."

Tent 12 Snorers.

The palm for snoring must be handed to tent No. 12 in which sleep twenty-four husky rookies. The other boys say that along about midnight the sound coming from the tent reminded them of the rumble of heavy artillery fired at rapid speed.

In fact the first night in camp the other boys, aroused from a sound sleep by the racket, roused up and grasped their guns and stood at attention thinking they were on the Mexican border and that Carranza was making an attack on the camp.

Private Netter Has Job.

Private Martin Netter has been assigned a job, owing to his ability to handle figures—arithmetic is meant. He is the man who sees that the boys get the "eats" and he has to keep tab as to just how much each man eats. Twenty ounces of meat are allowed each man a day. "Believe me it takes some figuring to keep my accounts straight, too," said Private Netter, as he bent over his accounts after shaking the visitor by the hand and asking how things were going in Kingston.

As the visitor left his tent, Netter said: "By the way, I have not had time yet to dope out that play I was going to write entitled 'Carranza's Whiskers.'"

Private Mergendahl Home.

Private Arthur Mergendahl was brought to his home here on Sunday afternoon suffering from water on the knee. While drilling on Athletic Field a few days before Company M left for camp he wrenched his knee, which although it pained him at first, seemed to take a turn for the better and he left for camp with the other boys. His knee grew worse in camp, and it was decided best to have him removed to his home, which was done.

Officers' Mess Same as Men.

It is usual in the army for the officers to enjoy a little better food than the privates. This is due to the fact that the officers are obliged to pay for their own meals.

Captain Meagher and his staff, however, after the first day in camp, decided that they would eat the same food as served the privates and see for themselves how the quality and quantity was. They have been doing so ever since, and no discrimination is shown, the officers getting exactly the same food as is served the boys of the company.

Captain Meagher a Good Sport.

One of the boys informed the visitor that when they reached Camp Whitman it was found that there was not enough eating utensils to go around among the boys, and Captain Meagher out of his own pocket furnished money to buy some tins and eating utensils in Poughkeepsie which were divided among the boys who were shy. "You just bet Captain Meagher is one good sport," said the informant. The other boys who stood nearby confirmed the good opinion of their captain, expressed by the rooky.

All Officers Stand High.

In fact all of the officers of Company M stand high in the regard of their men as they are using every effort to keep the boys comfortable and happy, and make camp life bearable for the boys, many of whom are now getting their first taste of what camp life really is

Many Kingston People Present.

A large number of Kingston folks also dropped into camp to visit the boys of Company M. They made the trip by automobile, as there is no Sunday train service to the camp.

Road Fairly Good.

The route to Camp Whitman outlined in The Freeman of Saturday was the one many followed to camp and they found that the road was fairly good, although somewhat rutted in places.

SOLDIERS HAVEN'T ASKED BUT---

The members of Company M at Camp Whitman are not suffering from anything more serious than sunburn and aching muscles.. They are not holding out their hats for contributions and have not asked for anything. But, just the same, it must be a trifle unpleasant to reflect that other companies in the regiment were given cash contributions by generous citizens who thought it well to do something beside cheer for the soldiers, and that these companies are living as well in camp as Company M did in the armory, while Company M is living on regular rations.

Like most of the soldiers, Company M members left their civilian work very suddenly two weeks ago. Many of them had little money. They all smoke. Tobacco and cigarettes go quickly in camp. Nickles and dimes are getting scarce.

Pies, cakes and fresh fruit also taste mighty good to a soldier in camp, on the Fourth of July or any other day.

How about this, you folks who expect to visit the camp on the Fourth?

The Sort.

"What kind of a game is that child starting with its yelling?"

"It sounds like it might be a bawl game."

Balanced Meals---

Have them both tasty and healthful.

Years ago a food was devised to serve two important functions—(1) furnish delicious flavor, and (2) well-balanced nourishment.

That food is

GRAPE-NUTS

It fulfills its office admirably, for it is made of whole wheat and malted barley, with all their splendid nutrition, including the vital mineral salts, which are lacking in much of the food of the usual dietary.

In thousands of homes Grape-Nuts forms part of the daily ration with both young and old.

THREE LOCAL REVIEW

(By Frank G. Menke.)

New York, July 3.—After explaining that some golf stories are like most fish stories, we will proceed to "lift" a few anecdotes from the "Queer shots in Golf" article which appears in the June issue of the Golfers Magazine."

No names are mentioned in connection with a story of how a grasshopper once got in the way of a rolling ball and kept it from dropping into the hole. Probably, as they say in breakfast food circles, "There's a reason."

* * * *

It seems that the golfer who was thwarted by the grasshopper, made a terrific approach shot, and the ball, landing some distance from the green, continued to roll and roll and roll. The golfer was amazed to see the ball finally roll onto the green, and head directly for the hole. It seemed to have sufficient momentum to carry it into the cup, when, all of a sudden, up jumped Mister Grass Hopper from his place of hiding, just in time to see the ball bearing down upon him.

"Halt!" commanded the grasshopper, aiming his left leg at the heart of the ball.

The ball didn't halt.

"Hey, you, slip us the countersign or you don't enter here," roared the grasshoper.

The ball ignored the demand for a countersign, and so the grasshopper, not being sure whether the ball was friend or foe, but not caring to take any chances, swung out one of his trusty feet, landed a perfect solar-plexus, and the ball was halted in its mad career—just on the rim of the cup.

Opie Read, the author, and Dr. R. C. Fisher of Chicago, once played a round over the Jackson Park course and then sat under a tree to rest. While seated, some other golfer sliced a drive and the ball struck the tree under which our heroes were sitting. Both Read and Dr. Fisher ducked but the ball did not fall to the ground as far as they could see.

Pretty soon the golfer and his caddy came along looking for the ball. The author and physician joined in the search but it was unavailing. The ball was not found then, but it was found later. Nope, you've guessed wrong. The ball did not drop down the back of Read's neck. It dropped into the doctor's coat pocket, and he found it there that evening when he was searching around in the pocket for a package of chewing gum, or his pipe, or whatever it was that he was searching for.

* * * *

"How to Hole a Ball Without ...ts one. It happened on ...e North Berwich course.

A thirty-six hole foursome was being played. It was all even on the thirty-sixth hole. One side got the ball of the other to the green, and dropped it into the cup on the next shot. The ball of the other side was 20 feet away. A gale was blowing, and the ball lay on a point a bit higher up than the hole level. The player figured the shot an impossible one, but he determined to make a desperate try for it any way.

Just as he was about to soak the ball a nice soak, an extra strong gust of wind came along and hit the ball, starting it to rolling down hill. And whaddaya think of it? That ball rolled right into the cup, so it did. And the side that owned the ball won the match. How was that? well, it was decided that the player had not grounded his club before the ball started to rolling, and therefore, the roll was counted as part of the last shot.

Pretty good figuring, hey?

* * * *

But you can't always get away with those kind of shots, as is shown by another story in which a caterpillar figured.

Everything was even at the eighteenth hole. Player number one got his ball onto the green and holed it. Player number two got his ball onto the green, near the cup, which was in a slightly sloping position. He was trying to figure out from just what angle to shoot when a caterpillar ambled along and climbed aboard the ball.

Now, everybody knows that a caterpillar doesn't weigh much, but this particular caterpillar was a fat fellow. He was so fat and bulky that he disturbed the equilibrium of the ball just enough to start it to moving. The ball gained momentum and finally rolled right into the hole, carrying the caterpillar with it.

The player claimed that the hole was his—and the match also, claiming he had not grounded his club and that the caterpillar propelled movement of the ball should be counted as part of the last stroke. But, when it was put up to a final authority the claim was disallowed. The referee said that the ball should have been put back into position without penalty, on the grounds that if the ball had missed the hole and rolled ten feet away, the golfer would have insisted upon replacing it.

The two committees composed of the members of the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce have decided to suspend the canvass for sustaining members until the first few days of next week. THREE LOCAL REVIEW

(By Frank G. Menke.)

New York, July 3.—After explaining that some golf stories are like most fish stories, we will proceed to "lift" a few anecdotes from the "Queer shots in Golf" article which appears in the June issue of the Golfers Magazine."

No names are mentioned in connection with a story of how a grasshopper once got in the way of a rolling ball and kept it from dropping into the hole. Probably, as they say in breakfast food circles, "There's a reason."

* * * *

It seems that the golfer who was thwarted by the grasshopper, made a terrific approach shot, and the ball, landing some distance from the green, continued to roll and roll and roll. The golfer was amazed to see the ball finally roll onto the green, and head directly for the hole. It seemed to have sufficient momentum to carry it into the cup, when, all of a sudden, up jumped Mister Grass Hopper from his place of hiding, just in time to see the ball bearing down upon him.

"Halt!" commanded the grasshopper, aiming his left leg at the heart of the ball.

The ball didn't halt.

"Hey, you, slip us the countersign or you don't enter here," roared the grasshoper.

The ball ignored the demand for a countersign, and so the grasshopper, not being sure whether the ball was friend or foe, but not caring to take any chances, swung out one of his trusty feet, landed a perfect solar-plexus, and the ball was halted in its mad career—just on the rim of the cup.

Opie Read, the author, and Dr. R. C. Fisher of Chicago, once played a round over the Jackson Park course and then sat under a tree to rest. While seated, some other golfer sliced a drive and the ball struck the tree under which our heroes were sitting. Both Read and Dr. Fisher ducked but the ball did not fall to the ground as far as they could see.

Pretty soon the golfer and his caddy came along looking for the ball. The author and physician joined in the search but it was unavailing. The ball was not found then, but it was found later. Nope, you've guessed wrong. The ball did not drop down the back of Read's neck. It dropped into the doctor's coat pocket, and he found it there that evening when he was searching around in the pocket for a package of chewing gum, or his pipe, or whatever it was that he was searching for.

* * * *

"How to Hole a Ball Without ... [illegible] ... was one. It happened on the North Berwich course.

A thirty-six hole foursome was being played. It was all even on the thirty-sixth hole. One side got the ball of the other to the green, and dropped it into the cup on the next shot. The ball of the other side was 20 feet away. A gale was blowing, and the ball lay on a point a bit higher up than the hole level. The player figured the shot an impossible one, but he determined to make a desperate try for it any way.

Just as he was about to soak the ball a nice soak, an extra strong gust of wind came along and hit the ball, starting it to rolling down hill. And whaddaya think of it? That ball rolled right into the cup, so it did. And the side that owned the ball won the match. How was that? well, it was decided that the player had not grounded his club before the ball started to rolling, and therefore, the roll was counted as part of the last shot.

Pretty good figuring, hey?

* * * *

But you can't always get away with those kind of shots, as is shown by another story in which a caterpillar figured.

Everything was even at the eighteenth hole. Player number one got his ball onto the green and holed it. Player number two got his ball onto the green, near the cup, which was in a slightly sloping position. He was trying to figure out from just what angle to shoot when a caterpillar ambled along and climbed aboard the ball.

Now, everybody knows that a caterpillar doesn't weigh much, but this particular caterpillar was a fat fellow. He was so fat and bulky that he disturbed the equilibrium of the ball just enough to start it to moving. The ball gained momentum and finally rolled right into the hole, carrying the caterpillar with it.

The player claimed that the hole was his—and the match also, claiming he had not grounded his club and that the caterpillar propelled movement of the ball should be counted as part of the last stroke. But, when it was put up to a final authority the claim was disallowed. The referee said that the ball should have been put back into position without penalty, on the grounds that if the ball had missed the hole and rolled ten feet away, the golfer would have insisted upon replacing it.

POPULAR BREEDS FOR MEAT

Brahmas, Cochins and Langshans Are Named as Being Among Best All-Around Heavyweights.

The best all-around heavyweight fowl for the production of large broilers and medium and heavy roasters and capons is the Brahma. The Cochins and Langshans are also excellent meat breeds. The Light Brahma has been the most popular, but the Dark Brahma at its best is fully as good. Both can be bred with the greatest amount of breast meat, because they have naturally long breasts with great width between the thighs.

These qualities can be improved by carefully selecting breeding stock, using only hens that are of heavy weight, with great length of body, considerable width between the thighs and long breast bones. The males used should be cockerels of the same type, but with a little more length of leg.

Both males and females should be close feathered, with scant hock, leg and toe feathering. Brahmas of this type were great favorites a few years ago for market poultry. They were partly lost sight of for some time, but are again being bred to some extent in the poultry districts of New England.

TIME FOR PROPER HATCHING

Character of Range Must Be Considered—Confined Fowls Do Not Develop Very Rapidly.

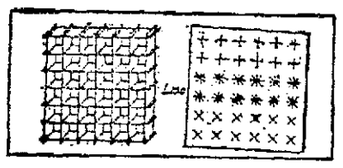

Growing chicks that have, during the summer, been provided with an abundance of range, shade and green food will grow much more rapidly and more evenly than those crowded into small bare yards. The character of the range must, therefore, be considered in deciding on the time for proper hatching.

If the chicks are hatched too early they are apt to go into a fall molt after laying a few eggs in the summer, and are not likely to resume laying again until well into the winter, or after one or more of the most profitable laying months have passed. On the other hand, they should be hatched early enough to allow a sufficient time for normal maturity before the coming of cold weather in the fall.

PRACTICAL EGG-CASE FILLER

Much Loss Caused by Breakage Where Too Much Space Is Allowed —Defect Is Overcome.

It is said that the breakage is from 3 to 9 per cent when eggs are packed in the ordinary fillers, because too much space is allowed for each egg and the partitions are insufficiently elastic. In this scheme the flat sheets separating the layers are slit so that under the center of each egg compartment there is a series of radiating tongues, long enough to yield under ordinary shock, but stiff enough to remain in substantially the same plane. In the right-hand figure we show three different ways of making the slits.—Independent Farmer.

Keep Complete Records.

Keep a record of your flock the year round. It is the only way to find how much money they are earning. Charge yourself a reasonable price for all the eggs you use.

Don't Mix.

Poultry of different ages and breeds. Eggs of different sizes, ages and colors.

The market pays from two to eight cents more for eggs of uniform size, color and quality.

Mating of Geese.

A mating of geese can be continued for seven or eight years without a change.

When Pullets Lay.

As a usual thing chickens do not lay until they are ten or twelve months old.

LAWS OF NEW YORK—By Authority.

CHAP. 27.

AN ACT to amend the tenement house law, in relation to yard spaces of lots running through from street to street.

Became a law April 26, 1916, with the approval of the Governor. Passed, three-fifths being present.

The People of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

Section 1. Section fifty-five of chapter ninety-nine of the laws of nineteen hundred and nine, entitled "An act in relation to tenement houses, constituting chapter sixty-one of the consolidated laws," as amended by chapter four hundred and fifty-four of the laws of nineteen hundred and twelve, is hereby amended to read as follows:

§ 55. Yard spaces of lots running through from street to street. Whenever a tenement house hereafter erected is upon a lot which runs through from one street to another street, and said lot is not less than seventy feet nor more than one hundred and five feet in depth, there shall be a yard space through the center of the lot midway between the two streets, which space shall extend across the full width of the lot and shall never be less than twelve feet in depth from wall to wall and shall be increased in depth as prescribed in section fifty-three of this chapter. But where such building has no basement and the cellar ceiling is not more than two feet above the curb level, such yard space may start at the level of the second tier of beams. Where such lot is over one hundred and five feet in depth such yard space shall be left through the center of the lot midway between the two streets, and shall extend across the entire width of the lot, and shall not be less than twenty-four feet in depth from wall to wall, and shall be increased in depth as prescribed in section fifty-three of this chapter. In a fireproof tenement house hereafter erected in which one or more power passenger elevators are provided and operated, where such tenement house runs through from one street to another street, the two portions of the building may be connected and the yard between such portions built upon, but not above the level of the second tier of beams, nor so as to convert any unoccupied portion of such yard into a court less in size than the minimum size prescribed by sections fifty-eight and fifty-nine of this chapter. Where a single tenement house hereafter erected runs through from one street to another street and also occupies the entire block, no yard need be provided. Where a single tenement house hereafter erected is situated on a lot formed by the intersection of two streets at an acute angle, the yard of the said house need not extend across the entire width of the lot, provided that it extends to a point in line with the middle line of the block.

Nothing contained in this section shall be construed so as to require a yard for tenement houses hereafter erected upon lots running through from street to street in a gore shaped block when the average width of the block measured parallel with the side lot lines of the lots which run through from street to street is not more than seventy feet.

§ 2. This act shall take effect immediately.

State of New York, Office of the Secretary of State, ss:

I have compared the preceding with the original law on file in this office, and do hereby certify that the same is a correct transcript therefrom and of the whole of said original law.

§ 7. Section twenty-one of such chapter, as amended by chapter three hundred and fifteen of the laws of nineteen hundred and eleven, chapter two hundred and sixty-six of the laws of nineteen hundred and twelve, chapter two hundred and seventy-seven of the laws of nineteen hundred and fourteen and chapter two hundred and eighteen of the laws of nineteen hundred and fifteen, is hereby amended to read as follows:

Assessments of real property, other than special franchises, shall be carried in a separate part of the roll from the assessments of personal property.

3. In all cities there shall be an additional column in the assessment-roll before the column in which is set down the value of real property, and in such additional column there shall be set down the value of the land exclusive of the buildings thereon. The total assessment only can be reviewed.

4. When a tax map has been approved by the tax commission, reference to the lot, block and section number or other identification numbers of any parcel on said map shall be deemed a sufficient description of said parcel on the assessment-roll.

5. A separate part shall be provided for the listing of property that is entirely exempt from taxation. If the property is partially exempt it shall be listed with the taxable property.

6. Provision shall also be made thereon for the entry of the amount of tax levied for state, county, city, town, highway or special district purposes, against each parcel or portion of real property, each special franchise and each person or corporation for personal property, together with the date of payment thereof and such other items and details as may be required.

There shall, in addition to such report, be kept in the office of every such bank or banking association a full and correct list of the names and residences of all stockholders therein, and of the number of shares held by each, and such lists shall be subject to the inspection of the assessors at all times. The owners of the stock of banks and banking associations shall be entitled to no deduction from the taxable value of their shares because of the personal indebtedness of such owners, or for any other reason whatsoever. This section is not to be construed as an exemption of the real estate of banks or banking associations from taxation. No shares of stock of such banks and banking associations, by whomsoever held, shall be exempt from the tax hereby imposed.

§ 12. Such chapter is hereby amended by inserting therein seven new sections to be sections twenty-four-a to twenty-four-g, inclusive, to read, respectively, as follows:

The clerks of the several cities, villages and school districts to which any portion of the tax on shares of stock of banks and banking associations is to be distributed under this section shall, in writing and under oath, annually report to the board of supervisors of their respective counties, during the first week of the annual session of such board, the tax rate of such city, village and school district for the year prior to the meeting of each such board.

Upon such statement being furnished and the costs of the suit being paid, the tax commission, if it shall be satisfied that such omission was not wilful, may, in its discretion, discontinue such suit.

§ 19. Section thirty-six of such chapter, as amended by chapter four hundred and three of the laws of nineteen hundred and nine, is hereby amended to read as follows:

§ 36. Notice of completion of assessment-roll. The assessors shall complete the assessment-roll on or before the first day of August, and make out a copy thereof, to be left with one of their number, and forthwith cause a notice to be conspicuously posted in three or more public places in the tax district, stating that they have completed the assessment-roll, and that a copy thereof has been left with one of their number at a specified place, where it may be seen and examined by any person until the third Tuesday of August next following, and that on that day they will meet at a time and place specified in the notice to review their assessments. In any city the notice shall conform to the requirements of the law regulating the time, place and manner of revising assessments in such city. During the time specified in the notice the assessor with whom the roll is left shall submit it to the inspection of every person applying for that purpose.

§ 20. Such chapter is hereby amended by inserting therein a new section, to be section thirty-six-a, to read as follows:

§ 36-a. Completion of assessment-roll; notice to nonresidents. The assessors shall between the first and fifth day of August mail a notice to each person and corporation nonresident of their tax district, who has filed with the city or town clerk, on or before the fifteenth day of June preceding, a written demand therefor. Such notice shall specify each parcel or portion of real property separately assessed to said nonresident person or corporation and the assessed valuation thereof. Upon application by any nonresident owner of real estate, or by a corporation, having real property in more than one tax district in the county, the assessors shall fix a time subsequent to the third Tuesday in August, but not later than the thirty-first day of August, for a hearing and to review their assessment.

§ 21. Section thirty-seven of such chapter is hereby amended to read as follows:

§ 37. Hearing of complaints. The assessors shall meet at the time and place specified in such notice, and hear and determine all complaints in relation to such assessments brought before them, and for that purpose they may adjourn from time to time. Such complainants shall file with the assessors a statement, under oath, specifying the respect in which the assessment complained of is incorrect, which statement must be made by the person assessed or whose property is assessed, or by some person authorized to make such statement, and who has knowledge of the facts stated therein. The assessors may administer oaths, take testimony and hear proofs in regard to any such complaint and the assessment to which it relates. If not satisfied that such assessment is erroneous, they may require the person assessed, or his agent or representative, or any other person, to appear before them and be examined concerning such complaint, and to produce any papers relating to such assessment with respect to his property or his residence for the purpose of taxation. The assessors shall, after said examination, fix the value of the property of the complainant and for that purpose may increase or diminish the assessment thereof. If any such person, or his agent or representative, shall willfully neglect or refuse to attend and be so examined, or to answer any material question put to him, such person shall not be entitled to any reduction of his assessments. Minutes of the examination of every person examined by the assessors upon the hearing of any such complaint shall be taken and filed in the office of the town or city clerk.

§ 22. Section thirty-eight of such chapter is hereby amended to read as follows:

§ 38. Correction and verification of tax-roll. When the assessors or a majority of them shall have completed their roll, they shall severally appear before any officer of their county authorized by law to administer oaths and shall severally make and subscribe before such officer an oath in the following form: "We, the undersigned, do severally depose and swear that we have set down in the foregoing assessment-roll all the real estate situated in the tax district in which we are assessors, according to our best information; and that with the exception of those cases in which the value of the said real estate has been changed by reason of proof produced before us, and with the exception of those cases in which the value of any special franchise has been fixed by the state tax commission, we have estimated the value of the said real estate at the sums which a majority of the assessors have decided to be the full value thereof; and, also, that the said assessment-roll contains a true statement of the aggregate amount of the taxable personal estate of each and every person named in such roll over and above the amount of debts due from such persons, respectively, and excluding such stocks as are otherwise taxable, and such other property as is exempt by law from taxation, at the full value thereof, according to our best judgment and belief," which oath shall be written or printed on said roll, signed by the assessors and certified by the officer.

§ 23. Section thirty-nine of such chapter is hereby amended to read as follows:

§ 39. Filing of roll and notice thereof. In cities the assessment-roll when thus finally completed and verified shall be filed on or before September first, in the office of the city clerk, there to remain for fifteen days for public inspection. The assessors shall forthwith cause a notice to be posted conspicuously in at least three public places in the tax district and to be published in one or more newspapers, if any, published in the city that such assessment-roll has been finally completed and stating that such certified copy has been so filed. The said original assessment-roll shall on or before the first day of October be delivered to a supervisor of the tax district embraced therein. Notwithstanding the provisions of this section, the board of supervisors of any county may require an additional number of copies of the assessment-rolls of the towns of such county to be made, and specify by whom such additional copies shall be made, the date when the certified copy of the town assessment-roll shall be filed in the office of the town clerk, and the date when the original assessment-roll shall be delivered to the supervisor of the town.

§ 24. Section forty of such chapter, as amended by chapter two hundred and seventy-one of the laws of nineteen hundred and twelve and chapter five hundred and fifty-six of the laws of nineteen hundred and thirteen, is hereby amended to read as follows:

§ 40. Assessors to apportion valuation of railroad, telegraph, telephone, pipe line, water or gas companies and of special franchises among school and special districts. The assessors of each town or city in which a railroad, telegraph, telephone, water pipe line, or gas company, including a company engaged in the business of supplying natural gas, is assessed by them or by the tax commission upon property lying in more than one school district or in one or more special [illegible] in which a tax is levied for district purposes shall after the time fixed for hearing complaints and action thereon and prior to the final completion of the roll, pursuant to section thirty-nine of this chapter, apportion the assessed valuation of the property of each of such corporations so made by them or by the tax commission among such school and special districts. Such apportionments shall be entered by the assessors in the appropriate column of the assessment-roll and a certificate thereof signed by the assessors or a majority of them shall be filed with the town or city clerk within five days thereafter, and thereupon the valuations so apportioned shall become the valuations of such property in such districts for the purpose of taxation for the ensuing year. The town clerk shall furnish the trustees of school districts a certified statement of the valuations apportioned to their respective districts.

In case of the failure of the assessors to act, a supervisor of the town or city shall make such apportionment on request of either the trustee of any school district or the officers of any special district or the corporation assessed. In case of any alteration in any school district affecting the valuation of such property, the officer making the same shall fix and determine the valuations in the districts affected for the current year.

§ 25. Section forty-one of such chapter is hereby amended to read as follows:

§ 41. Neglect or omission of duty by assessors. The assessors, in the execution of their duties, shall use the forms and follow the instructions and orders transmitted to them, from time to time, by the tax commission. If any assessor shall neglect or omit to perform any duty, the other assessors shall perform such duty and shall certify upon the assessment-roll the name of the delinquent assessor, stating therein the cause of such omission, and the assessment-roll, when otherwise made and completed in accordance with the requirements of or under this chapter shall be deemed to be the assessment-roll of the tax district. If the assessors shall neglect to meet for the purpose of hearing grievances any person aggrieved by the assessment may appeal to the board of supervisors at its next meeting, which shall have the same power to review and correct such assessment as the assessors have under this article. If any assessor shall refuse or neglect to perform any duty or do any act required of him by this chapter, he shall forfeit to the tax district the sum of fifty dollars, to be recovered by the tax commission.

§ 26. Section fifty of such chapter, as amended by chapter eight hundred and one of the laws of nineteen hundred and eleven and chapter three hundred and ninety-seven of the laws of nineteen hundred and fourteen, is hereby amended to read as follows:

§ 50. Equalization by board of supervisors. 1. The board of supervisors of each county in this state, at its annual meeting, shall examine the assessment-rolls of the several tax districts in the county, for the purpose of ascertaining whether the valuations in one tax district bear a just relation to the valuations in all the tax districts in the county; and the board may increase or diminish the aggregate valuations of real estate in any tax district, in accordance with the following equalization rule. First, the ratio or percentage which the assessed value of the real property in each district bears to its full value shall be established by the board upon proper inquiry and investigation conducted by it and shall be stated in a resolution by the board after such inquiry and investigation. Second, from such ratio or percentage values, the board shall then determine the aggregate full value of all real property of each tax district by dividing the assessed value thereof by the ratio or percentage value as ascertained and fixed for that district. Third, the average rate of assessment of the real property in the county shall then be determined by dividing the aggregate assessed value of the real property in all the tax districts by the aggregate full value thereof as ascertained in the manner aforesaid. Fourth, the true equalized value for each tax district shall then be determined by multiplying the full value of such real property in that tax district by the average rate of assessment for the county. Fifth, deduct from or add to the assessed value of the several tax districts the difference between the assessed value and the equalized value as so ascertained so that the amount which the respective tax districts are increased or diminished from the assessed value will be shown, and the total assessed value for the county, except as provided in subdivision two of this section, will not be increased or diminished. Any written or documentary evidence upon which the percentages for the several tax districts are determined by the board shall be preserved and an abstract of the same published with the table of rates in the proceedings of the board of supervisors. The table of such percentages, employed in making the equalization, shall be furnished by the clerk of said board to the tax commission and shall also be published in the report of the tax commission.

2. The board of supervisors in any county of the state shall when examining the assessment-rolls of the several tax districts of the county, as above provided, exclude from the tax rolls of said districts, to be prepared by said board, such parcels of real property as have been struck down to the county at a tax sale and not redeemed as provided in section one hundred and fifty-two of this chapter. The county treasurer shall annually between the date of the tax sale and the first day of December next succeeding, prepare and submit to the board of supervisors a list of all such lands so struck down to the county in any year and still remaining unredeemed. No such properties shall be so excluded from said tax rolls except by a resolution of said board adopted at an annual meeting by a vote of a majority of the members thereof. Whenever such real property is so excluded from the tax rolls by the board, the total of the assessed valuations of the real estate of the several tax districts as the same appear on the completed tax rolls, shall be the aggregate valuation of the taxable real estate in the county.

§ 27. Section fifty-two of such chapter is hereby amended to read as follows:

§ 52. Examination of valuations. Between the first day of September and the time of the annual meeting of the board of supervisors in each year, the commissioners shall examine the assessment-rolls of the several towns in their county and shall visit each town therein once in each alternate year between such dates, or once in each year when deemed necessary by them, for the purpose of ascertaining whether the valuations in one town or ward bear a just relation to the valuations in all the towns and wards in the county, and they may increase or diminish the aggregate valuations of real estate in any town or ward by adding or deducting such sum upon the hundred in accordance with the rule of equalization specified in section fifty of this chapter, as may, in their opinion, be necessary to produce a just relation between all the valuations of real estate in the county, but they shall in no instance reduce the aggregate valuations of all the towns and wards below the aggregate valuations thereof as made by the assessors.

§ 28. Section fifty-three of such chapter is hereby amended to read as follows:

§ 53. Report to supervisors. On or before the fourth day of the annual meeting of the board of supervisors in each year the commissioners shall file with the clerk of such board of supervisors their report of the equalized valuations of real estate, signed by a majority of such commissioners, and the same shall be binding and conclusive on such board of supervisors as an equalization of the assessment of real estate for such year.

The table of percentages and an abstract of the evidence upon which the percentages are determined shall be published in the proceedings of the board of supervisors and a certified copy of the percentages and evidence furnished the tax commission.

§ 29. Section sixty-three of such chapter, as amended by chapter three hundred and fifteen of the laws of nineteen hundred and eleven, is hereby renumbered section fifty-five-a and amended to read as follows:

§ 55-a. Errors in assessment-rolls. An error in the description of a parcel or portion of real property shall not invalidate the assessment against such parcel or portion, if such description is sufficiently accurate to identify the parcel or portion. The entry of the name of the owner, last known owner or reputed owner of a separate parcel or portion of real property shall not be regarded as part of such assessment, but merely as an aid to identify such parcel upon the roll.

§ 30. Section fifty-six of such chapter is hereby amended to read as follows:

§ 56. Correction of errors by board of supervisors. If it shall be made to appear to the board of supervisors of any county, upon the verified petition of the assessors of any tax district:

First. That any property taxable therein has, by any mistake in transcribing or copying the assessment-roll of the preceding year, been placed on the assessment-roll delivered to the supervisor at a valuation less than that actually appearing upon the original roll signed by the assessors, such board shall insert in the assessment-roll of the current year an assessment of the property upon the valuation equal to the difference between the actual valuation made by the assessors and the amount at which, by such mistake, the property was placed upon the roll of the preceding year, and tax the same at the rate per centum imposed upon property in such tax district in the year in which the mistake occurred.

Second. That any taxable property therein has been omitted from the assessment-roll of the preceding year, such board shall place the same on the roll of the current year at its valuation for the preceding year, to be fixed by the assessors in their petition, and shall tax the same at the rate per centum of the preceding year.

Third. That taxable property has been omitted from the assessment-roll for the current year, such board shall place the same thereon at a valuation to be fixed by the assessors in their petition, and shall tax the same at the rate per centum of the current year.

Fourth. That an assessment of the shares of stock of a bank or banking association, as provided in article two of the tax law, has been omitted or erroneously made for the current year, such board shall place the same thereon at a valuation to be fixed by the assessors in their petition and shall tax the same at the rate provided in article two.

A copy of the petition under the second, third or fourth subdivision of this section, with a notice of the presentation thereof to the board of supervisors, shall be served personally on the person or corporation alleged to be liable to taxation for the property omitted from the assessment-roll, at least ten days before the meeting of the board of supervisors; and the board of supervisors shall take no action on such petition, unless proof of the personal service of such petition and notice be made to them by affidavit. The board of supervisors shall give to the person alleged to be liable to taxation for such property an opportunity to be heard, and on such hearing and review the board of supervisors shall have, as to such omitted property, all the powers of the assessors of a tax district in reviewing and correcting the assessment-roll. The whole amount of tax levied upon land or property omitted in the tax levy of the preceding year shall be deducted from the aggregate of taxation to be levied on the tax district for the current year before such tax is levied.

§ 31. Such chapter is hereby amended by inserting therein a new section, to be section fifty-six-a, to read as follows:

§ 56-a. Correction of assessments, and returning and refunding of erroneous taxes. The board of supervisors of any county may correct any manifest clerical or other error in any assessment or returns made by any one or more town officers to such board, or which may, or shall have properly come before such board for its action, confirmation or review; and cause to be refunded to any person the amount collected from him of any tax erroneously or improperly assessed or levied, and upon the order of the county court, it shall refund any such tax. In raising the amount so refunded, or necessary to supply the deficiency caused by the correction of any error in such assessment, such board shall, in the same or next ensuing tax-levy, adjust and apportion such amount upon the property of the several towns and wards of the county as shall be just, taking into consideration the portion of the state, county, town and ward included therein, and the extent to which such town or ward has been benefited thereby. Such board shall ascertain, fix and determine the amount which any person or corporation is equitably entitled to receive back from any town for taxes paid while the boundary line between towns was in dispute and cause the same to be levied and collected.

§ 32. Section fifty-eight of such chapter is hereby amended to read as follows:

§ 58. Levy of tax by supervisors. The board of supervisors of each county shall, at its annual meeting, levy the taxes for the county, including the state tax, upon the valuations as equalized by it and estimate and set down in a separate column in the assessment-roll of each tax district therein, opposite to the sums set down as the valuation of real and personal property the sum to be paid as a tax thereon, including the state tax, as fixed by the comptroller. Such assessment-roll shall, when the warrant is annexed thereto, become the tax-roll of the tax district, and a copy thereof shall be delivered to the proper supervisor, who shall deliver it to the clerk of the proper city or town to be kept by him for its use.

§ 33. Section fifty-nine of such chapter is hereby amended to read as follows:

2. To the treasurer of the county, the residue of the money so to be collected.

If the law shall direct the taxes levied for any locality for special purpose in a city or town to be paid to any person or officer other than those named in this section, the warrant shall be varied so as to conform to such direction. The warrant shall authorize the collector to levy such taxes by distress and sale, in case of nonpayment. The corrected assessment-roll, or a fair copy thereof, shall be delivered by the board of supervisors to the collector of the tax district on or before December first, in each year, unless another date is designated by the board of supervisors in the manner above specified, then in that event, on or before such date so designated.

Such book shall be subject to public inspection and shall be filed by the collector with his return, together with the assessment-roll in the office of the county treasurer, or such officer or board to which such collector makes his return.

If the owner of a parcel or portion of real property is a resident of the tax district in which such parcel or portion of real property is assessed, and his name is correctly entered on the assessment-roll, he shall be personally liable for the tax assessed against such parcel or portion of real property. If any person shall neglect or refuse to pay any tax imposed on him, the collector shall levy upon any personal property in the county belonging to or in the possession of any person who ought to pay the tax, and cause the same to be sold at public auction for the payment of such tax, and the fees and expenses of collection; and no claim of property to be made thereto by any other person shall be available to prevent such sale. Public notice of the time and place of sale of the property to be sold shall be given by posting the same in at least three public places in the tax district where the sale is to be made, at least six days previous thereto. If the proceeds of such sale shall be more than the amount of such tax, the fees of the collection and the expenses of the sale, the surplus shall be paid to the person against whom the tax was assessed. If any other person shall claim the surplus, on the ground that the property sold belonged to him, and such claim be admitted by the person for the payment of whose tax the property was sold, such surplus shall be paid over by the collector to the supervisor of the town, who shall retain the same until the rights of the parties thereto shall be determined by due course of law, or by agreement in writing made by them and filed with the supervisor. The collector upon payment of the taxes shall state in the column of the tax-roll provided therefor, the date of such payment, and shall write his name after such date.

If it shall appear by the return of any collector that a tax imposed upon a debt owing to a person residing out of the United States remains unpaid, the county treasurer shall, after the expiration of twenty days from such return, issue his warrant to the sheriff of any county in this state where any debtor of any such nonresident creditor may reside, commanding him to make of the real and personal property of such nonresident the amount of such tax, to be specified in a schedule annexed to the warrant, with his fees and the sum of one dollar for the expense of issuing such warrant, and to return the warrant to the treasurer issuing the same, and to pay over to him the money which shall be collected by virtue thereof, except the sheriff's fees, by a day therein to be specified within sixty days from the date thereof. The taxes upon several debts owing to a nonresident shall be included in one warrant. The taxes upon several debts owing to different nonresidents may be included in the same warrant, and the sheriff shall be directed to levy the sum specified in the schedule annexed, upon the real and personal property of the nonresidents, respectively, opposite to whose names, respectively, such sums shall be written, with fifty cents for the expenses of the warrant. Such warrant shall be a lien upon and shall bind the real and personal property of the nonresidents against whom issued from the time an actual levy shall be made upon any property by virtue thereof, and the sheriff to whom the warrant shall be directed shall proceed upon the same, in all respects, with like effect, and in the same manner, as prescribed by law in respect to execution against property issued upon judgment rendered in the supreme court, and shall be entitled to the same fees for his services in executing the same, to be collected in the same manner.

§ 46. Section seventy-seven of such chapter is hereby amended to read as follows:

§ 77. Return of warrant for collection of taxes on debts owing to nonresidents; neglect to make return. If any sheriff shall neglect to return any such warrant as directed therein, or to pay over any money collected by him in pursuance thereof, he shall be proceeded against in the supreme court by attachment in the same manner, and with like effect, as for a similar neglect in reference to an execution issued out of the supreme court in a similar action, and the proceedings therein shall be the same in all respects. If any such warrant shall be returned unsatisfied, wholly or partly, the county treasurer may obtain an order from a judge of the supreme court of the district, or a county judge of the county, of such treasurer issuing the warrant, requiring such nonresident or any person having property of such nonresident or indebted to him, to appear and answer concerning the property of such nonresident. The same remedies and proceedings may be had in the name of such county treasurer or comptroller before the officer granting such order, and with a like effect, as are provided by law in proceedings against a judgment debtor supplementary to execution against him, returned wholly or in part unsatisfied. The expenses of a county treasurer, and such compensation as the board of supervisors may allow him for his services under this section, and for making and transmitting to the assessors of the several towns of his county an abstract or copy of the statements of the agents of nonresident creditors, shall be a county charge.

§ 46. Section seventy-nine of such chapter is hereby amended to read as follows:

§ 79. Payment of taxes on part of property. The collector shall receive the tax on personal property, or on part of any lot, piece or parcel of land, charged with taxes, provided the person paying such tax shall furnish such particular specification of such part, and in case the tax on the remainder thereof shall remain unpaid the collector shall enter such specification on his return to the county treasurer, clearly showing the part on which the tax remains unpaid, and if the part on which the tax shall be so paid shall be an undivided share, the person paying the same shall state to the collector who is the owner of such share, and the collector shall enter the name of such owner on his account of arrears of taxes, and such share shall be excepted in case of a sale for the tax on the remainder.

§ 47. Section eighty-two of such chapter is hereby amended to read as follows:

§ 82. Return by collector of unpaid taxes. Every collector who makes and delivers to the county treasurer an account of unpaid taxes, upon the tax-roll, annexed to his warrant, which he shall not have been able to collect, verified by his affidavit, that the same mentioned therein remain unpaid, and that he has not, upon diligent inquiry, been able to discover any personal property out of which the same could be collected by levy and sale, shall be credited by the county treasurer with the amount of such account. In making such return of unpaid taxes, the collector shall add thereto five percentum of the amount thereof. Any collector who has heretofore failed in making such return of unpaid taxes, may make such return, whether his term of office has expired or not, verified by his affidavit, to the county treasurer any time within eight years after such failure and before the lands against which said taxes are assessed are advertised for sale pursuant to this chapter, and in case any collector shall heretofore or hereafter fail to add said five per centum the county treasurer shall add the aforesaid five per centum of the amount of said uncollected tax as aforesaid. Such return shall be indorsed upon or attached to said roll, and shall be in the form to be prescribed by the tax commission. Such tax and percentage may be paid to the county treasurer at any time before a return is made to the comptroller. The county treasurer in counties in which lands are sold by him for the nonpayment of taxes, is hereby authorized to incur and pay for such expenses as he may deem necessary for the examination of collector's returns and descriptions of property to be sold pursuant to this chapter, and the procurement of proper collector's returns and the examinations and procurement of matters and facts as he may deem necessary to make a valid tax sale hereunder, but such expense shall not exceed the amount of the five per centum added as aforesaid.

§ 48. Section eighty-five of such chapter, as amended by chapter three hundred and thirty-two of the laws of nineteen hundred and ten, is hereby amended to read as follows:

Collectors and receivers of taxes who have filed a bond as required by statute, shall not be required to renew their bonds. This section shall not affect any special law relating to the extension of time for the collection of taxes, nor be construed to extend the time for the payment of the state tax by the county treasurer, as required by this chapter.

§ 49. Section eighty-six of such chapter is hereby amended to read as follows:

§ 86. Appointment of collector in case of vacancy. If a person chosen to the office of collector of a town shall refuse to serve or be disabled from entering upon or completing the duties of his office from any cause, the town board shall forthwith appoint a collector for the remainder of the year, who shall give the same undertaking, be subject to the same duties and penalties and have the same powers and compensation as the collector in whose place he was appointed. The supervisor of the town shall forthwith give notice of such appointment to the county treasurer. Such appointment shall not exonerate the former collector or his sureties from any liability incurred by him or them. If a warrant shall have been issued by the board of supervisors before the appointment of a collector to fill a vacancy or before the appointment of a collector under this section, the original warrant, if obtainable, shall be delivered to the collector so appointed and shall give him the same powers as if originally issued to him. If such warrant is not obtainable, a new one shall be issued by the chairman and clerk of the board of supervisors of the county, directed to the collector appointed, with the same force and effect as if originally issued to him. Upon any such appointment, the supervisor of the town, if he shall deem it necessary, may extend the time limited for the collection of taxes, for a period not exceeding thirty days, and forthwith give notice of such extension to the county treasurer.

§ 50. Section eighty-eight-a of such chapter, as added by chapter six hundred and sixty-six of the laws of nineteen hundred and thirteen, is hereby amended to read as follows:

§ 88-a. Reassessment of taxes levied on imperfectly described real property. The county treasurer of any county from which accounts of unpaid taxes are not returned to the comptroller shall examine the accounts of arrears of taxes received from the collector of each tax district and shall reject all taxes charged on real property deemed to be so imperfectly described or erroneously assessed, in form or substance, that the collection of the same by the sale of such real property cannot be enforced, and shall, on or before May first, deliver a transcript thereof to the supervisor of the tax district in which the real property on which taxes have been so rejected shall be located. Such supervisor shall, if in his power, within thirty days thereafter, cause an accurate description of such real property to be made and returned to such treasurer, with the correct amount of taxes thereon, each kind of tax being stated separately, and if necessary, he may cause a survey and map of any of such real property to be made, and the expense of such survey and map on or for each lot or parcel shall be returned to such treasurer and be a legal charge upon such real property and be collected with the taxes thereon. A statement of the taxes on real property in each tax district remaining so rejected on the first day of July, including the amount of taxes, fees and interest thereon, shall be forwarded by the treasurer to the supervisor of the tax district in which such real property was assessed, and such supervisor shall, prior to the first day of the annual meeting of the board of supervisors in such county, add to the assessment-roll of the tax district in which the real property is situated, for the then current year, an accurate description of such real property, the correct amount of taxes thereon, the tax of each year and kind of tax separately, stating that it is a reassessment, and charge the same therewith. The board of supervisors shall direct the collection of such taxes so added to the assessment-roll, and they shall be considered the taxes of the year in which the description shall be perfected. If such tax be not levied upon such real property as herein required, the board of supervisors shall cause the same with interest thereon at the rate of ten per centum per annum, to be levied upon the tax district in which originally assessed and collected with the other taxes of the same year.

§ 51. Section eighty-nine of such chapter, as amended by chapter six hundred and sixty-six of the laws of nineteen hundred and thirteen, is hereby amended to read as follows:

§ 89. Unpaid taxes on real property to be reassessed. When the tax on any real property is returned as unpaid and so remains, the county treasurer shall, unless such tax shall have been rejected as provided by section eighty-eight-a, immediately deliver a transcript thereof to the supervisor of the tax district in which such tax was assessed. Such supervisor shall, if in his power, within thirty days thereafter, cause an accurate description of such real property to be made and returned to said treasurer, with the correct amount of taxes thereon, each kind of tax being stated separately, and if necessary, he may cause a survey and map of any of said real property to be made, and the expense of such survey and map on or for each lot or parcel shall be returned to said treasurer, and be a legal charge upon such real property and be collected with the taxes thereon. The amount of such tax shall bear interest at the rate of ten per centum per annum from the first day of February until paid, or until the sale of such property to satisfy such tax by the county treasurer, or if the property is located in a county embracing a portion of the forest preserve, until the return of such unpaid tax to the comptroller.

Thirteenth. Perform the other powers and duties conferred upon it by law.

Fourteenth. Prepare an annual report to the legislature and recommend such changes or amendments to the tax laws as it may deem advisable.

§ 54. Section one hundred and seventy-one-a of such chapter, as added by chapter three hundred and seventeen of the laws of nineteen hundred and fifteen, is hereby amended to read as follows:

The commission shall have power to subpoena and require the attendance of witnesses and the production of books, papers and documents pertinent to the investigations and inquiries which it is authorized to conduct, and to examine them in relation to any matter which it has power to investigate and to issue commissions for the examination of witnesses who are out of the state or unable to attend before the tax commission or excused from attendance.

A justice of the supreme court either in court or at chambers shall have power summarily to enforce by proper proceedings the attendance and testimony of witnesses and the production and examination of books, papers and documents called for by the commission's subpoenas.

Any person who shall testify falsely in any material matter pending before the commission shall be guilty of and punishable for perjury.

The officers who serve the commission's summons or subpoenas and witnesses attending in response thereto shall be entitled to the same fees as are allowed to officers and witnesses in civil cases in courts of record.

§ 171-b. Conference of local assessors. The commission may request the local assessors of every tax district in the state to meet with the commission once in two years, upon a day and at a place designated, for the purpose of considering matters relating to taxation, securing more uniformity of valuation throughout the state, and discussing and formulating desirable changes in the laws relating to taxation and method of assessment. The traveling and other necessary expenses incurred by the local assessors in attending such meeting shall be a charge against the county within which the district which they represent is located. In counties wholly within a city such expenses shall be a charge against said city.

§ 56. Section one hundred and seventy-two of such chapter, as amended by chapter three hundred and seventeen of the laws of nineteen hundred and fifteen, is hereby amended to read as follows:

§ 172. Official seal. The state tax commission shall have and use an official seal; and the records, its proceedings and copies of all papers and documents in its possession and custody may be authenticated in the usual form, under such seal and the signature of any one of the tax commissioners, deputy commissioners or the secretary, and shall be received in evidence in the same manner and with like effects as deeds regularly acknowledged or proven.

§ 57. Section one hundred and seventy-three of such chapter, as amended by chapter one hundred and twenty of the laws of nineteen hundred and eleven and chapter three hundred and seventeen of the laws of nineteen hundred and fifteen, is hereby amended to read as follows:

§ 173. Official visits to counties. The tax commission shall cause an official visit to be made in every county in the state at least once in two years, and inquire into the methods of assessment and taxation, and ascertain whether the assessors faithfully discharge their duties and particularly as to their compliance with the provisions of this chapter requiring the assessment of all property not exempt from taxation at its full value. The members of the board of supervisors of each county and the assessors of the cities, towns and villages within the county shall meet at the place or places within the county designated by the commission. Supervisors in addition to the compensation provided by section twenty-three of the county law, and assessors, shall be entitled to receive compensation at the rate of four dollars per day for each calendar day actually and necessarily spent in attending a meeting within the county held for the purpose of conference with the state tax commission or a member of such commission and mileage at the rate of eight cents per mile by the most direct route from his residence, in going to and returning from the place within the county where such meeting is held. Such compensation and mileage shall be a county charge in reference to the town officials and a village charge for the village assessors.

§ 58. Section one hundred and seventy-three-a of such chapter as added by chapter three hundred and seventeen of the laws of nineteen hundred and fifteen, is hereby amended to read as follows:

§ 173-a. Reassessment. At any time within thirty days after the completion of the assessment-roll by the assessors of any tax district, if the commission shall have reason to believe from information furnished by any taxpayer or otherwise that such assessment-roll shows undervaluations, inequalities, omissions or irregularities, sufficient to make it inequitable as between owners of real property taxable within the tax district or as between the tax district and other tax districts in a county or in a city comprising more than one county, it may apply to any justice of the supreme court of the judicial district within which such tax district is wholly or partly located, for an order directed to the assessors of such tax district, requiring such assessors to show cause at a time and place specified therein, why such assessment-roll should not be corrected. Such order shall be returnable before the justice issuing it, on a day not later than ten days from the date of the issue thereof. If it shall appear upon the return day of such order that such assessment-roll shall not have been prepared and completed in accordance with the provisions of this chapter, such justice acting summarily may by order direct such assessors to correct such inequalities, irregularities, omissions and undervaluations, and in his discretion, may cancel such roll and direct that a new assessment-roll for such tax district be made by such assessors, and shall fix and determine the date on which such new assessment-roll shall be completed, the date on which application for review of the new assessment shall be heard, and the date on which the roll shall be filed and delivered to the supervisors or other lawful authority.

Notice of such hearing for review shall be given one week in advance in the same manner as the notice of the first completion of the assessment-roll so cancelled. After the determination of complaints the assessors shall attach a certificate to the new assessment-roll that such roll has been completed in conformity with the provisions of the order of the justice and such roll shall be the assessment-roll of such tax district in place of the assessment-roll cancelled by order of such justice. If such new assessment-roll cannot be completed in time to take the place of the original assessment-roll in such district for the levy and collection of taxes for the current year, said taxes shall be levied and collected upon the basis of the original assessment-roll and when the new assessment-roll is completed the inequalities in the taxes levied on the basis of the original assessment-roll shall be remedied and compensated in the levy and collection of taxes in such district for the year next following the completion of the new assessment-roll by crediting the taxes levied in excess of what they would have been had the reassessment been made in time, or charging in addition the difference between the amounts levied on the basis of the original assessment-roll and the amounts which would have been levied on the basis of the new assessment-roll, as the case may be.

In cities the mayor or a borough president and in towns a supervisor and in villages the president or a trustee may apply to the tax commission on behalf of the tax district which he wholly or in part represents, for a hearing and determination of the question of inequalities in the assessment of property as between such tax district and other tax districts in the county or in a city where said city comprises more than one county. After such application a hearing shall be held and upon a determination that sufficient inequalities exist therefor, the commission shall apply to a justice of the supreme court as in this section provided, for the correction of the assessment-roll of the tax district, or tax districts complained of. For the purposes of this section an incorporated village shall be deemed a tax district.

§ 59. Section one hundred and seventy-four of such chapter, as amended by chapter three hundred and seventeen of the laws of nineteen hundred and fifteen, is hereby amended to read as follows:

§ 174. State board of equalization, powers and duties. The commissioners of the land office and the members of the tax commission shall constitute the state board of equalization. The state board of equalization shall meet in the city of Albany on the first Tuesday in September in each year, for the purpose of examining and revising the valuations of real and personal property of the several counties as returned to the state tax commission, and shall in accordance with the rules of equalization set forth in section fifty of this chapter so far as applicable fix the aggregate amount of assessment for each county, upon which the comptroller shall compute the state tax. In so fixing such aggregate amount of assessment for a county the state board of equalization shall not include the shares of stock of banks or banking associations assessed pursuant to article two of this chapter. The board may increase or diminish the aggregate valuations of real property in any county by adding or deducting such sum as in its opinion may be just and necessary to produce a just relation between the valuations of real property in the state. But it shall, in no instance, reduce the aggregate valuations of all the counties below the aggregate valuations thereof as so returned. The comptroller shall immediately ascertain from this assessment, a copy of which shall be transmitted to him, the proportion of state tax each county shall pay, and mail a statement of the amount to the county clerk, and to the chairman and clerk of the board of supervisors of each county.

§ 177. Appeals from equalization by board of supervisors. The mayor of a city in behalf of said city, a borough president in behalf of his borough, any supervisor in behalf of a city or town which he wholly or in part represents, may appeal to the tax commission, from any act or decision of the board of supervisors, in the equalization of assessments and the correction of the assessment-rolls. If such appeal is brought in behalf of a town, a majority of the town board of such town, if in behalf of a city, a majority of the common council or board of estimate of such city, shall first consent to and approve the bringing of such appeal. Such appeal shall be brought within ten days after the delivery of the assessment-roll to the collector by filing in the office of the county clerk a notice thereof, with such consent endorsed thereon or annexed thereto, together with the affidavit of the mayor or supervisor so appealing, that in his opinion injustice has been done to such city or town by the act or decision from which the appeal is taken; and also within such time, by serving personally or by mail, a duplicate or copy of such notice, consent and affidavit on the chairman or clerk of the board of supervisors, and by mailing such a copy or duplicate to the tax commission.

§ 61. Section one hundred and seventy-six-a of such chapter, as added by chapter three hundred and seventeen of the laws of nineteen hundred and fifteen, is hereby amended to read as follows:

§ 176-a. Commission's review of equalization by board of supervisors. The tax commission shall have power on complaint to review the equalization fixed by the board of supervisors of any county or other lawfully constituted authority. Due notice of the hearing on such review shall be given by the commission to the clerk of the board of supervisors of the county, whose duty it shall be to transmit a copy of such notice to the mayor of cities in such county and to each supervisor of the county. In the city of New York such notice shall be given to the secretary of the board of taxes and assessments.

§ 62. Section one hundred and seventy-seven of such chapter, as amended by chapter three hundred and seventeen of the laws of nineteen hundred and fifteen, is hereby amended to read as follows:

§ 177. Commission's determination on appeal or review. On appeal by any town, city, or borough from the board of supervisors' or other lawful authority's equalization or on review thereof by the commission of its own motion or on complaint the commission shall review the equalization made by the board of supervisors of the county or other lawful authority and shall determine whether any, and if any, what deductions or additions ought to be made from or to the aggregate corrected value of the real and personal property of any tax district as made and to what tax district or districts in such county the amount of such deductions or additions, if any, shall be added or subtracted; and shall certify their determination, in writing, to such board of supervisors or other lawful authority and forward the same by mail within ten days thereafter to the clerk of the board, directed to him at his post-office address, and forward a copy thereof to the supervisor or borough president appealing, if any. Such determination shall have the same force and effect as an original equalization made by the board of supervisors or other lawful authority within the time prescribed by law and shall be carried into effect by such board or other lawful authority. In the city of New York for the purpose of equalization appeals, reassessment or reviews each borough shall be deemed a tax district.

§ 63. Section one hundred and seventy-seven-a of such chapter, as added by chapter three hundred and seventeen of the laws of nineteen hundred and fifteen, is hereby amended to read as follows:

§ 177-a. Method of carrying out commission's equalization. If any such equalization by the tax commission cannot be completed in time to take the place of the original equalization by the board of supervisors or other lawful authority, the commission shall determine the amount of state and county taxes paid or payable by any town, city or borough in the county under the original equalization, in excess of or less than that which such town, city or borough would have paid under the equalization as made by the commission. Any excess so determined shall be subtracted with interest, and any deficiency shall be added, with a proportionate part of such interest [illegible] tion of or to the amount of county and state taxes charged in the next succeeding year to each such town, city or borough.

§ 64. Section one hundred and seventy-eight of such chapter, as amended by chapter three hundred and seventeen of the laws of nineteen hundred and fifteen, is hereby amended to read as follows:

§ 178. Costs on appeal. The tax commission shall certify the reasonable expense on every appeal from an equalization by the county board of supervisors, or other lawful authority, not exceeding the sum of two thousand dollars for services of counsel and one thousand dollars for all other expenses, including the compensation and expense of the stenographer. If such appeal is not sustained, the costs and expenses thereof so certified shall be a charge upon the tax district or districts taking such appeal and shall be levied thereon by the board of supervisors. If the appeal is sustained, the amount of such costs and expenses so certified shall be levied by the board of supervisors upon, and collected from, the county in the assessment and collection of taxes for the current year, except the tax district or tax districts whose appeal is sustained. If there shall be appeals by more than one tax district in the county, some of which are sustained and some dismissed, the commission shall decide what portion of such costs and expenses shall be borne by any tax district whose appeal is dismissed. Where no hearing is had on an appeal the costs and expenses shall be in the discretion of the tax commission but in no event shall exceed the amounts previously set forth in this section.

§ 65. Section two hundred and fifty of such chapter is hereby amended to read as follows:

§ 250. Definitions. The term "real property" as used in this article, in addition to the definition thereof contained in section two of this chapter, includes everything a conveyance or mortgage of which can be recorded as a conveyance or mortgage of real property under the laws of the state. The term "mortgage" as used in this article includes every mortgage or deed of trust which [illegible] as a lien on or affects the title to real property, notwithstanding that such property may form a part of the security for the debt or debts secured thereby. Executory contracts for the sale of real property under which the vendee has or is entitled to possession shall be deemed to be mortgages for the purposes of this article and shall be taxable at the amount unpaid on such contracts. A contract or agreement by which the indebtedness secured by any mortgage is increased or added to, shall be deemed a mortgage of real property for the purpose of this article, and shall be taxable as such upon the amount of such increase or addition.

§ 65. Section two hundred and fifty-one of such chapter is hereby amended to read as follows:

§ 251. Exemption from local taxation. All mortgages of real property situated within the state which are taxed by this article and the debts and the obligations which they secure, together with the paper writings evidencing the same, shall be exempt from other taxation by the state, counties, cities, towns, villages, school districts and other local subdivisions of the state, except that such mortgage shall not be exempt from the taxes imposed by sections twenty-four, one hundred and eighty-seven, one hundred and eighty-eight, one hundred and eighty-nine and article ten of this chapter.

§ 67. Section two hundred and fifty-three of such chapter is hereby amended to read as follows:

§ 253. Recording tax. If the principal debt or obligation which is or by any contingency may be secured by such mortgage recorded on or after the first day of July, nineteen hundred and seven, is less than one hundred dollars, a tax of fifty cents is hereby imposed on such mortgage, and shall be collected and paid as provided in this article.

§ 68. Section two hundred and fifty-five of such chapter is hereby amended to read as follows:

§ 255. Supplemental mortgages. If subsequent to the recording of a mortgage on which all taxes, if any, accrued under this article have been paid, a supplemental instrument or mortgage is recorded for the purpose of correcting or perfecting any recorded mortgage, or pursuant to some provision or covenant therein, or an additional mortgage is recorded imposing the lien thereof upon property not originally covered by or not described in such recorded primary mortgage for the purpose of securing the principal indebtedness which is or under any contingency may be secured by such recorded primary mortgage, such additional instrument or mortgage shall not be subject to taxation under this article, unless it creates or secures a new or further indebtedness or obligation other than the principal indebtedness or obligation secured by or which under any contingency may be secured by the recorded primary mortgage, in which case, a tax is imposed as provided by section two hundred and fifty-three of this chapter on such new or further indebtedness or obligation, and shall be paid to the proper recording officer at the time such instrument or additional mortgage is recorded. If at the time of recording such instrument, or additional mortgage any exemption is claimed under this section, there shall be filed with the recording officer and preserved in his office a statement under oath of the facts on which such claim for exemption is based. The determination of the recording officer upon the question of exemption shall be reviewable by the tax commission.

§ 69. Section two hundred and fifty-six of such chapter, as amended by chapter six hundred and sixty-five of the laws of nineteen hundred and thirteen, is hereby amended to read as follows:

§ 256. Mortgages for indefinite amounts or for contract obligations. If the principal indebtedness secured or which by any contingency may be secured by a mortgage is not determinable from the terms of the mortgage, or if a mortgage is given to secure the performance by the mortgagor or any other person of a contract obligation other than the payment of a specific sum of money and the maximum amount secured or which by any contingency may be secured by the mortgage is not expressed therein, such mortgage shall be taxable under section two hundred and fifty-three of this chapter upon the value of the property covered by the mortgage, which shall be determined by the recording officer to whom such mortgage is presented for record, unless at the time of presenting such mortgage for record the owner thereof shall file with the recording officer a sworn statement of the maximum amount secured or which under any contingency may be secured by the mortgage. If such maximum amount is expressed in the mortgage or in a sworn statement filed as required by this section, such amount shall be the basis for assessing the tax imposed by this article. A statement filed by the owner of a mortgage pursuant to this section shall thereafter at all times be binding upon and conclusive against such owner, the holders of any bonds or obligations secured by such mortgage and all persons claiming through the mortgagee any interest in the mortgage or the mortgaged premises. If the maximum amount secured or which by any contingency may be secured by the mortgage is not expressed in the [illegible] of a sworn statement as authorized by this section, the recording officer at the time such mortgage is offered for record may require the mortgagor or mortgagee to furnish him with proofs as to such facts as he deems necessary for the purpose of computing the value of the property covered by the mortgage and such proofs shall include an affidavit of appraisal of the value of the property made by at least two competent, disinterested persons and shall be preserved in his office. His determination and copies of the proofs as to the basis for computing the tax on such mortgage shall be forwarded to and subject to review by the state tax commission. Such mortgage shall not be recorded until the statement is filed or the proofs are furnished as required by this article.

§ 70. Section two hundred and fifty-eight of such chapter, as amended by chapter six hundred and sixty-five of the laws of nineteen hundred and thirteen, is hereby amended to read as follows:

§ 258. Effect of nonpayment of taxes. No mortgage of real property shall be recorded by any county clerk or register, unless there shall be paid the tax imposed by and as in this article provided. No mortgage of real property which is subject to the taxes imposed by this article shall be released, discharged of record or received in evidence in any action or proceeding, nor shall any assignment of or agreement extending any such mortgage be recorded unless the taxes imposed thereon by this article shall have been paid as provided in this article. No judgment or final order in any action or proceeding shall be made for the foreclosure or the enforcement of any mortgage which is subject to the tax imposed by this article or of any debt or obligation secured by any such mortgage, unless the taxes imposed by this article shall have been paid as provided in this article; and whenever it shall appear that any mortgage has been recorded or that any advance has been made or a prior advance mortgage or on a corporate trust mortgage without payment of the tax imposed by this article there shall be paid in addition to the amount of the tax a sum equal to one per centum thereof for each month the tax remains unpaid, which sum shall be added to the tax and paid or collected therewith.

§ 71. Section two hundred and fifty-nine of such chapter, as amended by chapter four hundred and twelve of the laws of nineteen hundred and nine and chapter six hundred and sixty-five of the laws of nineteen hundred and thirteen, is hereby amended to read as follows:

§ 259. Trust mortgages. In the case of mortgages made by corporations in trust to secure payment of bonds or obligations issued or to be issued thereafter, if the total amount of principal indebtedness which under any contingency may be advanced or accrue or which may become secured by any such mortgage which is subject to this article has not been advanced or accrued thereon or become secured thereby before such mortgage is recorded, it may contain at the end thereof a statement of the amount which at the time of the execution and delivery thereof has been advanced or accrued thereon, or which is then secured by such mortgage; thereupon the tax payable on the recording of the mortgage shall be computed on the basis of the amount so stated to have been so advanced or accrued thereon or which is stated to be secured thereby. Such statement shall thereafter at all times be binding upon and conclusive against the mortgagee, the holders of any bonds or obligations secured by such mortgage and all persons claiming through the mortgagee any interest in the mortgage or in the mortgaged premises. Whenever a further amount is to be advanced under the original mortgage, or shall accrue thereon or become secured thereby, the corporation making such mortgage shall pay the tax on such amount at or before the time when such amount is to be advanced, accrues or becomes secured and shall, at the time of paying such tax, file in the office of the recording officer where such mortgage has been or is first recorded and with the tax commission a statement, verified by the secretary, treasurer or other proper officer, of said corporation of the amount of principal indebtedness to be so advanced, accruing or becoming secured, and the certification of any bond or bonds by the trust mortgagee shall be deemed an advance under this article. Such additional tax shall be paid to the recording officer where such mortgage has been or is first recorded and a receipt therefor shall be endorsed upon the mortgage and payment therefor shall be noted in the margin of the record of such mortgage and if requested a duplicate receipt for such payment shall also be given to the party paying such tax and the note of such payment or additional payment or such receipt shall have the same force and effect as the record of receipt of the tax which under this article is payable at or before the recording of the mortgage. If such additional tax is not paid as required by this section, the trust mortgagee shall not certify any bond or other obligation issued on account thereof. The corporation making such mortgage or the owner of the property which secures the mortgage debt shall annually within thirty days after July first, and until it shall appear by such statement that the maximum amount of principal indebtedness secured by such mortgage has been advanced, has accrued or become secured and the tax thereon paid, file in the office of the tax commission and the recording officer where such mortgage has been or is first recorded a statement, verified by the secretary, treasurer or other proper officer of said corporation, showing:

1. The name of the mortgagor and the mortgagee;
2. The date of the mortgage and the county where first recorded;
3. The maximum amount of principal debt or obligation which under any contingency may be secured by such mortgage;
4. The amount advanced on such mortgage during the year ending June thirtieth preceding, with the date and amount of each advancement;
5. In the case of a mortgage recorded prior to July first, nineteen hundred and six, the first annual statement filed under this section as hereby amended, shall state the total amount advanced prior to July first, nineteen hundred and six, and the date and the amount of each subsequent advancement to the end of the period covered by the statement.

A failure to file any statement required by this section within the time required shall subject the corporation making such mortgage to a penalty of one hundred dollars per day for each day such failure continues, recoverable by the attorney-general in an action brought in the name of the people of the state of New York.

§ 72. Section two hundred and sixty-one of such chapter, as amended by chapter three hundred and ninety-nine of the laws of nineteen hundred and fourteen, is hereby amended to read as follows:

§ 261. Payment over and distribution of taxes. Upon the first day of each month the recording officer of each county shall pay over to the county treasurer all moneys received during the preceding month upon account of taxes paid to him as herein prescribed, after deducting the necessary expenses of his office as provided in section two hundred and sixty-two, except taxes paid upon mortgages which under the provisions of section two hundred and sixty are to be apportioned by the tax commission between several counties, which taxes and money shall be paid over by him as provided by the determination of said tax commission within five days after the filing of said determination in his office. The county treasurer of each county shall on the first day of January, April, July and October in each year, after having deducted the necessary expenses of his office provided in section two hundred and sixty-two, transmit one-half of the [illegible] collected under the provisions of this article to the state treasurer and shall receive from the state treasurer a receipt therefor countersigned by the comptroller. The remaining portion thereof in the counties of New York, Kings, Queens, Richmond and Bronx shall be paid into the general fund of the city of New York and be applied to the reduction of taxation, and in the other counties of the state the remaining portion shall be held by the respective county treasurers subject to the order of the board of supervisors as hereinafter provided. Prior to the first day of November in each year the recording officer shall cause to be prepared a statement containing a description of all mortgages upon which taxes have been paid by a reference to the date of each mortgage, the name of the mortgagor and mortgagee, the amount of the principal debt upon which the tax was paid together with the book and page where said mortgage is recorded, together with the tax district in which the mortgaged property is situated, and if situated in two or more tax districts the amount apportioned to each tax district by the tax commission, and the amount deducted for his necessary expenses as approved by the tax commission and shall file the statement with the clerk of the board of supervisors, and a copy thereof with the tax commission. The boards of supervisors of the several counties shall, on or before the fifteenth day of December in each year, ascertain from the statement filed with their clerk by the recording officer the location of the mortgaged property with respect to the several tax districts and the amount of tax properly to be credited to each tax district, which shall be applicable to the payment of state, county and city, or town expenses; except that where a town contains within its limits an incorporated village, or portion thereof, the supervisor shall apportion to the village or villages so much of the share credited to the said town as the assessed value of said village or portion thereof bears to twice the total assessed valuation of the town, and the remaining balance shall be applicable to the payment of state, county and town taxes. The board of supervisors of each county, on or before the fifteenth day of December in each year, shall determine the respective sums applicable hereunder to each of the foregoing purposes and shall issue their warrant for the payment to the city treasurer or town supervisor, of the amount payable to said city or town, and their warrant for the payment to the village treasurer of the sum of money to which the village shall be entitled, which sum shall be credited to the general fund of the village.

§ 73. Section two hundred and sixty-two of such chapter is hereby amended to read as follows:

§ 262. Expenses of officers. Recording officers and county treasurers shall severally be entitled to receive all their necessary expenses for the purposes of this article, including printing, hire of clerks and assistants, being first approved and allowed by the tax commission, which shall be retained by them out of the moneys coming into their hands.

§ 74. Section two hundred and sixty-five of such chapter, as added by chapter four hundred and twelve of the laws of nineteen hundred and nine, is hereby amended to read as follows:

§ 265. Tax a lien; exceptions. The tax in this article imposed shall be deemed and is hereby declared to be a lien upon the mortgage upon which such tax is imposed and upon the debt or obligation secured thereby, except that upon mortgages recorded prior to July first, nineteen hundred and six, such lien shall extend only to that portion thereof represented by the amount advanced subsequently to such date and to the debt or obligation secured by such advancement, and for the purpose of enforcing the payment of the tax in this article imposed, such mortgage and the debt thereby secured shall be deemed to be property within this state notwithstanding that such mortgage may be owned by or be in the possession of a person or corporation outside the state, and a copy thereof duly certified by the recording officer of any county in which such mortgage is recorded shall, for the purpose of enforcing the payment of such tax, be deemed to be, and shall have the same force and effect as the original mortgage and may be sold to satisfy such tax and upon a sale of the whole or any part thereof, shall carry with it and transfer to the purchaser all the rights, interests and obligations of the mortgagee therein named or his assignee or successor in interest in and to such mortgage and the debt secured thereby, or the part thereof to which such lien attaches, together with interest and costs.

§ 75. Section two hundred and sixty-six of such chapter, as added by chapter four hundred and twelve of the laws of nineteen hundred and nine, is hereby amended to read as follows:

§ 266. Enforcement; procedure. In case the tax imposed by this article is not paid as in this article provided, the tax commission may notify the attorney-general of such failure or refusal to pay and it shall then be the duty of the attorney-general to enforce the payment of such tax, and for that purpose he may maintain an action in the name of the people of the state of New York, in any court of competent jurisdiction, either to sell such mortgage; or, he may maintain an action against the mortgagee or his assignee or successor in interest personally; or, whereby stipulations contained in such mortgage it is made the duty of the mortgagor to pay such tax, then against the mortgagor or his successor in interest personally; or, in the case of a trust mortgage against the trust mortgagee, personally; or, he may pursue either, any or all such remedies. All actions instituted by the attorney-general, as herein provided, shall, if the amount involved is fifty dollars or more, be brought in the county of Albany. Where, in any action, a recovery is had there shall be added to the amount of such tax and included in the judgment, interest at the rate of one per centum per month on the amount of such tax, to be computed from the date on which such tax became due and payable, except that in the case of taxable mortgages heretofore recorded and upon which the tax imposed by this article has not been paid, and where, in such case, no penalty is prescribed by law for the nonpayment of such tax, interest shall be added at the rate of six per centum per annum. In any action brought as herein provided, where the judgment provides for the sale of the mortgage, such judgment shall also prescribe the time, place and manner of such sale and of the notice thereof to be given, and, in the discretion of the court, may direct that such sale be made by or under the direction of the comptroller or the recording officer of the county in which such mortgage was first recorded, and all money recovered in such action shall be paid by the attorney-general to the proper recording officer in satisfaction of such tax, and all costs recovered therein shall be paid into the state treasury.

§ 76. Section two hundred and ninety of such chapter is hereby amended to read as follows:

§ 290. Contents of petition. Any person assessed upon any assessment-roll, claiming to be aggrieved by any assessment for property therein, may present to the supreme court a petition duly verified setting forth that the assessment is illegal, specifying the grounds of the alleged illegality, or if erroneous by reason of overvaluation, stating the extent of such overvaluation, or if unequal in that the assessment has been made at a higher proportionate valuation than the assessment of other property on the same roll by the same officers, specifying the instances in which such inequality exists, and the extent thereof, and stating that he is or will be injured thereby. Such petition must show that the application has been made in due time to the proper officers to correct such assessment. Two or more persons assessed upon the same roll who are affected in the same manner by the alleged illegality, error or inequality, may unite in the same petition.

§ 77. Section two hundred and ninety-three of such chapter, as amended by chapter three hundred and thirty of the laws of nineteen hundred and nine and chapter three hundred and two of the laws of nineteen hundred and eleven, is hereby amended to read as follows:

§ 293. Proceedings upon return. If it shall appear upon the return to any such writ that the assessment complained of is illegal or erroneous or unequal for any of the reasons alleged in the petition, the court may order such assessment, if illegal, to be stricken from the roll, or if erroneous or unequal, it may order a reassessment of the property of the petitioner, or the correction of the assessment upon the roll, in whole or in part, in such manner as shall be in accordance with law, or as shall make it conform to the valuations and assessments of other property upon the same roll and secure equality of assessment. If upon the hearing it shall appear to the court that testimony is necessary for the proper disposition of the matter, it may take evidence or may appoint a referee to take such evidence as it may direct, and report the same to the court, with his findings of fact and conclusions of law, which shall constitute a part of the proceedings upon which the determination of the court shall be made. Upon such hearing the parties to the proceeding may mutually agree upon the number of pieces of property to be valued and the number of witnesses to be sworn on the subject of the value of such properties. But in case the parties fail to so agree, then upon application of either party the court shall determine the number of witnesses to be sworn and the number of the pieces of property to be valued and shall limit the same to such number as the court shall deem reasonable.

§ 78. Such chapter is hereby amended by inserting therein a new section, to be section two hundred and ninety-three-a, to read as follows:

§ 293-a. Special proceedings concerning special franchise tax assessments. When the writ is obtained to review a special franchise assessment made pursuant to the provisions of article two of this chapter, upon the filing of the return to the writ the court may take such evidence as it may deem necessary, or may appoint a referee to take evidence and to hear, try and determine all questions raised by the petition and the return thereto and to make his findings and determinations therein, or, on motion of either party, the court may direct the place of trial changed to the county in which the special franchise under review is situated, and on an order duly entered granting such motion, the place of trial shall be deemed changed to the county designated and the papers and proceedings shall be certified to that county in the manner now provided by law in the case of a change in the place of trial of an action and all subsequent proceedings shall be had in the county so designated, as if the special proceedings had been originally instituted in that county, and the court may, upon the application of the attorney-general, upon cause shown, vacate any reference heretofore made in any proceeding instituted to review a special franchise assessment, made pursuant to the provisions of article two of this chapter. The governor may, upon the application of the attorney-general, upon cause shown, appoint extraordinary terms of the supreme court to be held in any judicial district and designate a justice to preside thereat, to try such special franchise cases. Such extraordinary term shall have jurisdiction over all special franchise cases arising in any tax district within the judicial district for which the term is appointed, without regard to the county in which the term is being held, and either party to a proceeding to review a special franchise assessment may at any time bring the proceeding on for a hearing or trial before said extraordinary term by serving upon the other party sixteen days' notice thereof by mail or fourteen days' notice personally. A new assessment or correction of an assessment made by order of the court shall have the same force and effect as if it had been so made by the proper officers within the time prescribed by law for making such assessment.

§ 79. Section two hundred and ninety-six of such chapter, as amended by chapter four hundred and seventy of the laws of nineteen hundred and fifteen, is hereby amended to read as follows:

§ 296. Refund of tax paid upon illegal, erroneous or unequal, assessment. If in a final order in any such proceeding it has been or shall be ordered or adjudged or determined that the assessment complained of was illegal, erroneous or unequal, and correcting or directing correction thereof, and such order shall not be made in time to enable the assessors or other officers to make a new or corrected assessment for the use of the board of supervisors or for the use of the town, village, city, school or special district officers levying any tax upon such property, the assessment of which has been or shall be so ordered or adjudged or determined to be illegal, erroneous or unequal, then any tax collected or to be collected upon such illegal, erroneous or unequal assessment shall be refunded as follows:

1. When such tax upon such illegal, erroneous or unequal assessment shall have been levied by the board of supervisors, then at an annual session of the board of supervisors held after the order for such correction has been granted and entered there shall be audited and allowed to the petitioner or other person who shall have paid such tax, and included in the tax levy of the town, village, city or special district in which the property is situated, made next after the entry of such order, and paid to the petitioner, or other person paying the tax, the amount paid by him, in excess of what the tax would have been if the assessment had been made as ordered, adjudged or determined by such order of the court, together with the interest thereon from the date of payment. In case the amount deducted from such assessment by such order exceeds ten thousand dollars, so much of the tax as shall be refunded by reason of such corrected assessment, other than the proportion or percentage thereof collected for such town, village, city or special district purposes, shall be levied upon the county at large and paid with interest, to the petitioner or other person paying the tax without further audit: and the board of supervisors shall audit and levy upon such town, village, city or special district, the proportion or percentage of such excess of tax collected for such town, village, city or special district purposes, which shall be collected and paid with interest to the petitioner, or other person paying the tax without other or further audit.

2. When a tax, or any part thereof upon such illegal, erroneous or unequal assessment shall have been levied by the proper officers of any city or village, solely for the benefit and purposes of such city or village, then the common council or other auditing officer or officers of such city or village shall immediately after such correction audit and allow, to the petitioner or other person who shall have paid such tax, or the part thereof levied solely for the benefit and purposes of such city or village, and include in the tax levy of such city or village in which the property is situated made next after the entry of such order and cause to be paid to such petitioner or other person paying such tax, or the part thereof levied solely for the benefit and purposes of such city or village, the amount paid by him in excess of what the tax or the part thereof levied solely for the benefit and purposes of such city or village, would have been if the assessment had been as ordered, adjudged or determined by such order of the court, together with interest thereon from the date of the payment.

3. When a tax shall have been levied and collected in any school district of this state upon any property within such district on any assessment value thereof which shall have been ascertained from a town assessment-roll and which assessment upon such town roll shall have been ordered, adjudged or determined by order of the court as aforesaid to have been illegal, erroneous or unequal and which assessment though made by town assessors was adopted and was used in such district for the purpose of taxation for school purposes, then and in such cases the trustees of such school district shall audit and allow and cause to be paid to the petitioner, or other person who shall have paid such tax, the amount paid by him in excess of what the school tax would have been in such case if the assessment had been made as ordered, adjudged or determined by such order of the court together with interest thereon from the date of the payment.

Application to the proper officer for the audit and allowance of such moneys must be made by the petitioner or other person paying such tax within three years after the entry of the final order ordering or adjudging or determining such assessment to have been illegal, erroneous or unequal; provided that the time of the pendency of any appeal in any such proceeding or from any such order shall not be deemed any part of such three years.

§ 80. Section two hundred and ninety-eight of such chapter is hereby amended to read as follows:

§ 298. Application to county court where taxpayer has removed from the county. If it shall satisfactorily appear by affidavit to the county court of any county that a tax legally levied therein can not be collected because of the removal of the person taxed to any other county of the state, such court shall, upon application of the collector of any tax district or of the county treasurer of the county, grant an order, directed to the sheriff of the county where such person may be, to collect the same out of his personal property with interest at the rate of eight per centum per annum from the date of said order. Such order shall be filed in the office of the clerk of the county in which it is granted, and a certified copy thereof delivered to the constable or sheriff of the county where the person liable for the tax may be, and such constable or sheriff, on receiving the same shall execute it, and make a like return, and be entitled to the same fees and subject to the same liabilities and penalties for neglect as upon execution from any court of record. The sheriff receiving such moneys shall pay the same to the county treasurer of the county where it was levied, to the credit of the town in which it was assessed.

§ 81. Section three hundred and two of such chapter is hereby amended to read as follows:

§ 302. Cancellation of personal tax where it is void for want of jurisdiction. If a personal tax, levied against a person or corporation, is void for want of jurisdiction of such person or corporation and has been returned by the proper collector uncollectible for want of personal property out of which to collect the same, the person or corporation against whom the said tax was levied may then apply to the supreme or county court in the county in which is located the tax district where said tax was levied, for an order cancelling the said tax, and upon notice to the president of the village, county treasurer, supervisor of the town or, in the case of a city, upon notice to its attorney or to the corporation counsel, and upon satisfactory proof by affidavit, the court shall make an order directing the cancellation of said tax from the assessment roll by the county treasurer, comptroller, or other officer in whose custody and control the said roll may be.

§ 82. Section three hundred and six of such chapter is hereby amended to read as follows:

§ 306. Attorney-general to bring action for sequestration. It shall be the duty of the attorney general, on being informed by the comptroller, tax commission or by the county treasurer of any county that any incorporated company refuses or neglects to pay the taxes imposed upon it, pursuant to articles one and two of this chapter, to bring an action in the supreme court for the sequestration of the property of such corporation and the court may so sequestrate the property of such corporation for the purpose of satisfying taxes in arrear, with the cost of prosecution, and may, also, in its discretion, enjoin such corporation and further proceedings under its charter until such tax and the costs incurred in the action shall be paid. The attorney-general may recover such tax with costs from such delinquent corporation by action in any court of record.

§ 83. Section two hundred and twenty of such chapter is hereby amended to read as follows:

§ 220. Taxable transfers. A tax shall be and is hereby imposed upon the transfer of any tangible property within the state and of intangible property, or of any interest therein or income therefrom, in trust or otherwise, to persons or corporations in the following cases, subject to the exemptions and limitations hereinafter prescribed:

1. When the transfer is by will or by the intestate laws of this state of any intangible property, or of tangible property within the state, from any person dying seized or possessed thereof while a resident of the state.

3. Whenever the property of a resident decedent, or the property of a non-resident decedent within this state, transferred by will is not specifically bequeathed or devised, such property shall, for the purposes of this article, be deemed to be transferred proportionately to and divided pro rata among all the general legatees and devisees named in said decedent's will, including all transfers under a residuary clause of such will.

4. When the transfer is of intangible property, or of tangible property within the state, made by a resident, or of tangible property within the state or of any intangible property, if evidenced by, or consisting of shares of stock, bonds, notes or other evidences of interest in any corporation, joint stock company or association wherever incorporated or organized, except a corporation, foreign or domestic, or joint stock company or association constituting, being or in the nature of a moneyed corporation, a railroad or transportation corporation, or a public service or manufacturing corporation as defined and classified by the laws of this state, and the property represented by such shares of stock, bonds, notes or other evidences of interest consists of real property which is located, wholly or partly, within the state of New York, or of an interest in any partnership business conducted, wholly or partly, within the state of New York, in such proportion as the value of the real property of such corporation, joint stock company or association, or as the value of the entire property of such partnership located in the state of New York bears to the value of the entire property of such corporation, joint stock company or association or partnership made by a non-resident or capital invested in business in the state by a non-resident of the state doing business in the state either as principal or partner by deed, grant, bargain, sale or gift made in contemplation of the death of the grantor, vendor or donor or intended to take effect in possession or enjoyment at or after such death.

5. When any such person or corporation becomes beneficially entitled, in possession or expectancy, to any property or the income thereof by any such transfer whether made before or after the passage of this chapter.

6. Whenever any person or corporation shall exercise a power of appointment derived from any disposition of property made either before or after the passage of this chapter, such appointment when made shall be deemed a transfer taxable under the provisions of this chapter in the same manner as though the property to which such appointment relates belonged absolutely to the donee of such power and had been bequeathed or devised by such donee by will.

To Remove Tar.

Tar may be removed from the hands by rubbing with the outside of fresh orange or lemon peel and drying immediately. The volatile oils dissolve tar so that it can be rubbed off.

Use for a Brick.

When ironing it is a good plan to get a clean brick, a white one if possible, as stand. The iron will retain heat much longer if an open iron stand be used.

A Test.

When boiled and unboiled eggs get mixed, spin them and the boiled ones will spin around quite fast, while those which have not been cooked will hardly spin round once.

Australians Fond of Sugar.

The Australian commonwealth has the sweetest tooth of all the countries in the world, its annual per-capita consumption of sugar being 109 pounds.

Workings of a Witch.

The roller jewel of a watch each day makes 432,000 impacts against the fork, or 157,680,000 in a year, or 3,153,600,000 in 20 years. A force of one horsepower would run 270,000 watches.

MYSTICS WON ON SUNDAY

On the Cornell street grounds on Sunday afternoon the Mystics of this city defeated the fast Emerald team, better known as the Barmann's Club, by the score of 5 to 2. It was one of the best games of baseball played on that diamond this year. Doyle, who pitched for the Mystics, held the Emeralds to five hits, while his team mates supported him in fine style. Bowser, who pitched for the Emeralds, also pitched a fine game but his support was not as good as that afforded Doyle.

The Mystics, who are now traveling along at a fast clip, will cross bats with the fast Tannersville team on Tuesday. Doyle and McAuliffe will do the twirling for the Mystics while McMahon will be on the receiving end.

His Gratitude.

A collector of subscriptions for the brass-band fund once came across a farmer who was noted for his meanness. To his surprise the farmer at once consented to subscribe fully as large a sum as any he had yet received. "Mr. Hardfist," he said, addressing the farmer, "you are surely very fond of music, to give so much?" "Oh, yes," said the farmer; "they're grand for scaring the crows from me taties when they're practicin', an' I'm grateful."—London Tit-Bits.

Manufactured by S. ANARGYROS

The rumored shortage of Turkish tobacco may affect other manufacturers, but causes us no concern whatever.

It is a well known fact that Turkish tobacco improves with age, and for years we have had, and now have in storage in the United States by far the largest supply of pure Turkish tobacco ever carried by any manufacturer.

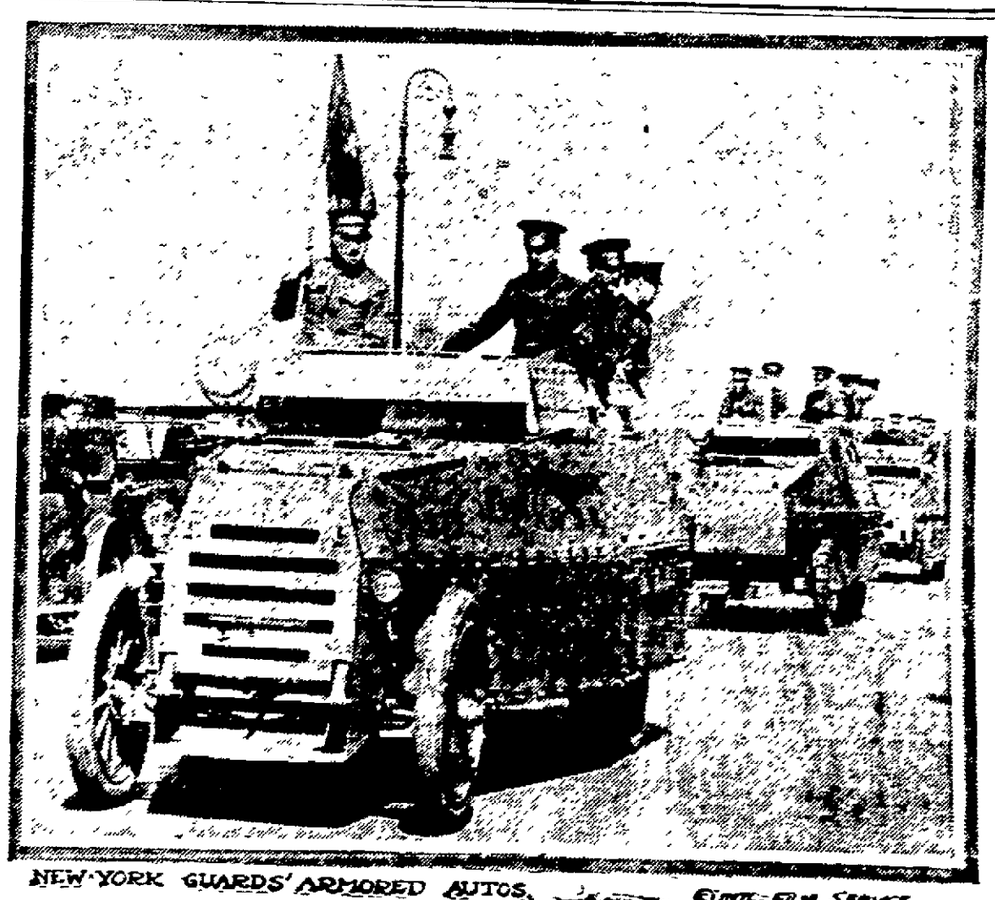

So large is our supply of pure Turkish tobacco that we are now making the above standard brands out of the 1910 and 1911 crops, ageing our leaf from the subsequent crops for future use.

We maintain in the Orient our own organization, and are not dependent upon the haphazard supply from brokers and speculators.

Notwithstanding the difficulties of ocean traffic, we have continued shipments from the Orient, adding to our already enormous leaf stock more than a million of pounds in the past few months—the most recent cargo, amounting to about four hundred thousand pounds of the best Xanthi and Cavalla leaf, having arrived at the Port of New York on Thursday, June 22, 1916.

Each individual cigarette in every package of the above brands is guaranteed 100% Pure Turkish Tobacco.

RUTH IS MAINSTAY OF BOSTON PITCHERS

Southpaw Twirler Who Is Keeping Red Sox Up in Race.

Babe Ruth's good left arm is doing its share to keep the crippled Boston Red Sox, holders of the world championship, from falling to pieces in the present flag campaign. The Babe rang up his third shut-out victory of the year when he tamed Fohl's Cleveland Indians, 5 to 0, the triumph giving him a record of 8 wins in 11 starts. In the 102 1-3 innings he worked the Boston sidewheeler allowed 68 hits and 24 runs.

Ruth started with a rush, copping four straight engagements, bowling over the Athletics twice and Washington and New York each once. Washington stopped him May 1 and Cleveland walloped him May 10, but Babe came back and won two straight from St. Louis and Detroit, then lost another to the Yanks.

COZY DOLAN'S LAST REQUEST

Frank Bancroft, Not Being a Fish, Was Unable to Comply With Wish of Drowning Player.

"What I think was the richest thing I ever heard," says Tom Clarke, "came off on a storm-tossed ship on the Pacific ocean, when Bancroft's all-star tourists were making a jump by boat last fall. It was right in the midst of danger and apparent tragedy, too, and yet it was so good that the whole crowd of us bellowed with delight.

"A fearful storm, a regular typhoon, struck us far out at sea, and the situation grew decidedly serious. Tons of water were coming aboard every moment; the ship was wallowing and reeling, and the captain was ordering all hands to get the boats ready. The players were all clustered on the deck, and, just as the boat was bounding madly, Cozy Dolan managed to make his way to old Frank Bancroft.

"'Banny, Banny,' shrieked Dolan, through the roaring of the storm, 'this ship is sinking, sure! Listen to me, Banny—will you tell my folks at home that I died game?'

"And Banny, clinging to a railing, whopped back: 'What? Me tell your folks you died game? What do you take me for—a fish?'"

Tough Game to Lose.

It was a tough game the White Sox lost to the Athletics on May 19. Eleven innings and not a run scored. Strunk was passed, McInnes sacrificed and then Lajoie was purposely passed, only to have Pick come through with a single. McInnis saved the game for Bush in the eleventh with a wonderful one-hand catch off Leibold when the Sox had two on bases and two out.

Barry Meets Honus Wagner.

Jack Barry never had met Hans Wagner until he arrived at Hot Springs this spring. He immediately asked to be introduced. "I consider him the greatest ball player the game has ever known, and consider it an honor to shake his hand," said the second baseman of the Red Sox.

Indians Thrill Fans.

Cleveland may not win a pennant for many dreary years to come, but the Indians have certainly given the fans of the Ohio metropolis a great thrill, and caused them, at least temporarily, to cherish a mighty hope.

Dauss in Record Class.

George Dauss, pitching his first game for Detroit on the team's eastern trip, managed to get in the record class along with other Tiger pitchers. He gave ten bases on balls, yet allowed but two runs.

Mocha and Java.

Once famous for its coffee, Mocha has little left today but its olden name. At that period the Arabian province of Yemen, of which Mocha was the chief seaport, supplied practically all the berries used. At the end of the seventeenth century the coffee plant was introduced into Java and in a short time "Mocha and Java" became a trade name of great popularity.

CAMP WHITMAN ALMOST A MIRACLE IN PREPAREDNESS

Most Visitors See About a Third of it and Come Away Impressed With the Magnitude of What They Have Seen—Why it is a Success—Some Unpreparedness.

Camp Whitman, at Beekman, Dutchess county, is doubtless the nearest approach to "the real thing" that has been seen in New York state since the Montauk Point Camp in 1898. Persons who have visited the state camp at Peekskill have little idea of the magnitude of Camp Whitman. At Peekskill they saw at most one or two regiments, peace strength, encamped in a carefully prepared location. At Camp Whitman, they see, if they look around long enough to find them, seven or eight regiments, war strength, encamped on land that had received little preparation. Most of the visitors do not see this, for the reason that they go to see some particular company or regiment and do not see the others that are over the hills. Visitors from Kingston on Sunday were made aware of their proximity to the camp by meeting soldiers on the road. Asked for directions to the camp these soldiers would inquire what regiment the visitor desired to find and on being told the Tenth, courteously pointed out the way. As the Tenth is along the road first reached by those going to the camp from this city, the Kingston visitors saw only the Sixty-ninth, the Sixty-fifth and the Tenth, which are encamped in a row near this road. If they climbed the hill back of Col. Kline's headquarters they caught a glimpse of the camp of the Twenty-second. Most of the visitors saw a trifle more than one-third of the camp, but came away in the belief that they had seen the whole thing. To realize what the whole camp is they must multiply what they saw by three.

The camp is a busy place. So is the public road leading to it. Along this road are refreshment booths, news stands and all the catchpenny devices of a county fair or a circus. On the camp grounds none of these are allowed and the activity is of another sort—an activity that seems at first glance confusion, but is soon seen to be system and order in the highest degree. Everywhere are recruits drilling in squads of various sizes. Even before the camp is reached recruits are seen running up and down the roads, trying to bring every muscle in their bodies into action and succeeding in contorting themselves like insane jumping jacks and looking as if they were about to fall apart. The visitor wonders why this it until he notices an officer barking orders and criticisms at these men, who are having their wind and muscles tested and developed. On the camp grounds there is something doing in drill and instruction all the time, while other work goes on in an orderly manner.

The Problem.

Take more than 1,800 men, clerks, factory hands, laborers, professional men—very few of them used to working in the sun—herd them in a dozen companies of from 100 to 200 each in as many armories for ten days with daily drill in a field or in the street; then start them off by train right after breakfast, each man carrying somewhere from 40 to 50 pounds, bump them along on the railroad a few hours with only cold lunch to eat, and, in the middle of the afternoon, dump them off the cars and march them two miles to a neglected meadow that is half grown up in brush and set them at work making a home for themselves right there with only the supplies and equipment they have carried on their backs, supplemented with some heavier gear loaded on wagons that the men have had to haul two miles to their destination; add to this that drinking water must be carried nearly two miles. Do all these things and you will have duplicated what the Tenth Regiment did last Thursday and in the ten days preceding that day.

The Solution.

Turn the 1,800 men into farm laborers, working with inadequate tools eight hours a day in the hot sun, mowing grass, cutting brush, grading, ditching, and all the time carrying water from a mile and a half to two miles; deduct from this working force the proportion that must perform various strictly military duties and the proportion of new men who must be drilled in the elements of the duties of a soldier, and on the third day have the camp neat, orderly and sanitary, with the grass and brush all cut and burned, grounds properly graded and ditched, and you will have done what the Tenth Regiment has done at Camp Whitman. Other regiments have done the same, but in a smaller degree.

Camp Whitman a Success.

As a demonstration in practical work Camp Whitman has been a success. The water problem, of which so much has been made, is a part of the demonstration. Soldiers in the field do not always keep in close proximity to a model municipal water supply. Camp Whitman and its water supply were planned long before the federal government called out the National Guard. It was planned by General O'Ryan to have a state camp at Camp Whitman and mobilize all of the state troops there on July 9. All arrangements were made to have the camp in readiness on July 9. Then, while work was going forward, came the call from Washington. So Camp Whitman is an example of the preparedness, rather than the unpreparedness, of the New York portion of the National Guard, and everything done there before July 9 is proof of that preparedness for emergencies.

Why Not a Filter?

One little example of unpreparedness may, however, be cited. While the Tenth and Sixty-fifth Regiments are carrying water a mile and a half, there is a well right alongside the camp of the Tenth that has a copious flow of water which is too muddy to be used. A simple, crude mechanical filter to strain out the sand would make this nearby water supply available. Similar conditions are often met by troops in the field. Why is not the filter provided?

Where Unpreparedness Is.

Another unpreparedness feature, that is not up to the National Guard, but to the higher authorities, is in the make of equipment of recruits. The peace strength of a company is 100; its war strength is about 150. Many companies had less than 100 men. Company M was one of the very few that was up to full peace strength and was also fortunate in having acquired, by a method it would take too many words to explain here, a supply of additional uniforms. When the call to service came the National Guard was ordered to recruit up to full war strength, it did so. But it had neither arms nor other equipmelt for its recruits. Had these arms and other equipment been stored in the various armories the National Guard would have gone into camp at least ready for drill. Furthermore, in the case of the Tenth Regiment, the recruits would have had the advantage of from four to ten days of armory and parade ground drill in the use of arms before going to camp. As it is, they have not yet received their rifles or even their mess kits and uniforms. All these things are on hand and are said to even be at Camp Whitman, but are so tied up in red tape that they must be untied by the swivel chair brand of official that they cannot be issued to the men. So the "unpreparedness" of the National Guard is due to the federal government's failure to place the proper equipment where it would be immediately available.

Co. M is Too Big.

Another way a company is penalized for being efficient is in the rule someone has dug up that rations may be drawn for only 142 men. It has been stated over and over that war strength of a company was 150 men, and commanders were urged to recruit up to 160. Company M reached camp with 157 men. It had 15 more men than it was entitled to draw rations for. Captain Meagher has been drawing rations for the 157 men and has been charged for that number of rations, but he has been credited with only 142 men and the excess rations have been charged up to him, leaving a nice little bill of five or six dollars a day to be deducted from his pay as captain unless someone higher up has common sense enough to cut the red tape that would punish a commanding officer for bringing in a full company. To prevent this charge from going on and on forever, and comply with the newly discovered rule, it is probable that enough men to bring the membership down to 142 will be transferred from Company M to some other company.

No Regimental Chaplain.

Since the Rev. Howard E. Snyder moved to Wisconsin the Tenth Regiment has been without a chaplain. The Sixty-Fifth, which is encamped alongside the Tenth, has a chaplain who was holding services, assisted by the regimental band, but the Tenth were too busy to attend. The Sixty-Ninth, half a mile away, has a Catholic chaplain and the second, on the other side of the Tenth, has a Protestant chaplain, so that anyone who found the time had no difficulty in finding a service to attend.

No New Major.

No major has been appointed or commissioned to succeed Major Chandler, although several newspapers have printed statements that Capt. Burnett had been so appointed. As The Freeman stated several days ago, there is no vacancy. Major Chandler has merely been detached temporarily for staff duty at brigade headquarters and the senior captain in the battalion is acting major. Major Chandler may remain at headquarters, may be sent somewhere else or may come back to the regiment at any time.

Another Blunder.

The Second Infantry, which has been mustered in has been held up by lack of equipment. Col. Andrews went to New York to find what the trouble was, and discovered that the missing equipment had been sent by mistake to the arsenal in New York. It is being rushed here, and is expected to arrive in time for the regiment to go to the border with the brigade scheduled to leave here some time this week.

Sanitary Survey.

An inspection was made today of the sanitary facilities of the camp by Major A. E. Truby, U. S. A., who has been detailed by Major General Leonard Wood for that purpose. He was accompanied on his inspection tour by Major Sanford H. Wadhams, U. S. A., detailed as inspector for the National Guard; Captain Davis U. S. A., of West Point; and Major Daniel R. Lucas, camp surgeon.

The party had eight hundred acres to traverse. After the inspection trip, headquarters stationed a guard along the water supply route to protect the system against pollution.

Extreme care is taken that concessionaires dispensing foods, candies and ice cream do not foist impure commodities upon the enlisted men. The stock of every stand will be thoroughly inspected today.

Under the law the military authorities have not got the power to close up places selling impure foods, but a guard will be stationed in front of such places and all soldiers will be forbidden to trade there under penalty of arrest.

Major John W. Tumbridge, ordnance officer of the Second Brigade, ex-commissioner of Highways, Brooklyn, and owner of Hotel St. George, Brooklyn, took charge of roads and water supply here today.

Major Walter J. Carlin of Brooklyn, who is on General Eddy's staff, has been appointed intelligence officer of Camp Whitman.

Mail is Very Slow.

Mail facilities to and from Camp Whitman are wretched, it taking 24 hours for mail to go between Kingston and the camp. Copies of The Freeman mailed here before 5 p. m. do not reach camp until 5 p. m. next day. A letter from camp to The Freeman, mailed Friday evening, reached this city at 4 p. m. Saturday. One mailed Saturday evening has not yet been received. Judging from the number of members of Company M who were writing letters on Sunday their Kingston friends will receive a regular shower about Tuesday morning.

First Sergeant Dixon wishes the many friends of the boys to know that it will be no fault of his if their mail goes astray, as the boys are so anxious to write home that in several instances they have failed to address their mail matter, especially the lad who writes to "Helen."

ELECTRICAL STORM CAUSES DAMAGE

Sunday evening a severe electrical storm accompanied by a heavy downpour of rain, broke over Kingston, causing some damage to the street lights and to the telephone system.

The Kingston Gas & Electric Company said today that but one street circuit, that west of Broadway below the city hall was out two hours, when repairs were made.

The New York Telephone Company reported today that between 50 and 60 telephones were placed out of commission, but that the damage had been repaired and the telephones all were working this morning again.

The lighting system at Kingston Point Park was also slightly damaged by the storm.

Thrilling Automobile Wreck.

An automobile touring party had a thrilling smashup near Rifton at noon today when their car shed a tire and swerved to the side of the road, crashing in a telegraph pole and shooting one pair of wheels in the lot on one side of the road, while the other pair of wheels went in the lot on the opposite side and the body of the car was turned upside down, hurling the passengers out. They were well bedaubed with mud and their clothing was torn, but all were able to walk.

Big Business for Ferries.

The annual exodus of city-dwellers to the Catskills was noticeable in Kingston Saturday when thousands of automobiles passed through the city bound for various resorts where their occupants planned to spend the week-end and the Fourth. The ferries did a rushing business Saturday and Sunday in transporting automobiles. On the latter day the greater number of machines appeared to be headed toward Camp Whitman and other Dutchess county points.

Apropos of the secret session in the British parliament, the extensive ventilation chamber which passes beneath the house of commons was recently mentioned as a place where a large number of persons can comfortably hear every word spoken in the chamber above. DIGNITARY MANICURES NAILS OF PRIZE LEOPARD.

Few people can boast that the Park Commissioner of the largest city in America has manicured their nails. This distinction belongs to "Dick" the seven years old prize leopard of the New York Central Park Zoo. With ropes and tackle, Dick's legs were drawn beneath the bars of his cage, and Mr. Ward filed the claws and injected an antiseptic into the beast's feet.

For months Mrs. Green's physical condition has been such that she could not give her personal attention to her vast fortune, but in the meantime her affairs were administered by her son.

Lietz, formerly of this city, where he was employed by the Kingston Leader, and Miss Alice Lucile Swodie of Lake Geneva, Wisconsin, will be married this evening at the home of the groom's brother, John W. Lietz, at Delevan, Wisconsin. After leaving Kingston, Mr. Leitz was connected with several newspapers in the Middle West and is now superintendent of the Lake Geneva Herald. His bride has been a trained nurse and is a charming and accomplished young woman.

Charming Out Door Greek Play.

Last Friday the Monday Club of this city, a member of what is known as "The Little Federation," made up of the Monday Clubs of Saugerties, Catskill and Kingston," was entertained at Catskill in a most unique and beautiful manner. In fact the women of the Catskill Club have already covered themselves with glory by the artistic quality and novelty of the entertainments which they have given in the past, and this time they seemed to surpass their own best efforts. The business session was held at the home of Mrs. Frank Osborn. After the business session, a delicious and elaborate luncheon was served and then the guests repaired to the beautiful lawn surrounding the home of Miss Bedell, overlooking the river. Here, with the Hudson river as a background, a classic and beautiful presentation of "Dido, the Phoenician Queen," was given by the young people of Catskill. They were indeed beautiful and exceeding graceful in their Greek costumes, and fascinated the audience, whether in the stately, or tripping dances or in their waiting upon the shrine where burned the perpetual fire. A charming maiden with her violin led the singers and dancers, while from the tree depths sounded other music like the veritable pipes of Pan. One of the most elaborate scenes, was the preparing of the banquet hall in the queen's palace, for the crowning feast. Especial mention should be made of the grace and elocutionary art of the young lady taking the part of Dido. This scene was marvelously beautiful. The guests were loth to have the lovely maidens finally vanish from the scene. But their hostesses were kind to them, and before sending them back to the garrish, work-aday world, they were bidden to stroll through the beautiful adjacent gardens of Miss Burr, where long phalanxes of Canterbury Bells, masses of velvety "Sweet Williams;" Crimson Ramblers and Honeysuckles fairly ran riot. One of the guests who had visited the meetings of the Garden Clubs of America at Lenox and visited some of the rare gardens there, declared that nothing lovelier was to be seen there than this ideal garden of Miss Burr's. As a fitting approach and departure from an afternoon of such unique charm, most of the guests went and returned by auto.

Another Pleasing Recital.

On Saturday afternoon last there was another pleasing piano-forte recital given in the lecture room of the Trinity M. E. Church by the pupils of Miss Mabel Baisden, assisted by Miss Ethel Montanyeky, reader and Miss Ethel Knapp, soprano. Practically all of the pupils played from memory, and that without hesitation or stumbling, and of course their performance gained in freedom and spirit because they were not confined to notes. Among the younger pupils were little Miriam Cassler, who played very nicely, "Sing, Robin Sing," by Spaulding and "At the Fairy Ball," by Branscombe. Another pretty number was "Enchanted Bells," by Krogmann, played by little Miss Dorothy Britcliffe. Robert Case showed considerable musical ability in his playing of "The Brooklet" by Ryder. Leona Dixon gave an excellent rendition of a "Spinning Lay," by Goerdeler and "Dance of the Bears," by Heins. An especially well executed selection was the pleasing "Spinning Song" by Ellmenreich, played by Albert Cooper. "The Voice of the Heart," by Van Gael, as played by Thelma Durr was marked by an excellent tonal quality. Ethel Douglas played the March Militaire by Streabbog with spirit and a sure rhythm. "The Rondoletto" by Murgmuller called for lightness and dexterity of fingering, a task to which Helen Smith seemed quite equal. "Mignonette" by Lichner was given a delightfully tripping, graceful performance by Elmer Douglas. The first half of the program closed with a graceful and well executed duet, "Intermezzo," by Bodenhoff, played by Marjorie Tillson and Ruth Bedell.

Beginning Part II, Milfred Douglas gave a spirited presentation of "Air de Ballett," by Chaminade, while Marjorie Tillson played very well indeed Josef Low's arrangement of the March and Chorus from "Tannhauser." Crispness marked the performance of "Mazurka" by Kuhn, Miss Ida Ostrander's selection. A "Morceau" by Heins was played with grace and lightness by Kenneth Zeh. "A Springtime Idyl" by Engelmann and "Angel's Dream" by Lange, were both sweet and pretty and were given respectively by Miss Mary Maynard and Miss Ruth Bedell.

Miss Mauterstock's reading of "The Duel" by Field and "The Italian's Idea of George Washington," delighted the audience.

The "Polka Boehn" by Bodenhoff, played by the Misses Marjorie Tillson and Ruth Bedell proved to be an especially pleasing number. Miss Mildred Keough had a very elaborate selection "Polka de Concert," which she played with brilliancy and cleanness of exeution. The work demanded of this number might well have been expended upon a worthier composition, for Miss Keough seems to have considerable talent.

Miss Knapp, soprano, then greatly pleased her hearers by her singing of "A Dream" by Bartlett, and "In the heart of the Happy Hills," by Woodman. The program closed with duet, "Overture to Zampa" played very well by Elmer and Mildred Douglas.

Before the departure of the guests, Mis Keough, on behalf of the pupils presented Miss Baisden with a huge cluster of beautiful carnations, in appreciation of her careful and efficient instruction and as expressing the sincere regard of all. Miss Baisden warmly thanked the pupils.

Fearlessness a Virtue.

From one cause or another we shrink from the responsiblity of avowing our deepest convictions. Partly it is from the fear of ostentation and singularity, partly from self-distrust and sincere humility, partly from more unworthy motives. But from whatever cause it may be, by so doing we wrong our friends.—B. F. Westcott.

The Scarlet Poppy.

The typical flower of the British grain fields is the scarlet poppy. In June when the wheat stalks have not yet reached their full height, many grain fields appear from a distance to have nothing but poppies in them and are a sheet of blazing scarlet. The long deeply cut leaves of the plant, of which each division ends in a bristle, are in themselves handsome.

The Wholesome Onion.

Onions are a specific for the complexion. They should be boiled whole in milk—drink the latter—or steamed and eaten with bread and butter and cheese. Then they make a satisfying and nutritious meal, on which you can do brain work or manual labor. Try onions. The taste and aftersmell? A mouthful of hot coffee takes away both.

Section thirty-six of chapter fifty-eight of the laws of nineteen hundred and nine, entitled "An act in relation to state finance, constituting chapter fifty-six of the consolidated laws," as amended by chapter six hundred and sixty-nine of the laws of nineteen hundred and fifteen, is hereby amended to read as follows:

§ 36. Specific appropriation not to be used for other purposes; items for certain purposes required to be specific. Money appropriated for a specific purpose shall not be used for any other purpose; and the comptroller shall not draw a warrant for the payment of any sum appropriated, unless it clearly appears from the detailed statement presented to him by the person demanding the same as required by this chapter, that the purposes for which such money is demanded are those for which it was appropriated. The comptroller shall not audit any claim for salary, labor or wages, unless an appropriation applicable thereto has been already made specifying the amount thereof appropriated for such purpose.

The comptroller shall not audit any claim or account or draw a warrant for the payment of moneys for the purchase of an automobile adapted and intended primarily for the carrying of passengers, or the rent thereof, for such purpose, for a period longer than ten days, unless moneys are specifically appropriated therefor; and an appropriation for expenses for any officer, board or commission or for any department under the state government, or in connection with the prosecution of any object or purpose, which does not in express terms include the purchase of such an automobile or automobiles shall not be held to authorize the comptroller to audit any such claim or account or draw a warrant for the payment thereof.

§ 2. This act shall take effect immediately.

Welcome Each Rebuff.

It is said that unless the climber is well pounded, no pitcher can be made. This seems to be true in a certain sense of the making of life. When we think how many blows one is quite certain to have, and how many are students in the "University of Hard Knocks," we realize that these hard things must be part of the process of making us fit for use.

Get the Turnstile Habit.

Let the duty in hand have the right of way. If one is rushed and worried and flurried, it is a sign that one has not learned the soothing effect of the turnstile method. There may be one thousand people coming, but the gateman takes care of just one at a time. For that instant the other 999 are nothing to him.

"Yes; but he can't tell you where his next meal is coming from."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

NO CHANGE IN MEXICAN POLICY

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, July 3.—"There is no change in the administration's policy regarding Mexico," Secretary of State Robert L. Lansing said today.

Reiterating that statement, the state and war departments today refused to assume responsibility for the actions of General John J. Pershing, commanding the punitive expedition now in Mexican territory, in moving his various troops until today there are none further south than 100 miles of the international boundary.

Pershing acted upon his own initiative. Army officers pointed out today that this was necessary if his column was not to be utterly vulnerable. By concentrating, Pershing today has a fighting force that can hold itself against any force the Mexicans could throw against it. In addition, he has withdrawn his men from the arid sections where they could not get even ordinary forage for their horses—this being the dry season—and has reduced the risk of having his communications cut and his transport trains attacked, to a minimum.

While the administration officials argued that the punitive expedition would be maintained unchanged, the war department took steps today which indicated that hereafter the American side of the boundary is to be patroled in such a way that further raids will be out of the question. Heretofore, Major General Funston has been seriously hampered by the enormous stretch of territory he has had to command. This has been divided, although the order doing so may not be made immediately effective. General Funston hereafter will be in charge of all of the present southern department to a point just east of El Paso. From El Paso to a point some thirty miles east of Douglas, Ariz., will be created the department of New Mexico, of which General Pershing is to have command. It specifically is stated at the war department that, although General Pershing's official headquarters are to be in El Paso, he will stay where he is for the present. West of the 109th meridan is created the western department, and Major General J. F. Bell will command it with headquarters at Douglas.

The fact that General Pershing, a brigadier general, is given a command equal to that of Funston and Bell, major generals, is accepted here an indicating the former's promotion to that rank in the near future under the new army bill. Pershing is a son in law of U. S. Senator Warren, the ranking minority member of the senate committee on military affairs. It has been suggested that a major general will be selected as comamnder-in-chief of all three departments shortly and friends of General Pershing here said today that he might get the post. This is unlikely, however, as either General Thomas H. Barry, now in command in Chicago, or General Tasker H. Bliss, assistant chief of staff, probably will be chosen if such a post is created. General Leonard Wod is admittedly out of the running.

No word yet has come to the administration regarding the Carranza reply to this government's demand that he announce his attitude toward the American expedition now on Mexican soil. In this connection a hint has reached administration officials that the reply, a reiteration of the original statement that if these troops moved any way but toward the north toward the American boundary they would be subject to attack, was ready to be handed to Consul General Rodgers last Saturday but was held up after Ambassador Designate Arredondo had telegraphed to General Carranza the text of President Wilson's speech before the New York Press Club last Friday night. The speech will result in some modification of the position enunciated, it was asserted. Discussing the reply today, Secretary of State Lansing said:

"We are not now pressing for an answer although certain contingencies might arise at any moment which would cause us to do so."

The secretary refused to explain what these contingences were. The Latin-American diplomatic colony which has been trying to find a way to avert war has tried again to sound out the United States on the neutral zone solution. It is understood that they have been informed that this government's policy is unchanged and that until Carranza accepts the general position of the United States there can be no change of attitude toward him.

The customs division of the treasury department today began, at the request of Secretary of War Baker, efforts to find out how large a supply of arms and ammunition the Carranza army has on hand.

The customs officials were asked to furnish complete figures as to how much munitions has been permitted to reach Mexico from the United States in the past year, and if possible to estimate the amount that has been shipped to Mexico from other countries.

AUTO ACCIDENT AT SAUGERTIES

A narrow escape from death or serious injurys was the good fortune of an automobile party from Catskill Sunday morning at Saugerties. They were going to Kingston and while passing through Saugerties instead of turning onto West Bridge street from Main street to take them to Kingston, kept on to the head of Main street at a high rate of speed passing the cemetery and down the hill leading to the bathing house of the Saugerties Bathing Club. The driver losing control of the car was noticed by two of the party who saved themselves by jumping before the car turned turtle at the bottom of the hill, throwing those left in far enough away to escape being crushed. A broken shoulder blade and a badly damaged car were the only injuries.

BADLY INJURED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

A Ford touring car owned by Carl Preston and containing Eric Larrson, who is a member of the neutrality squad of the United States Internal Revenue Department in New York city; Terry Foy, inspector for the Edison Company at West Orange, N. J., Cyril Spray, an insurance agent of No. 41 Hoffman street, and Arthur Van Etten of this city, was ditched on the Ashokan Boulevard near Temple Pond early Sunday evening, resulting in the injury of all the members of the party.

Mr. Van Etten was driving the car, which had been making a trip around the Ashokan reservoir and was on its way to Kingston. There are many dangerous curves on the road in the vicinity of Temple Pond and the road was extremely slippery after the heavy rain which had fallen during the afternoon. In order to avoid running into an approaching car which was traveling at fast speed around one of the turns, Mr. Van Etten was compelled to run the car he was driving into the ditch, where it overturned, all the members of the party being partly pinned under it.

Mr. Larrson was the most seriously injured of the party and was attended by Dr. J. D. W Dumond of Shokan, who advised that he be brought to the Benedictine Sanitarium, where he was attended further by Dr. Mark O'Meara. An examination disclosed a fracture of the frontal bone. The fracture is not severe and Mr. Larrson appears to be suffering from concussion of the brain more than from the fracture. During the night and today he has been in a semi comatose condition. Mr. Foy's right eye is closed from contact with part of the car, which pinned him down, and his right leg is also very painful. Mr. Spray sustained a sprained wrist but Mr. Van Etten escaped without injury except a severe shaking up. The clothing of all the party was badly torn.

Mr. Larrson's condition is not regarded as critical.

Fourth at Stone Ridge.

A parade of various local organizations, headed by the drum corps, will take place at 2 o'clock in the afternoon and at 3:30 o'clock there will be an address by the Rev. R. K. Boyd, D. D., of Jersey City, N. J. At 4:30 o'clock field day sports will be held and at 6 o'clock in the evening the day's ceremonies will conclude with an entertainment at the Grange Hall, where the Boy Scouts will present the play, "A Strenuous Afternoon," which will be followed by a patriotic drill and exercises by the Priscilla Club.

Stock & Cordts Get Contract.

The Athens National Bank opened today. Officials of the bank called at the store of Stock & Cordts several days ago and selected the furniture for the bank which opened today. They stated that they had visited stores in Hudson, Albany and other cities, but no where had they been able to find the goods they wanted for the bank in stock, nor as fine a variety as carried by the local concern, to whom they awarded the contract for the bank furnishings. The big auto truck of the firm left early this morning with the furniture so that it could be installed in time for the bank's opening.

The funeral will be held from the family residence, No. 20 West Union street, on Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock and at St. Mary's Church at 10:30 where a high mass of requiem will be offered for the repose of her soul. Interment in St. Mary's cemetery. Besides her parents she is survived by three sisters, Mrs. John Zeeh, Mrs. Michael Mitchell and Miss Helen and two brothers, Matthew and Richard.

Myron S. Coutant, formerly of this city, died on Sunday at his home at Binnewater, in his sixty-third year. He was a son of the late William W. Coutant and Lydia C. Snyder, and for many years was employed as bookkeeper at the Snyder cement mills. He is survived by one brother, George M. Coutant of this city, and two sisters, Mrs. Hannah Yeaple of Brooklyn and Mrs. Evelyn Markle of Binnewater, with whom he made his home. The funeral will take place from his late residence at Binnewater on Tuesday afternoon at one o'clock and the interment will be in the Bloomington cemetery.

Last Tuesday John J. Garrity, aged 9 years and 5 months, fell from a tree in O'Reilly's woods. He was conveyed to the Benedictine Sanitarium where he received every attention. Sunday morning lock jaw set in, causing death. He is survived by the following sisters and brothers. Nellie, Stella, Lillian, Anna, Loretta, Angelus, Ruth, Florence, Goldie, Loraine and Daniel. The funeral will be held from the late residence, No. 43 Foxhall avenue on Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock and at St. Mary's Church at 9:30 where a requiem mass will be offered for the repose of his soul. The interment will be in St. Mary's cemetery. The lad was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Garrity. The father was killed while at work on the railroad, and the mother also died some time ago. The children although left orphans have worked hard to keep the home together.

Charles R. Johnston, for many years a well known resident of Newburgh, died at his home on Sunday evening after a prolonged illness. Sometime ago he became affected with hardening of the arteries and about two weeks ago he suffered a stroke of paralysis. He was a son of the late John Johnston and was born in Kingston. For some time he was in charge of the printing department of the Kingston Leader, which was then in its infancy, and later went to Newburgh. For a time he was engaged in the printing business in Poughkeepsie and also went to Virginia. On his return to Newburgh he became connected with the Newburgh Daily News and was superintendent of the job printing department there for many years. At the time of the Ashokan condemnation proceedings he removed to this city and for several years was engaged as proofreader for the city of New York, which printed all the testimony taken in the cases. After he returned to Newburgh he was again connected with the News. He was a member of Kingston Lodge, No. 10, Free and Accepted Masons, and during his residence here he made many friends. He married Anna Van Etten, a sister of the late Jason Van Etten of this city, who with one daughter, Mrs. Ethel A. Wells of Lansing, Michigan, survive. He is also survived by a half-brother, Frank Johnston of Poughkeepsie, and two half-sisters, Mrs. Mina W. Dudley of Freehold, N. J., and Mrs. Lizzie Dunham of Auburn, N. Y. He was a nephew of the late Charles DeWitt Johnston of this city. The funeral will take place from his late residence, No. 142 Chambers street, Newburgh, on Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock, and the interment will be at Woodstock on Thursday morning.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, July 3.—Business was extremely small on the stock exchange at the opening today and all through the first fifteen minutes, with the market clearly divided into two sections. The railway list showed pronounced strength, while the war order stocks were without support and many of these stocks were established at a materially lower level. Most importance was attached to continued accumulation of Wabash A Preferred, which rose a point to 52⅝ on buying in expectation of the stock being placed on the dividend list within the next two weeks. Union Pacific rose ⅞ to 138½, and Southern Railway made a gain of ½ to 24½. Canadian Pacific rose a point to 181. The specialties were weak. Maxwell Motors falling 1⅞ to 77¼. Crucible Steel 1¼ to 71¾, and Baldwin Locomotive 1½ to 71⅝. There was continued accumulation of Steel Common, which rose ⅛ to 86½. Mexican Petroleum was in better demand, advancing a point to 96. Industrial Alcohol yielded 1½ to 129½, but recovered this loss in the next few minutes.

The floor of the exchange presented a deserted appearance in the late forenoon. Room traders had almost absolute control of price movements, and this element assumed an aggressive position on the bear side of the war order stocks, basing operations on the provisions of the administration emergency war measure which provides for a tax of 5 to 8 per cent on gross earnings of munition companies. All the stocks in this group were weak and sold at the lowest prices reached this year. Baldwin Locomotive fell 3 points in all to 69¾, Crucible Steel 3 points to 70, Industrial Alcohol 3¼ to 127¾, and Studebaker. Westinghouse and Maxwell Motor sold at material losses. The railway issues held firm, some of these issues making further fractional gains. Steel Common sold at 86¼. Activity was confined to about half a dozen issues. Money loaning at 3 per cent.

While dullness prevailed in many parts of the room in the late afternoon, some stocks developed a strong tone and made substantial gains. Reading was one of the strongest features, advancing to 97¾, a gain in all of a point. Mexican Petroleum, which sold at 95 earlier rose to 97. Wabash A Preferred continued in good demand and after reacting to 51⅝, advanced to above 52. The war order stocks showed a better tone, some traders buying back shares sold earlier in the day and causing moderate rallies.

The final tone was strong. Mexican Petroleum was the feature of the late dealings, advancing 3 points to 99, a gain in all of four points for the day. The railway issues were in scant supply and made good gains, with Reading the most active. Steel Government bonds unchanged; railroad and other bonds heavy.

MENKE'S DAILY SPORTING LETTER

(By Frank G. Menke).

New York, July 3.—The "layers" on the New York state tracks are reaping a golden harvest. Estimates place their average daily profit at between $35,000 and $50,000 since the ponies began romping around the Empire State circles, or along the straightaways.

Close to 100 "layers" are doing business. Splitting $35,000 to $50,000 among them means that their average daily income is from $350 to $500. That's a tidy little profit—and the dear, old public, as usual, assumes the goat role. Oh, yes, on some few occasions the "layers" have been hit—but those happenings are rare.

The "layers" are getting richer and the public poorer simply because of the uneven matching of horses in most of the races that have been run at the Jamaica, Belmont and Aqueduct tracks. Post time usually finds one class horse in a field of dubs; one real horse who is so far superior to his rivals that there is little chance or no comparison.

Odds on Favorites Common.

Therefore, the "layers" make that horse an odds-on favorite and usually lay only small odds against the next three or four good ones. In one race recently, with 13 horses entered, the favorite was a 1 to 2 shot. Rarely, in any race, is the favorite quoted at better than even money. Just a short time ago eight horses went to the post and the class horse was a 1 to 7 shot. Odds-on of 1 to 2, 1 to 3, and 1 to 5 have become so frequent that they no longer excite comment.

An instance of how the "layers" are cleaning up is shown in the results of two recent races:

Eight horses were entered in one field, with the favorite quoted at 1 to 3. The favorite in that race was beaten by a 4 to 1 shot. In a race shortly following a 1 to 4 favorite won.

"How did you break on those races?" we asked a "layer."

"Very well, thank you," he smiled. "We're all breaking ahead these days. And we'll continue to do it just so long as the track officials permit a class horse to race against a field of truckers. No matter which horse wins such a race we are ahead of the game. If the favorite wins, we, of course, lose what was laid on him. But our cleanup on the bets on the other horses that were beaten exceeds our losses on the favorite.

Layer Smiles—And Explains.

"When a long shot wins we very rarely get a beating. There are so many comparatively long shots in a race where the favorite is odds-on that the public doesn't go to anyone very strongly. It splits its bets on the field. Therefore, our loss when a long shot wins, usually is less than our profit on the other horses.

"The 'layer' paused, did a bit of pencilling on his pad and then submitted the [illegible].

"Now take the last two races," he said. (He had reference to the races we spoke about just above). "A total of $7,100 was bet with me on that first race $1,500 of it was at 1 to 3 that the favorite would win. The favorite lost. Therefore, I won that $1,500 and also $1,100 which was bet on the horse that I lost. The balance—$600 was laid on the horse that won. I quoted 5 to 2 against that steed, which means that I had to pay back $1,250, plus the $500 that was bet on the winner. I took in $3,100 on the race and paid back $1,750. My profit was $1,350.

"On that other race, where the 4 to 1 horse won, it was over $600. About $2,500 was bet with me on the race. In round figures $1,500 was wagered on the winner. I lost those bets, so I had to give back the $1,500 and also $1 for every $4 that had been bet on the odds-on winner. I paid back a total of $1,875, leaving me a profit of $625.

"So, you see," and the layer grinned once again, "it's pretty soft for us these days—pretty soft, indeed."

"Goats" Are Wailing.

"The 'goats' feel that the track officials are responsible for the beatings they are getting. It is their claim that the uneven matching of horses in most of the races gives them no chance to beat the 'layers.' If the odds-on favorite wins, so do the 'layers.' If the odds-on loses, the 'layers' wins anyhow. With him it is a case of heads he wins and tails the other fellow loses.

"The races ought to be more evenly matched," wailed one individual who has tried—and tried—and tried—to beat the layers—and failed. "The stunt of running one wonderful horse against a bunch of dubs is a farce. Naturally, the bulk of people will wager on the favorite. But even if they win four times out of six, they finish the day behind the games because their losses in two races, when betting on the odds-on horses, are far beyond their profits in the other four races.

"For instance, suppose you bet $10 on the favorite in all six races, with the average bet 1 to 4. If you win four races and lose two, you finish $10 to the bad for the day. Where's the percentage for anyone but the layer?"

For Grease Spots.

Balls made of fuller's earth and vinegar are good to keep on hand for removing grease spots from clothing and household material. Make a stiff paste of the fuller's earth and vinegar. Roll it into balls, and dry them. When a spot is to be removed dampen it and grate one of the balls over it. Leave this until it is dry, brush off the powder, and wash the mark with tepid water.

Hot Liners.

(By Frank G. Menke.)

A scent of lavender permeated the Cardinals and they were knocked unconscious.

The Tigers lost the fourth straight game to the White Sox. It was another nest of goose eggs.

The Indians rallied in the fifth, scored enough runs to lead the Browns and then the rain stopped further combat.

The Yankees and Giants played exhibition games Sunday and both received a fine coat of whitewash.

The Pirates and Reds did the gentleman act. Each won.

Much Wasted Money.

The economic importance of paleontology has been repeatedly shown in this country. In the earlier exploitation of anthracite coal thousands of dollars were fruitlessly expended in New York in search of coal beds until the New York geologists showed that the beds in that state could contain no coal. The fossils in the New York rocks exploited are of Devonian age, whereas the fossils of the Pennsylvanian anthracite coal beds belong to the Carboniferous, a much later period. This discovery at once stopped a useless expenditure of money.

Early Dynamos.

The principle of electro-magnetic induction, on which the operation of the dynamo-electric machine is based, was discovered by Michael Faraday of London in 1831. The first machine to give continuous current was that of Sir Charles Wheatstone, in England, in 1841. One of the earliest successful dynamos was that of Siemens, 1856. Gramme invented the ring winding in 1870.

J. HOWARD BERRY

PENNSYLVANIA ATHLETIC STAR TO TRAIN FOR AVIATION.

Philadelphia, Pa., July 3.—One by one Uncle Sam's star athletic performers are swinging into line for the threatened war with the Mexicans. The latest shining light of the cinderpath world to line up with the defenders of the flag is Howard Berry, twice winner of the Pentathlon event at the University of Pennsylvania relay games. Berry is not going to be any ordinary soldier, though, but will enter the aviation corps. The crack baseball player and track man is even now training to become a member of the flying unit which the State of Pennsylvania will send to the front with her troops, should war break out. None who have seen Berry's wonderful knack of mastering technique as illustrated by his work in various branches of college sport, will doubt for one minute his ability to become an aviator and a good one.

Preparedness.

Prepare yourselves for the great world, as the athletes used to do for their exercises: oil your mind and your manners, to give them the necessary suppleness and flexibility; strength alone will not do, as young people are too apt to think.—Chesterfield.
